Construction booms in first 10 months

Valley continues to grow...and grow...and grow

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A building boom unprecedented unequalled since the expansion years of the early 1960s has begun to change the face of the valley.

Building permits for nearly 2,000 homes, conservatively valued at $100 million, have been issued during the first 10 months of the year in cities and unincorporated areas on the Los Angeles side.

And while figures are still being compiled for the West End of San Bernardino County, officials there also expect a banner year in home construction.

Some Realtors and developers feel the boom in construction is making the valley proportionately one of the fastest growing areas not only in the state but also in the entire nation

"They may be building more homes in the Irvine-Mission Viejo area of Orange County, and in Houston, Texas," Developer Randy Lewis said. "But I think it is safe to say that the valley, proportionately, is right up there with them."

Lewis, director of marketing for Lewis Homes, a developer which is currently building homes in 10 locations throughout the valley, says homes have been moving twice as well this year as in 1975.

He said it was quite possible that by the end of the year the number of homes on both sides of the valley for which permits have been issued might reach 5,000.

Why the sudden surge in home construction here?

John E. Maulding, superintendent of building of Los Angeles County, feels the area "is the only way to go.

"Developers are running out of land closer to Los Angeles so they have to move out farther," he explained. "The Pomona Valley is the only place left where land prices have not yet moved out of sight."

Lewis feels buyers are "borrowing from past years and because of favorable conditions are investing ahead of time. For the past several years the home buying market was depressed, money was hard to get. Recently interest rates have dropped some what and people are taking advantage of it."

Mark Warren, president of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors, contends the valley is "the only place left where buyers can still get an occasional bargain." He says a home costing $45,000 here probably costs $65,000 to $70,000 in Orange County or the San Fernando Valley.

Another quake hits China

Not quite as bad as last one

TOKYO (AP) — A strong earthquake struck Peking today, rocking tall buildings and sending people screaming into the streets, according to reports from the Chinese capital. There was no immediate word of damage or casualties.

The National Earthquake Information Service in Golden, Colo., said the quake registered 6.5 on the Richter scale and the Seismological Institute in Uppsala, Sweden, rated it at 6.8. That would make it considerably weaker than the July 28 killer quake in Tangshan, southeast of Peking, but still capable of causing severe damage.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one whole number corresponds to a tenfold increase in ground motion. A reading of six is considered a strong quake, seven means a major earthquake.

Two playing football at school shot

Two Cucamonga men playing football at Cucamonga Elementary School Sunday were shot and seriously wounded following a verbal confrontation with several other men, according to West End Sheriff's deputies.

Michael Ralph Robinson, 19, shot in the left abdomen, was listed in fair condition this morning at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland, while Wayne Allen Carver, 18, was listed in satisfactory condition with a gunshot wound of the upper right thigh.

Deputies said the shooting occurred a short time after the men playing football got into an argument with three or four male Latins. Shortly afterwards one of the Latins wearing no shirt was observed climbing over a fence carrying a .22 caliber rifle. The gunman raised the rifle and shot Robinson. The other football players ran for cover and the gunman fired several other rounds, one hitting Carver in the thigh.

The lone gunman was described as a Latin, 5 feet 11, 130 pounds with black short hair.

AFTER THE VOTE

President-elect Jimmy Carter shakes hands with the roped-off crowd outside the Plains Baptist Church Sunday after the congregation voted to open its doors to all people and to keep the Rev. Bruce Edwards as pastor. Carter is a member of the church.

BREAKS ARMS

Rep. Morris K. Udall, unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, broke both arms over the weekend in a fall from a ladder at his suburban Virginia home. "1976 has not been my year," said the Arizona Democrat. His left arm is in a cast and his right arm in a sling.

Carter's church drops racial barriers

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter says that when his small Baptist church decided during an emotional meeting to drop racial barriers "I was just one of the church members."

He later welcomed a black man to a worship service.

Carter, according to his fellow Baptists, exerted no pressure during the two and three-quarter hour meeting Sunday. Nonetheless, the congregation voted to do what he has advocated since 1965.

It opened the church doors to all who want to worship, regardless of race. And it voted to retain the pastor who agreed with Carter's prointegration stand, The Rev. Mr. Bruce Edwards.

The church also set up a screening committee consisting of the pastor and four deacons to be elected by the congregation in about two weeks.

Carter said the committee would question prospective members "about whether their intent is sincere." He said "the understanding is that this will not be based on racial considerations."

Although Carter did not lobby heavily during the meeting to sway the vote, his status put another kind of pressure on the congregation, symbolized by the dozens of reporters and hundreds of tourists who waited outside the church in the rain for the decision.

"We felt the whole world was looking at Plains today," said one of the church's deacons, Frank Williams.

The church decision began a week for Carter in which he planned to hold a news conference today at the auditorium of the Southwest Georgia Agricultural Experimentation Station near here. Wednesday, he will meet with Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale and congressional leaders near Atlanta.

The church controversy was started by the Rev. Mr. Clennon King, a nondenominational minister from Albany, Ga., one-time Republican gubernatorial candidate and civil rights activist. Just before the Nov. 2 election, he tried unsuccessfully to join the church in a move many saw as an effort to embarrass Carter.

Sunday, he waited in the rain and said after the votes were announced, "I think it's wonderful. It vindicates the church. It vindicates the people of Plains."

Two hikers found near Crystal Lake

A missing La Verne youth and his companion from Covina were found this morning by sheriff's deputies after the pair failed to return from a hike in the Crystal Lake area of San Gabriel Canyon north of Azusa.

The youths, Bob Portuguse, 18, of La Verne, and Dale Parks, 17, of Covina, were found near the spot where their car was located Sunday evening. The vehicle, legally parked and with its doors locked, was located along Route 2 about two miles north of Highway 39.

Portuguse and Parks were reported missing when they failed to return home from their hike late Sunday afternoon. The search began then and was intensified this morning at daybreak with a sheriff's helicopter being used in addition to searchers on the ground.

The pair was located shortly after 9 a.m. and deputies were transporting them to the station in San Dimas. They were well and unhurt despite the chilly night spent in the open with temperatures dropping to around freezing.

Another hike in food prices seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers food prices next year could rise an average of 3 to 4 per cent, the same rate of increase as this year, a top Agriculture Department forecaster said today.

This year's 3 per cent increase in food prices has been the smallest year-to-year climb in five years, following leaps in both 1973 and 1974 of 14.5 per cent and an 8.5 per cent increase last year.

In terms of what a family spends on food, considering both groceries and meals eaten out, the increases have meant that what cost $10 in 1972 now costs $14.65. The forecast for 1977 means that the same $10 worth of food will cost between $15.09 and $15.24 a year from now.

Rex F. Daly of the Agriculture Department's Economic Research Service, who made the forecast, said "the band of uncertainty is wide" when it comes to predicting farmers' incomes. In the end, net farm income for 1977 could be pretty much the same as the 1976 average, Daly said.

The tentative forecasts came in remarks prepared for the opening of USDA's annual four-day conference on the outlook in the coming year for farmers, farm families and grocery buyers.

Daly's predictions, based on normal weather and no surprises in the world agricultural situation, are the first official ones from the department to cover all of 1977, instead of just the first six months.

The conference's estimates traditionally are hedged because so much depends on unpredictable weather in the grain belts this coming spring and again in July and August. Those are the critical growing months for the corn that feeds the animals that become the meat that makes up so large a chunk of the retail food dollar.

Supreme Court won't review Concorde ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to review circumstances of the government decision allowing commercial flights of the British-French supersonic jet Concorde to the United States.

The justices let stand a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Washington that Secretary of Transportation William T. Coleman Jr. acted within his authority in permitting the Concorde to operate on a trial basis at two U.S. airports.

Authorities in Fairfax County, Va., and Nassau County, N.Y., seeking to stop the Concorde flights, asked the high court to review circumstances of Coleman's decision.

Coleman last February gave permission to British Airways and Air France to fly the Concorde, the world's fastest passenger plane that crosses the Atlantic at twice the speed of sound, into Dulles International Airport in Virginia and John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York.

Claremont youth shot

A Claremont youth was in serious condition today, but alive, after having been deliberately shot by one of two hitchhikers who robbed him after he gave them a ride early this morning, Pomona police reported.

The victim, Kenneth C. Morandi, 17, was shot in the jaw with a .22-caliber pistol. The bullet shattered into fragments which were removed in surgery at Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he later was placed in the intensive-care unit.

Morandi picked up the two young men on Towne Avenue south of the San Bernardino Freeway. Shortly after they got in his car, one drew a pistol and ordered him to drive to Claremont. They reached Base Line Road when he was ordered to turn around and return to Pomona.

The victim was directed into an alley in the 800 block of E. La Verne Avenue where he was ordered from the car. He was searched and cash taken from his wallet.

Then the armed youth touched his temple with the muzzle of the pistol, withdrew it a few inches and fired.

Morandi said the blast jolted him, but he managed to run. He fled to a house nearby and asked its residents to call police. Police found his car still in the alley with the keys in the ignition.

The armed youth was described as black, 18 years old, 6 feet tall wearing a light-tan cap and white and purple checkered trousers.

FBI memo to be subpoenaed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a House committee investigating assassinations said today he will subpoena an FBI memo indicating Lee Harvey Oswald told Cuban officials he planned to kill President John F. Kennedy.

Rep. Thomas N. Downing, D-Va., said he is aware of the memo only through news reports.

But he said "I feel sure it was a request from his committee, established to probe the assassinations of Kennedy and civil rights leader Martin Luther King, that led to discovery of the memo."

Not statistically significant

Hayakawa's aides deny 'Juggling' poll figures

SACRAMENTO (AP) — S.I. Hayakawa's campaign managers say they didn't show reporters a late poll showing Hayakawa trailing Sen. John Tunney — but not because they were trying to manipulate the poll figures.

The reason was that the poll figures were "not statistically significant" because they were based on only 200 interviews in a single day, said Richard Woodward, who helped run Hayakawa's successful campaign.

Woodward and partner Jack McDowell issued a statement Sunday criticizing a Los Angeles Times story that said Woodward had admitted juggling the poll figures.

"We did not juggle any figures and, obviously, we did not admit doing any such thing," Woodward and McDowell said.

"We do not imply any intentional distortion on the part of the Times writer, but his unfortunate choice of words in reporting his personal conclusion has challenged the integrity of the firm of Woodward and McDowell."

The one-day poll was part of a larger private poll, released by the campaign to reporters on Oct. 30, the Saturday before the election.

Based on 1,200 interviews in the six days ending Oct. 28, it showed Republican Hayakawa leading Sen. John Tunney by 3 per cent.

That was approximately the margin in Hayakawa's 227,000-vote victory over the Democratic incumbent Nov. 2.

Woodward said reporters weren't shown a day-by-day breakdown in the poll, and no one asked for one.

But the campaign had a breakdown of polling interviews on each of the six days, and on Oct. 28 it showed Hayakawa trailing Tunney 48 to 42 per cent, with the rest undecided.

That was the day after Hayakawa's publicized remarks saying the United States should be willing to send troops to southern Africa to prevent a bloodbath, and should encourage uprisings in Eastern Europe and threaten to send troops there.

The reason reporters were shown only the six-day survey, Woodward said, was that the day-to-day samples were too small to be meaningful. The six-day poll was an average of all the daily polls.

"We took the most up-to-date figures we had over a statistically reliable period," Woodward said.

But he agreed it might have given the impression to reporters that the week-long poll reflected public opinion as of Oct. 28.

And on Oct. 28, in fact, Woodward himself showed a reporter the day-to-day figures of the private poll for the previous few days as an indication that Hayakawa was gaining ground.

Woodward said later polls bore out the Oct. 28 indication that Hayakawa fell behind after his post-debate remarks, but recovered before the election.

Hughes air mechanics delay strike

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — A strike deadline by airline mechanics for Hughes Airwest was extended 24 hours until midnight tonight after progress was reported at the bargaining table.

Both sides agreed to the 24-hour extension early today at the request of the National Mediation Board in Washington, D.C., where the negotiations are being held.

The agreement was announced by David H. Stowe, a member of the mediation board, shortly after mechanics walked off their jobs at midnight Sunday. Picketing had been underway for 20 to 30 minutes.

Fatal crash

SANTA ANA (AP) — The pilot and only occupant of a single-engine airplane was killed when his plane crashed in the Cleveland National Forest, an Orange County Fire Department spokesman said.

The spokesman said the accident occurred Sunday as the unidentifid pilot was trying to find his way out of a low layer of clouds. He hit a mountain south of Holy Jim Canyon.

Firemen were helped in retrieving the body by a crew from the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station.

Suspect jailed

OXNARD (AP)—An 18-year-old youth has been arrested for murder in connection with the strangulation death of a 17-year-old Oxnard High School student.

Fernando Jimnez, 18, was arrested Saturday after the body of Mona Cantu was discovered on the school grounds.

Her parents told police she was going to a football game Friday night with a girlfriend and then was to spend the night at the friend's house.

Youth killed

NORCO (AP) — An 11-year-old boy has been killed and his friend injured when a freshly-dug construction ditch caved in.

The dead boy was identified as Clay J. Hawkins. His friend, James Lantry, was buried to the waist Sunday but was rescued by firemen and released after he was examined at Corona Community Hospital.

Officials were unsure what caused the five-foot-deep ditch to collapse, but said several boys had been running along its rim.

Slasher trial

LOS ANGELES (AP—The trial of the man accused of the Skid Row Slasher murders was to resume today with more prosecution testimony about the nine killings that occurred between December 1974 and January 1975.

Vaughn Orrin Greenwood is charged with the murders, along with two others that occurred in 1964.

The Los Angeles Superior Court trial, expected to last five weeks, recessed Wednesday for the Veterans Day holiday.

Jail hanging

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A 47-year-old inmate at Central Jail has hanged himself, Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies say.

Samuel Quintana, 47, was found hanging in his cell late Saturday. He had used strips of blanket to commit suicide, deputies said.

Kidnap trauma

Chowchilla children still 'haunted' by nightmares

CHOWCHILLA (AP) — When the young victims of the nation's most bizarre kidnaping were freed four months ago, they handled the massive attention of reporters and townspeople with amazing aplomb.

After only a few hours of rest, the Chowchilla children told with surprising detail and coolness their individual stories of being in captivity for 27 hours, including 16 hours in a buried moving van.

But negative reactions have since developed among some of the children, showing up in nightmares and nervousness, parents say.

Judy Reynolds, 13, is bothered because her eighth grade classmates still treat her as "one of those kids." Her sister Becky, 10, finds herself uncharacteristically shy.

"Sometimes I really need to talk about it and how I am feeling," Judy says. "Sometimes I don't want to talk about it at all."

Their mother Evelyn quit her night job as a convalescent hospital aide because the girls began having violent nightmares.

"My kids are more important," Mrs. Reynolds says.

"Most of the children are different," she adds. "Most of us could use a psychologist, and some even a psychiatrist. It sure would help. But we just can't afford things like that."

Mrs. Reynolds says she and her husband have become more irritable since the trauma of the July 15 abductions.

"I've been feeling so low," she says. "I go into depressed moods. I'd like to get away and forget about it all."

But Judy points out: "Momma, you know anywhere we go, they're still talking about it."

Jennifer and Jeffrey Brown, who with their mother, Joan, have been the Chowchilla victims most accessible for interviews, have nevertheless experienced some behavior problems, Mrs. Brown says.

Jennifer, 9, has nightmares, and Jeff, 11, gets nervous when he rides the bus home from school each day. The children were abducted from a bus taking them home from summer school.

Their father, John Brown III, sometimes leaves the house for several hours to avoid having to talk about the experience, but their mother is writing a book about her feelings during the period the children were kidnaped.

An airplane flight to Disneyland for the children with a Southern California Lions Club serving as hosts kept Andrea Park, 8, from developing emotional problems, says her mother, Janice.

"They didn't talk about the kidnaping," Mrs. Park said. "Over and over they told the kids, 'You're here because we love you and we care about you. You're special.' It really worked on Andrea."

Seemingly least affected by the trauma are the four pre-teen daughters of Celia Carrejo, all of whom were on the bus. Mrs. Carrejo says the girls seem untouched by the experience, perhaps because they keep active as a group making up and performing dances and singing with their mother.

Other children who were on the bus that day face crises unrelated to the kidnaping, particulary Jody Matheny, 10.

A progressive eye ailment is gradually blinding Jody, and he takes a Braille typewriter to school. His family's chief concern is not making Jody adjust to the kidnaping but helping him get prepared for the time when he will be sightless.

For Alaska pipeline

Obispo oil site rated over Southland spot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A report prepared by the state Office of Planning and Research says San Luis Obispo Bay may be a more suitable site for an offshore receiving terminal for Alaskan oil than the Port of Long Beach.

The report, published Saturday by the Los Angeles Times, did not endorse the idea but said if the proposed Long Beach terminal does not meet environmental standards, the San Luis Obispo Bay site merits further study.

The Times said the memo is expected to bring additional pressure on Standard Oil of Ohio, which proposed the Long Beach facility, to more thoroughly investigate possible offshore terminal sites.

The state Air Resources Board has charged that a terminal in Long Beach would add to air pollution. Sohio claims it can reduce emissions from other pollution sources in the Long Beach area, thereby trading off air quality effects.

The Times said Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s special assistant for environmental protection, Eli Chernow, has warned Sohio in a letter that he doubts the firm could make significant trade-offs.

Long Beach authorities have favored the plan to locate a terminal off their shores because of revenues that would go to the city.

Potential sites according to the report would be off the northwest Santa Barbara County shore.

Four killed in separate auto mishaps

By The Associated Press

A Los Angeles man was killed today and his rider was injured when the car he was driving went out of control on the Golden State freeway and crashed into the Los Angeles River.

The California Highway Patrol said the driver, whose identity was being withheld pending notification of next of kin, was traveling at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred in Glendale near the Colorado Boulevard extension.

The car hit a guardrail, bounced back into the center of the freeway, then veered off and went into the river, the CHP said.

A woman passenger was hospitalized with major injuries.

On Sunday, three men were killed when their car slid across the center line on California 74 near Sun City, and was hit broadside by a pickup truck.

The California Highway Patrol said the car had Washington license plates but there was no identification.

The driver of the truck, Gordon Anderson of Wrightwood, and his wife, Betty, were hospitalized for what were described as moderate injuries.

Spotlight on area crime

Off-duty officer gunman target

An off-duty California State Police officer checking a suspicious vehicle parked near the Jolly Jug bar, 5065 W. Holt Blvd. in Montclair early this morning was accosted by two men and shot at several times, Montclair police reported.

Officer Jimmie Dean Dee Dolen, told Montclair officers he was in the bar about 1:36 a.m. when a customer approached him and said he knew he was a police officer. The customer told the officer that two men, possibly armed, were in the bar and acting suspiciously.

Dolen said he went outside and was writing down the license number of the men's car when they approached him and demanded he hand over the paper he was writing on. Dolen said he refused and one of the men drew a revolver. Dolen, unarmed, ran for cover. The man fired three rounds at him and missed. The two men sped off in the vehicle.

Dolen described his assailants as being whites, 25 to 27 years of age. One was 5 feet 10, 180 pounds, and clean shaven. He was wearing a three-quarter length coat, high heeled brown shoes and had a gold ring with large green stone on his left hand. The other man was wearing a long sleeved green shirt with grey pants. He was armed with a .32 caliber pistol.

Dairy robbed

A lone gunman wearing a blue plaid shirt robbed the Scott Brothers Dairy Store at 12000 East End Ave. in Chino of a small amount of cash Saturday evening, West End Sheriff's deputies reported.

Deputies said the gunman walked into the store and confronted the clerk with a revolver. The gunman took the cash and fled.

The robber was described as a Latin, 19 to 23, 5 feet 8, of medium build. He was clean shaven wearing the blue plaid shirt and dark green pants.

Window smashed

Jack Wantz, owner of a custom jewelry store in the 300 block of East C St. in Upland reported that a thief smashed the window of his business Sunday morning and made off with a set of torquoise jewelry valued at $2,000.

Peace army moves into Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian troops and tanks of the Arab League peacekeeping army rolled into Beirut today to complete the occupation of the Lebanese capital and try to end 19 months of civil war.

Syrian patrols strode through the city's streets taking over Christian and Moslem positions. Rightist Christian fighters met them with dull resentment but no resistance. Palestinian street fighters first responded with scattered sniping, then occasional embraces and fraternal smiles. Civilians came out of their homes chanting "Welcome" and embracing the occupiers.

Spokesmen for the warring Lebanese and Palestinian factions said the takeover was a 99 per cent success by midmorning, with the Syrians in control of the radio and television stations, the central bank and government offices, and the no man's land dividing the city.

The airport highway was taken over from Palestinian guerrillas. Officials said the airport would be ready to operate again within a week for any airline willing to resume flights here. It has been closed for five months.

It was the first time the Lebanese capital has been occupied by a foreign power since U.S. Marines landed here in 1958 to stop another civil war.

Syrian forces were also moving into other areas of western Lebanon. One armored brigade penetrated deep inside the 800-square-mile Christian enclave north of Beirut to take over the Byblos coastal region 30 miles from the capital and Kiserwan, a mountain district.

A Syrian-Sudanese contingent advanced into the Chouf mountain area southeast of Beirut, the stronghold of Socialist leader Kamal Jumblatt's Druze Moslems.

There was no word, however, of Syrian penetration into Moslem-held Tripoli and Sidon, 60 miles north and 25 miles south of Beirut. The Syrians also were staying away from the southern border, apparently to avoid friction with Israel.

Heavy machine-gun fire and artillery and rocket explosions that began during the night still shook Beirut as the 6,000 Syrian troops and 400 tanks, many decorated with roses and olive branches, moved into the city from the north, east and south at dawn. The fighting later subsided.

Jubilant residents rushed to balconies and lined the steets to greet the Syrians with chants of "ahlan wasahlan," Arabic for welcome. Housewives tossed rice on the camouflaged tanks and sprayed crews with rose water as they rumbled into an area of fashionable cafes. One man climbed onto a Syrian jeep and kissed two young soldiers.

Two other mechanized brigades of 6,000 Syrian troops backed by 200 tanks ringed the capital, and Syria's air force was put on alert to help quell any resistance, an Arab League spokesman said.

MAMIE AND HER MINISTER

Mamie celebrates her 80th birthday

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former First Lady Mamie Eisenhower has celebrated a quiet 80th birthday, listening to her favorite hymns at a church service and spending the day with her grandchildren.

A children's choir sang "That Old Time Religion" and "Brighten The Corner" at a special service at the 400-seat First Presbyterian Church, which was filled to capacity Sunday.

The children's choir also treated Mrs. Eisenhower to a chorus of "Happy Birthday," as did about 50 well-wishers who awaited the Eisenhower family as they left the church.

Mrs. Eisenhower was accompanied to the services by her son, John, and his wife, Barbara, and their four children, including David Eisenhower and his wife, Julie Nixon Eisenhower.

Group bitterly opposes freeing of ex-SS officer

ROME (AP) — Jews, leftists and relatives of the 335 victims of the Ardeatine Caves massacre vowed today to do all they could to prevent former SS officer Herbert Kappler from being returned to his native Germany to die.

Kappler, incurably ill with cancer of the rectum and weighing only 84 pounds, has been in the Celio Military Hospital for 10 months. A military tribunal recommended to Defense Minister Vito Lattanzio Saturday that the former Nazi security police chief of Rome be given a conditional release after serving 28 years of his life sentence.

There was no indication when Lattanzio might decide whether to let the 69-year-old man go home to die.

Kappler issued the orders for the execution on March 24, 1944, of 335 Romans in retaliation for the killing of 32 German soldiers the day before by Italian partisans. Seventy of those executed were Jewish.

The court that sentenced Kappler in 1948 ruled that he was carrying out orders when he ordered 320 persons shot, since the Nazi policy was 10 Italians killed for every German victim. But the court found Kappler directly responsible for the other 15 executed. He said their deaths were a mistake due to the confusion.

Some 4,000 people marched Sunday to the Ardeatine Caves where Kappler's victims are buried, and 250 more demonstrated outside the hospital.

Police stopped 50 of the demonstrators who smashed a gate and tried to enter the hospital. But later two relatives of the massacre victims were allowed to see Kappler to dispel rumors that the report of his illness was a hoax and that he was already out of Italy.

"It is Kappler, even if he does look rather like a ghost," Marco Moscati reported to the crowd outside the hospital.

The other witness, Rosetta Stamme, said: "He was unshaven, his face like a skull. He saw us, then he bowed his head."

Franco Cuttica, Kappler's attorney, told reporters:

"Kappler was glad that some among the protesters could see him and his condition. If they asked him to go and kneel on the tombs of the victims, he would go."

Cuttica said Kappler could hear the demonstrators shouting, "We have not forgiven you" and "Kappler has been sold for German money."

"He realizes that these reactions can be justified," the attorney said. "He knows that his repentance is no consolation for the loss of loved ones."

A dozen of the demonstrators stayed on watch all night outside the hospital to make sure Kappler was not spirited away.

Wintry storm hits Sierras with snow

By The Associated Press

Winter isn't officially here until Dec. 21 but that didn't stop a wintry storm from hitting the Sierras and much of Nevada Sunday.

Up to eight inches of snow was measured on Echo Summit west of South Lake Tahoe, Calif.

Chains or snowtires were required on Interstate 80 over Donner Summit in California and on the Mt. Rose Highway in Nevada for the first time this season.

Highway patrol officers in both states reported many fender-bender car accidents but no major mishaps.

The storm was welcomed by many Northern California ranchers who had been caught in a lengthy drought.

Skiers and ski resort operators also welcomed the storm and hoped for more snow so that the ski season in the Sierras could start as early as Thanksgiving this year.

Four union leaders sentenced to jail

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Four union leaders have gone to jail because Springfield fire fighters refused to obey a court injunction against their strike.

The union leaders entered jail Sunday after Judge Richard Cadagin of Circuit Court handed down 30-day terms — and a $5,000 fine against the union — for contempt of court.

Thomas Sonneborn, a lawyer for Local 37 of the International Association of Firefighters, said he would ask Cadagin today to vacate his order jailing the four.

If the request is denied, Sonneborn said he would file an appeal and ask for the fire fighters' release on bond pending a decision.

Before the judge issued the sentences on Saturday, the firemen offered to return to work if the City Council agreed that none of them would lose their jobs because of the strike. They also asked for an arbitration board in the dispute.

The proposals were rejected.

The city has been without its regular 156-man fire department since Thursday, but striking firemen have traveled to potentially dangerous blazes in their private autos to help the handful of ranking fire officials still on duty. There have been no major fires.

The jailed men were Rex McCawley, Local 37 president, and vice president Steve Stadtman, treasurer Tom Blough and secretary Larry Schafer.

Building boom...

Anticipating the move to the east, Ralph Lewis, president of Lewis Homes, says his company has bought sizable parcels of land east of Alta Loma and Cucamonga at today's prices, so that when those parcels are developed he will be able to sell them a little cheaper than his competitors.

Overshadowed by the general boom is the fact that the City of Walnut led all other cities in the county, except Los Angeles, in the number of construction permits issued by the county in October.

The county's building department issued a total of 234 permits — including 218 for new homes — to that city, for a total valuation of $7,793,860, by far the biggest month in the history of Walnut

The county also noted that Walnut's building permits for the 10-month period ending 31 Oct. covered construction work worth $17,921,390, another record for the city. But here, the city was outdone by La Verne, whose 10-month valuations based on the building permits, came to a total of $18,361,210. For the first 10 months of last year the value of La Verne's permits amounted to $4,231,650, and Walnut's to $7,461,200.

As for other cities on the Los Angeles side of the valley Claremont recorded $12,819,190 worth of permits so far this year, compared with $5,514,950 last year, San Dimas showed $8,334,580 this year compared with $4,232,511 last year, and Pomona, $7,032,370, compared with last year's $5,965,763.

A very large increase was shown by the county for its unincorporated areas served by the San Dimas office. Building permits were issued for construction valued at $31,011,568 this year, compared with $21,878,674 for the same period in 1975 for areas in San Dimas, Diamond Bar, portions of the Walnut area and the unincorporated areas around La Verne and Claremont.

And the pressure to build on keeps growing. Only last month the Regional Planning Commission received two applications to build nearly 1,400 homes in the west Diamond Bar area. And the Pomona building department is expecting the owners of Phillips Ranch to make applications for the construction of more than 2,000 homes within the next year.

Randy Lewis says he expects the boom to continue for perhaps another six months. He thinks money will become harder to get next summer.

"You'd be surprised how much of a damper tight money is on the construction industry," he declared. "The lender goes up one per cent and things come to a halt."

Moreover, bargain prices for land here are expected to stop soon, and that will cut down the movement of those from Orange County and the rest of Los Angeles County who have sought and found better homes here for lower costs.

"With the way the cost of construction is going up," Warren said, "it won't be long before only the most fortunate families will be able to afford homes here. And that goes not only for new homes but others as well. Families which can't afford to buy homes today will certainly not be able to buy them tomorrow."

Yet indications are that the building boom will continue at least through the next two years. Lewis doesn't expect to develop his newly bought land for a couple of years. And two other developers in the valley, Everett Hughes and Dan Murray, have enough tentative maps in their files to continue building for the next three years.

Perhaps the biggest problem developers face is not the financing but the insistence of city councils here for expensive high quality homes.

"They (the councils) want $65,000 and $75,000 homes," Warren shrugged. "They don't want any less expensive dwelling units. Who will buy those homes? How many families can afford a monthly payment of $600 to $750?"

Sea search called off

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Coast Guard has called off its search for 18 crewman missing in the Pacific Ocean since a lumber ship sank last Thursday.

The Coast Guard air and sea search covered 1,000 square miles around sunken ship before being suspended late Sunday. The missing sailors were presumed drowned.

The ship, Carnelian-1, sank last Thursday 1,400 miles northwest of Hawaii in the worst Pacific's weather of the year. The crewmen were seen bobbing amidst 20-to 30-foot waves, clinging to the ship's floating cargo of logs.

Fourteen crewmen were rescued by two nearby merchant ships, but high seas and 40 to 60 mile per hour winds hampered the search. One life-jacketed crewman was found dead in the water.

According to the West Coast agent for the Carnelian-1, the crew consisted of 18 Chinese and 15 Burmese. The ship was owned by a Panamanian company and chartered by a Japanese company to transport logs from Washington state to Japan.

"It would be impossible for anybody to survive out there with 55-degree water and the seas the way they were," said Forest Telfer, a Coast Guard spokesman.

Brezhnev greeted by Yugoslavia's Tito

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev arrived today for a three-day visit and welcoming bear hugs from President Tito, who is expected to seek reaffirmation of Yugoslav independence from Soviet domination.

The 84-year-old president, looking thinner than he did before his recent illness, stepped forward to meet the Soviet leader as Brezhnev's limousine pulled up at the carpeted ramp in front of the White Palace. The two spread their arms, kissed and exchanged three bear hugs.

Tito and Brezhnev, dressed in topcoats, gave each other broad smiles and were evidently in a good mood for the visit which Yugoslavia officially characterized as "friendly."

Stane Dolanc, secretary of the executive committee of the Presidium of the Yugoslav Communist party, and other high-ranking officials met the Soviet leader's plane when it arrived at the commercial airport here.

Because of his advanced age, Tito stopped going to the airport to welcome state visitors two years ago. Some observers considered it significant that he made an exception for two leaders since then — President Ford in August 1975 and Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu in September 1976. But he came down with liver trouble after Ceausescu's visit and did not resume his duties until two weeks ago.

Two shot to death

A La Puente man and a 16-year-old La Puente youth were found shot to death in a van parked in El Monte Sunday — apparently partners in a murder-suicide pact, police reported.

The discovery was made when police arrived to investigate blood dripping from the rear of the van. Inside they found the bodies of Roy Louis Gallardo, 36, and Joseph Ochoa Espinoza, 16.

Police said the deaths may have been the result of a murder-suicide pact although no notes were found. Each man had been shot in the head and a pistol was found in Gallardo's hand, according to police.

Pomona man listed critical

A Pomona man was critically injured in a spectacular one-car accident early Sunday morning on the San Bernardino Freeway west of Garey Avenue, Pomona.

Stephen B. Longabach, 30, of 1960 Palmgrove Ave., was eastbound on the freeway when he apparently fell asleep, according to the highway patrol. The car struck the curb, hit a metal guard rail and flew into the air, striking a metal light pole nine feet up and crashing to the road on its top.

Longabach was reported in critical condition at the Pomona Valley Community Hospital this morning. He suffered a skull fracture and other injuries.

Patient found dead in house

A patient missing from a Pomona center for emotionally disturbed persons was found dead in a house nearby early Sunday by police who followed a trail of blood to the place.

The victim, Stephen Coker, 22, of Pomona, fled the center, Olive Vista, at 2350 Culver Court, by crashing through a plate glass sliding door. His body was found in a bedroom of the residence at 889 Diana Ave. where police said he had forced his way inside while no one was home.

It was not determined immediately if Coker died as the result of injuries suffered leaping through the glass door or possibly may have cut himself with a knife inside the residence, officers reported. An autopsy was ordered.

State trooper kidnaped, slain

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — A Virginia state trooper was kidnaped in his cruiser today and shot to death in an abduction that ended in gunfire at a roadblock in North Carolina, the North Carolina Highway Patrol reported.

The dead trooper was identified as Garland W. Fisher Jr., 33. Col. E. W. Jones, head of the North Carolina patrol, said the alleged kidnaper, Reuben Conley, also 33, of Atlanta, was wounded at a roadblock 10 miles north of here.

Conley was brought to the emergency room of Duke Hospital here, Jones said. He was in police custody, officials said, but they would not say if formal charges had been filed against him.

Col. Jones gave this account:

Trooper Fisher was kidnaped near Petersburg, Va., after stopping a suspicious car. The car he stopped later was found in the area.

"I understand the Virginia trooper was able to call his headquarters on his radio and tell them he had been shot and kidnaped, and that the man was forcing him to drive to Atlanta," Jones said.

North Carolina authorities used a tractor-trailer rig to block the south bound lanes of Interstate 85 in Granville County in north-central North Carolina, near the Virginia line. Shooting erupted as Fisher's patrol car approached about 1 a.m.

Jones said it was not clear whether Fisher died from a wound suffered when he was abducted, or whether he was shot again by his captor or was hit accidentally by gunfire at the roadblock.

Jones said Fisher's captor was believed armed with two weapons. He declined to give details about what prompted the shootout at the roadblock.

"I understand he (Conley) was wounded three times," Jones said. "He is in stable condition."

FBI agents and representatives of the North Carolina Highway Patrol and other police agencies questioned Conley at the Duke hospital.

French film star succumbs

PARIS (AP) — Jean Gabin, one of the biggest and most durable stars of the French film world, died this morning at the American Hospital after a heart attack. He was 72, had spent 54 years in the entertainment world and had made about 100 movies.

Gabin entered the hospital in suburban Neuilly Saturday evening, suffering from very high blood pressure.

His notable film appearances included the determined-to-survive foot soldier in "Grand Illusion," Jean Valjean in "Les Miserables," Georges Simenon's Inspector Maigret, the Algerian outlaw Pepe le Moko, "Crime and Punishment," the Mafia chief in "The Sicilian Clan," and the embittered old husband in "The Cat," for which he received the Best Actor Award at the 1971 Berlin Film Festival.

Born Jean-Alexis Moncorge, Gabin took the stage name of his father, a music hall entertainer, when he himself went on the stage. His mother was a singer.

After working as a mason and warehouse clerk, Gabin gave in to parental urging in 1922 and tried the entertainment field, starting with a walk-on role in the Folies Bergere.

He sang in a revue with Mistinguette, appeared in music halls alongside Fernandel, Bourvil and Raimu, and worked in operettas.

Turning to the movies in 1930 at the start of the talking picture era, he abandoned the stage and devoted himself exclusively to the new medium.

One of his directors, the great Jean Renoir, said of him: "Jean Gabin does not fit into the skin of a character, he composes the character and creates it from the start. The extent of emotions he can furnish is immense. His whole art is in delivering only the essential."

Away from the film set, Gabin refused to play the part of a star. He wanted only the company of his family and a few friends and said, "It's too tiresome to be friendly."

UPS strike unsettled

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The status of a 2-month-old strike against United Parcel Service (UPS) in 15 eastern states remained uncertain today with no confirmation that a tentative agreement was reached late last week.

The Teamsters Union strike has swamped the U.S. Postal Service with a package load more than double its normal pre-Christmas crush in 15 states from Maine to South Carolina since the strike began Sept. 15.

More than 17,000 employes of the private delivery service based in Greenwich, Conn., are affected by the dispute, which involves job protection issues and pensions for parttime workers.

The union is concerned over management's increasing use of parttime employes to replace fulltime workers through attrition.

The average hourly wage for UPS workers is $7, the company says.

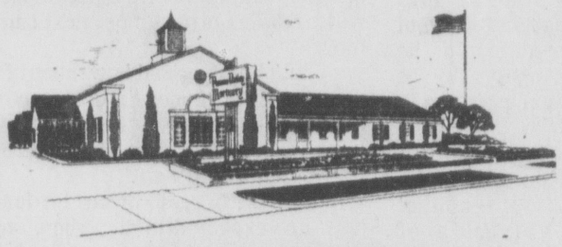

The report of a tentative agreement to end the strike came from Washington, where negotiations took place last week.

While the post office has hired extra employes and scheduled a great deal of overtime, delivery delays of varying lengths have been reported by businesses throughout the region.

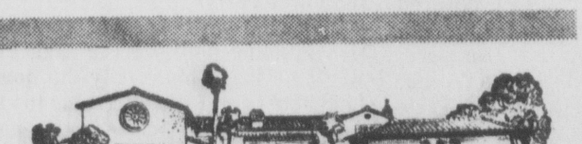

Some shippers say deliveries have been more or less on schedule but costs have risen over what they would have been if UPS delivered their packages.

At least one UPS competitor, Greyhound Bus Lines, says it's enjoying a business boom because of the UPS strike.

A general statement of the scope and objectives of the proposed Redevelopment Plan for the Mountain Meadows Project Area is as follows:

The general objective of the Mountain Meadows Redevelopment Plan is to eliminate blight within the Project Area. Specific objectives to be accomplished by this plan are:

1. The elimination of those conditions which are causing economic disuse and dislocation in Project area.
2. The assemblage and provision of land which is suitable for use of new residential developments which will improve economic conditions in the Project Area.
3. The enhancement of the visual image of a major area of the City of which the community can be proud.
4. To establish landscaping and structural conditions on the reuses in accordance with modern and competitive development practices.
5. Providing for the assembly of parcels which are adequate in size, configuration and contain reasonable access to streets and utilities so as to encourage new construction through private investment, thereby enhancing opportunities for the development of the Project Area into a viable, master planned residential entity.

On the day and at the hour and place above specified, all persons having any objections to the proposed Redevelopment Plan or who deny the existence of blight in the proposed Redevelopment Project Area or the regularity of any of the prior proceedings may appear and show cause why the Redevelopment Plan should not be adopted. Those persons who wish to express support for the Plan may also appear and be heard at that time.

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Jim: "I learned bridge while you were in Korea and I was at Notre Dame. When you got home and took off your uniform, I remember you taught me the importance of learning the single-suit plays."

Oswald: "These are the plays where declarer wants to do the best he can with a single suit. Maybe we should show some of them this week."

Jim: "Let's start with an easy one. South is in a normal three-notrump contract. The key suit is spades and South needs four spade tricks. At some stage of the play he goes to dummy with the ace of hearts to take the spade finesse."

Oswald: "If it loses to the king the contract is doomed to defeat, but there is his majesty perched in the East hand and the finesse will work."

Jim: "Nevertheless he must be careful to start the spades by leading the nine from dummy. If he makes a mistake and leads the jack East can beat him by refusing to cover. He must play the six spot from his hand. Then, when the nine is led next, East holds back again, South must win in his own hand and can't lead through the king for the third time."

Ask the Jacobys

A Florida reader says that she averaged just 8.3 highcard points a hand after keeping count for 540 hands. She wants to know if she is unlucky.

The answer is that if her count was accurate she really was in a streak of very bad luck, but somehow or other we doubt if her count was accurate.

Stitches in time

U. S. may push for major shift in NATO strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The return of a Senate mission from abroad this weekend may bring renewed pressure for a major shift in strategy for the defense of Western Europe against massive Soviet attack.

Heading the mission is Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., whose views are said to carry considerable weight with President-elect Jimmy Carter, a fellow Georgian.

Nunn, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, has questioned current strategy that assumes NATO forces would have about three weeks of warning of a Soviet attack and could fight a holding action for up to 60 days while reinforcements flow in from the United States.

Rejecting these assumptions as unrealistic, Nunn has said the Warsaw Pact armies, credited with a nearly three-to-one advantage in tanks and a two-to-one edge in artillery, are prepared to wage a short war after only a few days of intelligence warning with the aim of overwhelming NATO forces before they can be built up.

Nunn has urged that NATO strategy be revamped to fight such a short war "while retaining sufficient hedges to deal with a war of extended duration." He is reported to agree with the basic position taken by Army Lt. Gen. James Hollingsworth, who studied NATO defenses before he retired earlier this year.

Hollingsworth, who accompanied Nunn on the two-week Senate mission, turned in a secret report to Army leaders. Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld and Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, have been briefed on its contents.

Sources say the Hollingsworth report anticipates about two days of attack warning and recommends moving NATO's forces, including the 182,000-man U.S. Seventh Army, closer to the East German border.

The retired three-star general also is said to have recommended a major increase in allied artillery and missile firepower to enable NATO forces to halt attacking Russian and East European armies near the East German frontier.

Hollingsworth's report has not been received with unanimous enthusiasm in the Pentagon. Military and civilian officials stress it would be very costly to reposition the Seventh Army and move its huge stocks of ammunition and other supplies.

Like others before him, Hollingsworth is also said to feel that the NATO defense line in North Germany should be strengthened.

A former Defense Intelligence Agency analyst, writing in the current issue of Army magazine, says that Soviet planners expect their armies to reach the English Channel objectives in 14 days or less after the opening attack.

Canyon residents wanted out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Final vote totals indicate that a majority of northwest Los Angeles County residents wanted to carve themselves a new county but were stopped by massive opposition of those from whom they wanted to separate.

The vote against creation of Canyon County was 68.2 per cent of the ballots cast on the measure. But counts showed Wednesday that voters inside the would-be county balloted 55.3 per cent for seccession.

Get set to save on heating costs.

Set your thermostat at 68° instead of 72° and save! If you're in the habit of keeping your thermostat at 72°, you're wasting money.

Because with a slight flick of the wrist to the left, you can move the needle to 68°. And move your heating costs about 28% lower.

There are other ways to lower heating costs, too.

Properly insulate your attic. With proper insulation you can reduce heating costs substantially. You'll also save on air conditioning costs. Based on today's prices, properly insulating an attic in a typical house runs between $200 and $300.

And what better place to invest your money than in your own home? It's a sensible long-term investment. So call an insulation contractor.

Some more ways to lower heating costs and save energy. Lower your heat setting or turn it off when you're away from home. However, in areas where freezing may occur, a 40° thermostat setting is advisable.

Weather-strip your doors and windows. Close your draperies and curtains to keep heat in. Keep the fireplace damper closed as well as vents in rooms not being used. Make sure your filters are clean. Maybe they even need replacing.

Dirty return-air grilles and warm air ducts can cost you, too. And if you have electric radiant heating it will be worth your while when you are home to turn off thermostats in rooms not being used.

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Nov. 15, the 320th day of 1976. There are 46 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1777, the Articles of Confederation were approved by the American Continental Congress. The document was the law of the land until the Constitution went into effect.

On this date:

In 1492, Christopher Columbus noted in his journal the use of tobacco among the Indians. It was the first recorded reference to tobacco.

In 1805, the Lewis and Clark expedition reached the mouth of the Columbia River after a long trek across the West.

In 1806, Pike's Peak in Colorado was discovered by the explorer, Zebulon Montgomery Pike.

In 1889, the Republic of Brazil was founded.

In 1935, Manuel Quzon was inaugurated as the first president of the Philippine Commonwealth.

In 1969, 250,000 protestors against the Vietnam War staged a peaceful demonstration in Washington.

Ten years ago: An American commercial cargo plane with seven tons of mail crashed inside Communist East Germany, killing all three crewmen.

Five years ago: Communist China, making its first statement in the United Nations General Assembly, demanded that the U.N. reduce the influence of the superpowers.

One year ago: President Ford arrived in Paris for a six-nation summit meeting on Western economic policy.

Today's birthdays: Diplomat Averell Harriman is 85. Singer Petula Clark is 42.

Thought for today: "Gray hair is a sign of age, not of wisdom."

Health care in rural South still inadequate

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Despite the economic boom in the South, adequate health care remains a serious problem for the area's rural poor, many of whom see doctors only rarely — if at all.

"There are a lot of people who don't have enough contact with the rest of the world even to know when they are seriously ill," said Dr. Raymond Wheeler, Charlotte, N.C.

Wheeler, a past-president of the Southern Regional Council, told the Southern Rural Health Conference that education for these persons is as important as health care — or, at least, must come first.

Nearly half the nation's poor live in 13, largely rural Southern states. And Dr. Ray Marshall of the University of Texas says the New South, the industrial South, has masked many of its problems in the health field behind industrial promotion.

"We hear a lot of talk about how prosperous the South, the so-called Sunbelt, has become," he said. "That conceals the fact that we have whole areas that seem to be completely left out of this progress."

Wheeler said, "Economic development in the rural South is intimately related to the development of an effective health care delivery system."

The health conference reported: "The first order of business initiating these ... changes is the implementation of universal, comprehensive, national health insurance."

Such insurance, along with Medicaid and Medicare, must pay nurses and physician assistants who are the only medical contacts that many rural areas have, the conference reported. At present, Medicare will make payments only to doctors.

Laws of the various states specify who gets Medicaid payments, for the needy, but in most cases physicians must be present or must supervise the nurses or physician assistants — and, again, the payments go to the physicians.

Unless the laws are changed to permit payments to non-physicians, said Marshall, "It will be very difficult for many of these clinics ... to extend health care to these remote areas. You can't get a doctor in a town of 500."

Physicians have lobbied against direct payments to non-physicians involved in health care programs and against national health insurance. But the conference went on record as saying national health insurance is the necessary first step toward improving health care in the rural South.

The conference cited a preliminary task force report on rural Southern health, which showed:

—The death rate in the Rural South generally is 22 per cent higher than the national average.

—Infant deaths in the rural South are higher than in the rest of the nation but "for rural blacks the rate is 64 per cent higher than that of their white neighbors."

—In some areas of the South, doctors still have segregated waiting rooms for blacks and whites.

"Unfortunately, access to medical care in this nation depends on one's ability to pay for it and upon the availability of adequate health resources," said the report.

The problem is compounded by what the conference called "a disturbing decrease in black enrollment" in medical schools. Unless this trend is reversed, the report said, "it may be difficult to recruit medical professionals to meet health needs of minorities in certain areas of the South."

States represented at the conference were Alabama, Arkansas, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico.

Yonkers, like N.Y. in financial crisis, now on rapid road to full recovery

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — This city, which a year ago fell victim to the same financial crisis that hit its giant neighbor New York City, is already well on the road back to solvency.

In November 1975, the state declared Yonkers to be in a state of financial emergency. A few weeks earlier the bond market had shut its doors on the city. Like New York City two months earlier, it narrowly escaped default by accepting the rule of a state-dominated Emergency Financial Control Board that monitors all spending by Yonkers.

Since then, the city has boosted sales taxes (now 8 per cent) and property taxes (up 13 per cent), balanced its budget, laid off about 1,000 workers (leaving some 3,200), eliminated its short-term debt, and re-entered the credit market with the sale of an $83.6 million bond.

With its budget reduced — it's down $11 million to $126.7 million — and increased tax revenues, Yonkers has turned a $9 million deficit in fiscal 1976 into an $11 million surplus in the current year.

The problems that a year ago turned Yonkers into a financial basket case were almost identical to those of New York City, although on a much smaller scale, says John Feeney, the state deputy comptroller who monitors the city's affairs for the control board.

The first, he says, was "a heavy reliance on short-term borrowing, which grew to $42 million. The city just assumed that the credit markets would be forever open. This was the rock around Yonkers' neck."

While the $42 million in short-term debt is nowhere near the $5 billion debt accumulated by New York City, it was still enough to threaten default when the bond market closed to Yonkers.

Second, "The city really did not budget realistically. The city was following a long-standing practice of overestimating revenues."

Further, with the aid of special state legislation, Yonkers had issued short-term notes to balance budget deficits in 1969 and 1971.

For these fiscal sins, Yonkers faced default on Nov. 17 and again in February. It was saved from bankruptcy by $25 million in state loans which have since been repaid.

City officials insist that the crisis a year ago wouldn't have been so serious had New York City not scared the bond market with its near-default.

But Yonkers had to pay a high price for the $25 million state rescue, in the form of loss of some home rule to the control board, layoffs and service reductions.

In the past few weeks, prospects have brightened that this Hudson River city of 200,000 will regain financial normalcy this July, when the control board is scheduled to disappear.

On Oct. 4, Yonkers cleared "the biggest hurdle we had to cross," says Feeney, when it was able to sell $83.4 million in bonds on the open market. This enabled the city to wipe out its $42 million short-term debt burden and pay off all other current liabilities.

Again, Yonkers paid a price for its good fortune. Last June, when prospect were not as bright, the city was placed under even tighter state controls to ensure the sale of the October bond issue.

The key aspect will force Yonkers to surrender to the state comptroller sufficient tax proceeds in each year of the 20-year life of the bond to ensure its repayment.

The bond rating firm Standard & Poor's was impressed enough by the state controls and by Yonkers' own cost-cutting efforts to assign the bond a respectable "triple-B-plus" rating.

Like New York City, Yonkers pays a large portion of its own education costs. About 50 per cent of the budget is devoted to schools. But unlike New York City, it doesn't have the problem of paying a share of the welfare bill. Yonkers' welfare bill is paid by Westchester County, where it's located.

Although Yonkers' financial affairs have turned for the better, it still faces considerable economic problems in the year ahead.

The city has been losing manufacturing jobs for more than a decade, a common phenomenon in Northeastern cities. According to city figures, manufacturing represented 35 per cent of the city's jobs in 1963, but has dropped to 28 per cent this year.

At the same time the city's largest employer, Otis Elevator, recently completed a major plant expansion in the city and now employs 1,350 workers in Yonkers.

Another major problem is the depressed state of the city's downtown district, which lifetime residents shun at night because of prostitution and street crime. The Yonkers City Council has plans to revitalize Getty Square, heart of the downtown area. But the city's share of the cost, $15 million, could delay the program for years.

Business briefs

MANCHESTER, Conn. (AP) — An estimated 2,700 fulltime and seasonal jobs would be created by a new warehouse center the J.C. Penney Co. is planning here, according to a published report.

The New York City-based department store chain plans to build a $20 million facility on 45 acres in the town, according to the Hartford Courant.

The Courant said a state official indicated the planned two million square foot facility would be the largest building in the Connecticut in terms of floor space if completed. The newspaper said the warehouse and distribution center would have an annual payroll of about $20 million and would generate about $1 million in local real estate and personal property taxes.

A spokesman for Penney's said the company never comments on reported negotiations until they are completed.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department continues to push wheat into export channels to try to help boost the domestic price and prevent a price-softening surplus next summer.

At the end of last week, for example, the department announced an increase of $16.8 million of wheat and wheat flour to its Food for Peace credit-sales agreement with Indonesia. That amounts to about 120,000 metric tons out of some 57.9 million produced.

The change also added about 50,000 metric tons of bulgur — parched, crushed wheat — to the pact, for a new total of $40.4 million worth of the commodities.

It also announced the signing of a new $31-million line of credit for Peru to finance sales there of $25 million worth of U.S. feedgrains and $6 million worth of U.S. soybeans. That's about 250,000 metric tons together.

DALLAS (AP) — Shareholders of the Dallas-based Wyly Corp, have been asked by the ompany to vote for a reorganization of the firm next month to avoid bankruptcy.

The founder of the computer service ocmpany, Sam Wyly, told stockholders in a letter the company has lost $135 million in the past 2½ years. He submitted a reorganization plan he said "provides the only realistic opportunity for Wyly to avoid bankruptcy and to maintain its computer service operations, the only remaining business."

The letter said the company, which is undergoing a second recapitalization plan, does not expect to recover any of its investments in Datran, a subsidiary which went into bankruptcy and was sold to Southern Pacific Communications Co. for $4.9 million.

TOKYO (AP) — A seven-member Vietnamese mission has arrived here to inspect Japanese oil refining and drilling facilities, the government's Japan Petroleum Development Corp. said Monday.

Oil industry sources said the mission's visit to this country may pave the way for future talks between Japan's three oil resources development companies and Vietnam for exploiting its offshore oil.

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — General Telephone & Electronics Corp., which last year admitted making $2.2 million in improper payments, said Thursday that the earlier figure was $2.1 million too low.

The company said its latest list of improper and possibly improper payments includes both domestic and foreign political contributions.

Thomas E. McCarthy, a company spokesman, would not say if American government officials received some of the money and he did not name the foreign countries which received GTE funds.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Alabama business, labor and political leaders Thursday applauded Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.'s plans for a $69 million addition to its plant in Gadsden, Ala.

The expansion plans were announced jointly by Gov. George C. Wallace and Goodyear Board Chairman Charles J. Pilliod Jr. in ceremonies at the state Capitol.

Pilliod said the 600,000-square-foot addition, which will be devoted to radial tire production, will make the Gadsden plant the world's largest tire facility.

Construction of the facility is scheduled to begin next January with a completion date of March 1978.

The project is expected ultimately to provide 500 new jobs, adding $10 million to the plant's current annual payroll of more than $45 million.

BOSTON (AP) — Seeking to end sales tactics reminiscent to the 1920s stock market boom, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission has obtained a court order forbidding a Boston firm "to cheat or defraud" its customers in selling London commodity options.

U.S. District Court Judge Frank Murray signed the permanent injunction against the First Commodity Corp. of Boston Thursday after the Commodity Futures Trading Commission filed a civil suit charging the firm with using fraud and high-pressure tactics to sell $3.6 million worth of the options.

Without admitting or denying the charges in the suit, First Commodity signed a consent agreement to the injunction.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Bertin C. Gamble, who overcame a recent attempt of some directors to oust him as chairman and chief executive officer of Gamble-Skogmo Inc., Thursday denied allegations that he has worked on major business deals without informing company directors.

In a prepared statement, the 78-year-old Gamble said the effort to remove him "was supported by false assertions that I have undertaken improper transactions without having fully discussed such matters with the board and without appropriate public disclosure of these matters.

"In fact, I have not committed and have never had any intention of committing the company to any significant transaction without appropriate review and approval by the board of directors and counsel."

He said he endorsed a decision by the board for the review of the matter by the firm's audit committee, with outside counsel of its choosing.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union, apparently abandoning a policy of undercutting shipping rates of other major maritime nations, is seeking to join international conferences that set rates on key North Atlantic routes, it was disclosed.

A formal Russian application was submitted late Friday to the Federal Maritime Commission which administers those rate agreements.

Karl E. Bakke, commission chairman, said the move may signal a new era of cooperation between Russia and capitalist countries, particularly the United States and Japan, in the area of commercial shipping.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A definitive agreement for the merger of Olympia Brewing Co. and Lone Star Brewing Co. has been approved by the boards of directors of both firms, Lone Star announced.

The agreement provides for the purchase of "substantially all the assets and business" of Lone Star by Olympia in exchange for 498,671 shares of Olympic common stock, a news release said.

Under the agreement, Lone Star shareholders will receive one share of Olympia common stock for each 3.75 shares of Lone Star common Stock.

Stockholders of both companies still must give final approval to the plan.

Olympia, with headquarters in Tumwater, Wash., markets Olympia and Hamms beer brands in 26 states. Lone Star, based in San Antonio, sells Lone Star beer mainly in Texas.

Officials said plans are to expand production at the Lone Star brewery and to eventually manufacture Olympia Beer at the facility.

Rams can't pull away in NFC West

Cardinals explode in second half

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Rams fans are assured of an exciting, meaningful race in the NFC's Western Division of the NFL.

This became fact Sunday when the Rams failed to take advantage of Atlanta's stunning 21-16 upset of San Francisco.

Handed a golden opportunity to put a little space beteen themselves and the 49ers, the Angelenos instead came up on the short end of a long 30-28 score in their own contest with the visiting St. Louis Cardinals thanks to a 25-yard field goal by Jim Bakken with four seconds left.

So once again this week's encounter with the 49ers at San Francisco becomes a "must win" game for the Rams. The 49ers (6-4-0) still are only a half game behind the Angelenos (6-3-1) and whoever wins this Sunday will be the division leader.

The loss to the Cardinals, combined with San Francisco's defeat at Atlanta, makes it unlikely that any Western Division team other than the conference champion is in line for for the NFC wild card spot in the playoffs.

Consequently, it's win the title or stay home for both the Rams and 49ers.

Sunday's game was a thriller from start to finish. With a light rain falling at game time and gray, threatening skies hanging over the Coliseum all afternoon, only 64,698 out of the sell-out crowd of 91,038 elected to attend.

The other 26,340 beat the chill and wet and stayed at home presumably to watch on TV. Those in attendance got their money's worth and those at home got a television bonus in a game they wouldn't ordinarily have seen.

Pat Haden, in his maiden, non-injury replacement start, drove the Rams to four touchdowns. The 28 points he helped put on the scoreboard are 8.5 more than the 19.5 the Rams had averaged through the first nine games.

However, the Ram defense gave up 16 points more than the 14-per-game that it had been averaging. There are two different views as to how that came about.

There is Chuck Knox's view and then there is the view held by most of the rest of us.

All agree that Cardinal quarterback Jim Hart had a super day, particularly in the second half.

Hart finished the afternoon's work with 20 completions out of 33 passes attempted for a total of 324 net yards. Even more startling was his second-half performance.

The chunky (6-1, 215 pounds) signal caller simply sizzled after the intermission completing 13 of 16 aerials for 229 yards!

It appeared that Hart had an exceedingly long time in which to get rid of the ball most of the afternoon, much longer than Haden or any of the Ram quarterbacks get.

Significantly, Hart was not sacked a single time. Knox used a four-man defensive line and rarely rushed his linebackers. Yet in his post-game analysis, he made a startling claim.

"I thought we gave him (Hart) a good rush," Knox said. "But he had fine receiving and he did a super job himself. I thought some of his receivers made super catches.

There WERE some fine receptions by Cardinal receivers, especially Pat Tilley and Ike Harris. Tilley, a 5-10 rookie, caught six passes for 120 yards including a 45-yarder.

Harris, 6-3 and a former wide receiver in the WFL for the Southern California Sun, snared eight for 130 yards.

But with Hart having a lot of time to throw, the receivers had a lot of time to work themselves open and they were wide open all too often.

There is also the matter of Knox's conservative nature. It really is the man's achilles heel as far as coaching ability is concerned.

After Haden passed and ran the Rams to a 14-6 halftime lead, Knox's conservative nature manifested itself again. He calls the plays from the sidelines and they are relayed through an assistant to the Ram quarterback.

Knox sure called a different game in the second half than he did in the first half.

Haden threw 13 passes in the first half, completing six for 127 yards including a "long gainer" of 65 yards good for a touchdown to Harold Jackson. He would have had a better percentage except for three straight incompletions in the last 26 seconds of the half as the Rams attempted to score again.

Throwing that many times apparently was more than Knox's conservative nature could stand. In the second half, Haden was allowed to throw only FOUR times. He completed all four but only for 45 yards total. The longest was 16 yards.

Maybe the Ram coach wasn't trying to sit on the eight-point lead, but he was reverting to his style of trying to control the ball and the clock.

You don't eat up the clock throwing "bombs." Knox's penchant for ball control all too often seems to allow a good opponent to either build up momentum at the start of a game or take it away from the Rams in later stages.

Illustration: In the second half Sunday, the Rams, with Haden throwing only four times, made only 83 net yards! In the first half, with Haden passing 13 times, the Rams gained 200 yards net. IN contrast, the Cardinals had only 131 yards net at halftime despite the fact that Hart threw 17 passes. But he hit on only seven (for 95 yards) and had two intercepted.

However, the lack of success didn't phase either Hart or coach Don Coryell. They stuck to their big-play philosophy and the Cardinals, an explosive team, exploded in the Rams' faces.

The writer used to doubt that Knox's conservative offense would ever get the Rams to the Super Bowl. Now we have to wonder if if it will even get them to the playoffs.

Harold Jackson and Ron Jessie, two speed burners who could really make a big-play offense go, caught only five passes between them. Lumbering John Cappelletti was the receiver for the other five.

Knox simply cannot abide gaining more than a few yards at a time.So the Rams, who could be one of the most explosive, exciting teams in the NFL, plod through dull wins most of the time opening up only when forced to by strong opposition.

'TAIL' BACK? Rams linebacker Jack Reynolds tries to bring down Jim Otis of the St. Louis Cardinals in action Sunday, but the Los Angeles defender comes up with only a small portion of Otis' uniform. Cardinals rallied to whip Rams, 30-28, at the L.A. Coliseum.

Driver killed at Ascot Park

GARDENA, Calif. (AP) — Daniel Lawson of Huntington Beach, Calif., died of injuries suffered in a crash during the figure-eight stock car race at Ascot Park Sunday night, a track spokesman said.

Lawson, who was 36, was involved in a crash at the figure-eight intersection and was taken to Memorial Hospital in Gardena, where he died of massive head and chest injuries, the spokesman said.

Lawson's death was believed to be the first in figure-eight stock car racing since the event was started at Ascot in 1962, the spokesman said.

Stage set for USC, UCLA

Progress Bulletin
Sports
Pomona, California ■ Monday, November 15, 1976

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The preliminaries are finished and the stage is set for Southern California's Trojans and the UCLA Bruins to battle for the Pacific-8 championship and Rose Bowl berth.

The second-ranked Bruins swept past Oregon State 45-14 Saturday to stay unbeaten at 9-0-1, and the third-ranked Trojans brushed aside Washington 20-3 to make their record 8-1.

Both USC and UCLA bring perfect 6-0 Pac-8 marks into next Saturday's showdown in the Coliseum.

Neither the Bruins nor the Trojans —perhaps looking ahead — were particularly impressive in last Saturday's games, but both teams did what they had to do to win.

Southern California, its highly regarded ground game held in check by the young Washington defense, had to rely on the arm of quarterback Vince Evans for the victory. Evans threw one scoring pass and set up the other USC touchdown with a long completion.

The Bruins' offense also did not look up to par, but got the help of five interceptions and four fumble recoveries from the UCLA defense to turn the game against Oregon State into a one-sided triumph.

The Bruins may have lost one of the top offensive stars for the upcoming contest against the Trojans. Wendell Tyler, UCLA's breakaway threat, hurt his shoulder in the first half against the Beavers and may not be able to play next Saturday.

The UCLA team physician said Tyler's injury occurred when the shoulder started to come out of the socket, then popped back in. The doctor said he wasn't certain if Tyler could play against the Trojans, but Tyler said he expects to play.

While the Bruins' top runner may be ailing Saturday, USC tailback Ricky Bell said he expects to be in "tip-top" shape for the game.

Bell, who injured an ankle three weeks ago against Cal and set out the next game, returned to action against the Huskies. But he did not look 100 per cent healthy, gaining just 21 yards on 12 carries.

As for the outcome of next Saturday's game, most rate it a tossup. The Bruins have a slight advantage in that, since they have a better overall record, they could go to the Rose Bowl with a tie against the Trojans.

Oregon State Coach Craig Fertig, a former USC quarterback, said after watching his Beavers lose to UCLA: "I'd say that the Trojans are bigger and stronger on defense but UCLA is faster, I think they're even on offense.

"The quarterback who gets the hot hand will decide the winner of that game."

The Trojans' Evans has been the better passer this season, but UCLA quarterback Jeff Dankworth is a dangerous runner and also can throw the ball relatively well.

"It's a tossup," Washington Coach Don James commented. "They are two great football teams. I think if they played 10 times, it would come out five and five; they're that close."

Trojans Coach John Robinson also rates the game even.

"I don't know any other way to evaluate it," Robinson remarked. "I have no idea how it's going to go."

Mariners open on March 10

SEATTLE (AP) — The new Seattle Mariners, of the Amercan League will play their first baseball game on March 10, a club spokesman said Friday.

The team released its "Cactus League" schedule of games to be played during spring training.

Seattle opens play against the Oakland A's at the Mariners' spring home, Tempe, Ariz.

One shot sinks Lakers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cleveland Cavaliers guard Foots Walker saved his ammunition and fired only a single shot against the Los Angeles Lakers, but his bullseye made the difference.

The field goal attempt was the last one of the game, and did the Lakers in as the Cavaliers pulled out a 97-95 victory.

"It was my first shot of the game and it was a good one," Walker said of his layup with three seconds left.

"The plan was to hit Jim Brewer, but he got hung up. The clock said there were seven seconds left, so I decided to take over.

"I had a choice of whether to throw it to Jim Chones or to lay it up, and I decided to lay it up."

Walker's goal climaxed a rally that saw the Cavaliers make up a 13-point deficit in the final quarter. Chones, playing in foul trouble, chipped in nine points in the final period to set up Walker's heroics.

The Cavaliers are now 11-2, the second best record in the National Basketball Association. But Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch said he was not completely pleased with the way his team has performed.

"To tell the truth we haven't played that well," Fitch said, "not nearly as well as our record indicates. If we don't improve ourselves real quick, we are going to put a few on the other side of the won-loss column and I don't want that to happen."

Lakers Coach Jerry West was understandably distressed as his club blew a late lead and fell to 5-7.

"Turnovers killed us," Los Angeles' first-year coach said. "Atrocious ball-handling lost us the game. We wasted a good effort.

"If a pass isn't there, it shouldn't be made. You can't coach against these mistakes."

Chones, who got into early foul trouble, finished with a game-high 23 points. Forward Bobby "Bingo" Smith and reserve forward Campy Russell each added 16 points for the winners.

High scorer for Los Angeles was forward Cazzie Russell with 23 points, followed by center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar with 20, and guard Lucius Allen with 18.

The Cavaliers and Lakers hurried their showers and left the building quicker than usual because of a reported bomb threat.

A spokesman for the Lakers said the Inglewood Fire Department called the Forum moments after the Cavaliers' victory over the Lakers. The team spokesman said fire officials explained they'd been contacted by an unidentified person who overheard two people talking about a bomb in the arena.

"This is not an ununsual occurence in a public place like the Forum," the Lakers spokesman said.

"There are normal procedures carried out when a threat is received, and this time it was easy to check the building out because it was almost empty."

Kings' winless streak now five

CHICAGO (AP) — Coach Billy Reay says he didn't think his Chicago Black Hawks deserved to be ahead 3-1 early in the second period, considering the way they were playing.

The Los Angeles Kings came back with three goals in a row to take the lead 4-3 before the Black Hawks recouped for a 5-4 victory Sunday night.

The win puts Chicago at the top of the Smythe Division of the National Hockey League.

Chicago's Phil Russell took a pass from Pit Martin following a faceoff and fired in a 50-footer for the winning goal.

Russell's third-period goal, his third of the season, came against goalie Gary Edwards, playing his second game of the year. The loss ran the Kings' winless string to five games with two losses and three ties.

Los Angeles Coach Bob Pulford lamented, "We have been able to win only one of our last seven games....somehow we are not putting it together and we are not getting enough good play from our guys."

But, Reay said that LA is a good skating team and out played his Hawks for a good part of the contest.

Alain Daigle's fourth goal of the season late in the second period had boosted Chicago into a 4-4 tie.

The high-scoring trio of Mike Murphy, Marcel Dionne and Tommie Williams tallied in tandem for LA, with Butch Goring getting assists on all three Kings' goals.

Gene Carr had given Los Angeles a 1-0 lead early in the first period before Chicago's Grant Mulvey tied the game.

Late in the opening period, Chicago's Dennis Hull got credit for his second goal of the year when Jim Harrison's 25-footer bounced off Los Angeles defenseman Bob Murdock and off the skate of Hull.

Hull fired home a 30-footer to give the Hawks a 3-1 lead early in the second period after he took a pass from Ivan Boldirev.

Pulford was surprised there were no Hawk penalties.

Pulford, while not blaming the loss on any particular individual, said "that when you get two deflections against you, you know your luck is not there."

One of those deflections, came on the winning goal, according to Goring, who said he saw Russell's shot bounce off Murphy's stick into the net.

Reay was elated that he will be able to take Bobby Orr and Darcy Rota, whose leg was injured, on the road trip to New York, Atlanta and Pittsburgh next week, but for Orr, "it's still a day-to-day thing," he said.

Five locals set for CIF playoffs

Five valley prep teams will be in action as the CIF football playoffs begin this week.

Chaffey High (6-3), the tri-champion from the Citrus Belt League, will open the 4A playoffs at home vs. Los Altos, the third-place team from the powerful Sierra League.

Both the San Antonio League co-champs, Garey and Damien, drew home games for their openers in the 3A Division. Garey (7-0-1) will host El Modena, the third-place squad from the Century League. Damien (7-1) will entertain Mark Keppel, the second-piace team from the Mission Valley League.

San Dimas and Walnut both made the 2A playoff field. The Saints (8-1), champions of the Hacienda League, will open at home vs. Indio, the second-place team from the Desert Valley League. San Dimas has already announced that that tilt will be played Friday night at 8 p.m. at Bonita High.

Walnut, the Hacienda runnerup, will be the lone local involved in a road contest in the opening round of the playoffs. The Mustangs (7-2) will be traveling to Riverside to play La Sierra, the champion of the San Andreas League.

The valley will have no entries in the 1A playoffs this year. Ontario Christian had been a possibility but the Knights finished third in the Olympic League and were not chosen.

Also not selected were Ganesha (the SAL's no. three team) in the 3A bracket, and Alta Loma and Bonita in the 2A competition. Alta Loma and Bonita finished tied for third in the H.L.

Steelers still need help

By Associated Press

The defending National Football League champion Pittsburgh Steelers are the owners of some pretty impressive statistics.

—They haven't allowed a touchdown in five games.

—After allowing 110 points in the first five games of the season, they have allowed only nine points in the past five.

—They have outscored their opponents 132-9 in the past five games.

—They hadn't given up a point in 15 quarters, including three consecutive shutouts, until Miami's Garo Yepremian kicked a field goal in the third quarter of Sunday's 14-3 Steeler victory.

But the Steelers also must face some pretty depressing realities.

Playing perhaps the best football in the NFL now, they still could miss the playoffs and a chance for a third straight Super Bowl, trailing Cincinnati by two games in the American Conference Central Division with a 6-4 record.

And, for the second time this season, quarterback Terry Bradshaw is injured.

In the first quarter against Miami, Bradshaw sprained his right wrist. Although X rays were negative, Bradshaw said he didn't know how long he would be out.

"I'm coming off a real serious injury, and then something silly like this happens," said Bradshaw, who sustained a serious concusion in the fifth game of the season, an 18-16 loss to Cleveland.

"We're in the stretch run now, and they need me."

Steelers' defensive tackle Joe Greene added, "If we don't make it to the playoffs, we don't have any shoulders to cry on but our own.

"I've always contended that if you're going to be there, you deserve to be there."

In other NFL games Sunday, New England upset Baltimore 21-14, St. Louis beat Los Angeles 30-28, the New York Giants upset Washington 12-9, Atlanta beat San Francisco 21-16, Oakland defeated Kansas City 21-10, Cleveland downed Philadelphia 24-3, Cincinnati edged Houston 31-27, Chicago defeated Green Bay 24-13, Minnesota downed Seattle 27-21, New Orleans nipped Detroit 17-16, Denver whitewashed San Diego 17-0 and the New York Jets shutout Tampa Bay 34-0. Buffalo is at Dallas tonight.

The Steelers scored on a 21-yard run by Franco Harris, set up by rookie quarterback Mark Kruczek's 20-yard pass to Lynn Swann, and Reggie Harrison's one-yard plunge.

Patriots 21, Colts 14

Quarterback Steve Grogan ran for two touchdowns, and New England, 7-3, moved to within a game of Baltimore in the AFC East title chase.

Grogan's three-yard scoring run in the first half completed the scoring as the two teams battled scorelessly through the second half.

Baltimore quarterback Bert Jones was intercepted twice by cornerback Mike Haynes, stopping potential scoring drives.

"That was a big play," Grogan said of his second TD run, "but the major thing was that our defense shut out a very high scoring team in the second half."

Giants 12, Redskins 9

Joe Danelo kicked four field goals, and the Giants—still unable to score via the touchdown route—picked up their first victory of the season. All of Washington's scoring came on field goals by Mike Moseley.

Washington moved to the Giants seven in the waning seconds, but a Joe Theismann pass was intercepted in the end zone by Jim Stienke.

Falcons 21, 49ers 16

Scott Hunter threw two fourth-quarter touchdown passes to Alfred Jenkins as the Falcons, 3-7, dealt San Francisco, 6-4, its third straight loss.

Both Hunter scoring passes came after 49er fumbles.

Raiders 21, Chiefs 10

Ken Stabler threw two touchdown passes, upping his league-leading total to 20, and Oakland picked up 211 yards rushing, the most this season. Mark van Eeghan led the ground attack with 95 yards.

Browns 24, Eagles 3

Cleveland, 6-4 and tied with Pittsburgh in the AFC Central, won its fifth game in the past six on Brian Sipe's two TD strikes. Browns' cornerback Ron Bolton intercepted a Mike Boryla pass in the fourth quarter and ran it back 37 yards for a touchdown.

Bengals 31, Oilers 27

Ken Anderson's 47-yard touchdown pass to Isaac Curtis with 42 seconds left gave Cincinnati, 8-2, its victory in a game which seesawed back and forth all afternoon.

"We were desperate," said Anderson, who passed for three TDs and ran for another. "I was looking for the big play."

Bears 24, Packers 13

Chicago's Walter Payton became the first player in the NFL to surpass the 1,000-yard mark this season, running for 109 yards and a touchdown.

Vikings 27, Seahawks 21

Fran Tarkenton set a club record for completion percentage, 26 of 31 for 84 per cent, and threw for two touchdowns as Minnesota came back to beat upstart Seattle, which led 21-20 at one point in the fourth quarter. Tarkenton now has 301 career TD passes.

Saints 17, Lions 16

New Orleans' Warren Capone picked up a Detroit fumble and ran one yard for the winning touchdown. Bobby Douglass also threw a 69-yard scoring pass to Larry Burton.

Broncos 17, Chargers 0

Denver shutout San Diego for the second time this season as quarterback Steve Ramsey threw for 224 yards, including a 59-yard scoring pass to Rick Upchurch.

Jets 34, Buccaneers 0

The Jets posted their first shutout in 13 years, and Joe Namath came off the bench to ignite a first-half scoring burst, passing two yards to Rich Caster for one touchdown.

Knight can't be sure about Indiana team

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (AP) — Indiana's defending NCAA basketball champions open the season in less than two weeks, and Hoosiers Coach Bobby Knight, as usual, says it will be a while before he knows how good his team is.

"Except for Kent Benson, I won't know one single thing about the players on this team until we play a real game," Knight said after Sunday's first full scrimmage in front of about 5,000 persons at New Castle High School.

Benson, a 6-foot-11 All-American center and the only returning starter from last year's undefeated national championship team, scored 40 points.

"We need to play someone besides ourselves before I'll know how this team will be," said Knight, starting his sixth season at Indiana with a 125-20 record and four straight Big Ten Conference titles.

"I thought we looked good in some things and not so good in other things," the coach added, not elaborating. "We're just going to need a game to see which people play well in certain positions."

Benson, Most Valuable Player in last year's NCAA tournament in which the Hoosiers beat UCLA by 15 points in the semifinals and Michigan by 18 for the title, is the only sure starter. He scored 22 points in the first half and 18 in the second, Sunday as Knight shuffled his players.

The second-half squad of Benson, junior guards Jim Wisman and Wayne Radford and sophomore Rich Valavicius and freshman Mike Woodson at forward—good possibilities at this time for starting spots—hit 26 of 39 shots from the field.

Benson hit 10 of 14 shots in the first half and nine of 15 in the second, and Woodson, connected on eight of 10 for 16 points in the second half. "He had pretty good shot selection," Knight said.

Besides Woodson, other first-year Indiana players are Mike Miday, Derek Holcomb and Glen Grunwald, plus injured Billy Cunningham and Butch Carter.

"The freshmen have adapted to college practice well," Knight said, "but it'll be an adjustment for them to play in front of 18,000 people."

Orange Bowl has tough pick

By the Associated Press

Who is Iowa State and why are the Cyclones doing such bad things to the Orange Bowl?

The Cyclones have gone along for years serenely minding their own business as one of the doormats of the Big Eight Conference, with a brief flurry of excitement when Johnny Majors took them to the 1971 Sun Bowl and the 1972 Liberty Bowl and then took off for Pittsburgh. Even so, this is only their third winning season since 1960.

So it comes as quite a surprise to see Iowa State—unheralded, unranked and, as yet, uninvited—tied for the lead in the rugged Big Eight Conference with Nebraska, Oklahoma, Colorado and Oklahoma State.

And you can bet it came as a shock to the Orange Bowl people when the Cyclones upended ninth-ranked Nebraska 37-28 Saturday and put the onus of selecting a host team for the New Year's Night game squarely on the shoulders of the selection committee.

And as of late Sunday night, the committee still was scratching its collective head trying to solve the dilemma because the odds are that the race will end in a three-way tie among Colorado—which has only lowly Kansas State left— and the winners of the Nebraska-Oklahoma and Iowa State-Oklahoma State games.

Matters reached this confusing state when Iowa State toppled Nebraska while 14th-ranked Oklahoma downed No. 11 Missouri 27-20, No. 17 Oklahoma State trounced Kansas State 45-21 and No. 19 Colorado whipped Kansas 40-17.

Iowa State's victory also may have cost the Orange Bowl a shot at No. 1-ranked Pitt since it is unlikely the Big Eight will have a team in the Top Ten to offer as an attraction when this week's ratings are released.

After the top-rated Panthers defeated West Virginia 24-16 behind Tony Dorsett's 199 rushing yards and three touchdowns, a source close to the team told The Associated Press: "To me, it looks like we'll go to the Sugar Bowl. I think the kids would rather go to New Orleans to play a 10-1 team than to Dallas (the Cotton Bowl) to play an 11-0 team."

Seventh-ranked Georgia, 9-1 with one game left, won its way into the Sugar as the Southeastern Conference representative by drubbing Auburn 28-0. Meanwhile, fifth-ranked Texas Tech, 8-0 with three games to go, remained atop the Southwest Conference with a 34-7 rout of Southern Methodist. The Red Raiders have a first-place showdown with runner-up Houston next weekend—the 12th-ranked Cougars were idle last weekend—and tough games with Arkansas and Baylor after that.

"There ain't no doubt who we want," said Georgia quarterback Ray Goff, who handed off to Kevin McLee often enough to enable him to gain a school record 203 yards. "We want Pitt. If you want to be No. 1, you have to play No. 1."

Invitations cannot be officially tendered until next Saturday and the Orange and Cotton Bowls insist that Pitt has not turned them down ... yet.

The only other bowl berth decided over the weekend was in the Fiesta Bowl. Cinderella Wyoming, which has not been in the Top Twenty all season following last year's 2-9 record, won the right to represent the Western Athletic Conference by shading Texas-El Paso 14-10.

Next weekend, second-ranked UCLA and third-ranked Southern Cal square off for the Pacific-8 crown and the host spot in the Rose Bowl, while fourth-ranked Michigan and No. 8 Ohio State wage their annual war for Big Ten-Rose Bowl honors.

Meanwhile, sixth-ranked Maryland blanked Clemson 20-0, clinching at least a tie for its third consecutive Atlantic Coast Conference title.

Pitt's Dorsett fell short of the 200-yard mark when he was ejected with 29 seconds remaining after exchanging punches with several West Virginia tacklers. With one regular-season game left—against arch-rival Penn State on Nov. 26— Dorsett has 1,724 yards for the season—the major college mark is 1,881—and 5,858 in his record-shattering career.

"They're deserving of their ranking," said West Virginia Coach Frank Cignetti. "They have what you have to have to be a great team—a great running back and an excellent defense."

Sub tailback James Owens, an Olympic hurdler, scored two of UCLA's three second-period touchdowns as the Bruins whipped Oregon State 45-14. Meanwhile, Southern Cal kept up the Pac-8 pace by downing Washington 20-3 as Vince Evans passed for one score and set up another while ailing Ricky Bell was held to 21 yards on 12 carries.

Rob Lytle scored three times and became Michigan's all-time rushing leader with 3,085 yards as the Wolverines rebounded from last week's upset loss to Purdue and belted Illinois 38-7.

Ohio State, however, remained one game ahead of Michigan with a tough 9-3 triumph over Minnesota on Jim Pacenta's tie-breaking four-yard run in the second period. Michigan must beat the Buckeyes to reach the Rose Bowl; Ohio needs only a tie.

After Maryland stretched its record ACC winning streak to 19 games in a row, Coach Jerry Claiborne broke a season-long silence on his unbeaten team's status in the national rankings.

"They deserve to be No. 1 or No. 2," he said.

Iowa State's Earle Bruce was not making any such claims but he was quite excited after Dexter Green ran for two scores and Luther Blue returned a kickoff 95 yards for another touchdown against Nebraska.

"I've never been this excited in my whole life," he said. "This is the greatest thing that's ever happened to Iowa State and Iowa State football."

Terry Miller may be the greatest thing that ever has happened to Oklahoma State. He rushed for 221 yards and tied the Big Eight record of five touchdowns against Kansas State.

Tenth-ranked Alabama and No. 18 Notre Dame are not in contention for the national championship this year, but they played a thriller, with the Irish winning 21-18 behind Rick Slager's 208-yard first-half passing, including a 56-yard touchdown bomb to Dan Kelleher. Notre Dame has taken all three meetings with Alabama and Bear Bryant ... by one, two and three points.

"I doubt very seriously I'll make it to the four-pointer," said the 63-year-old Bryant.

Rounding out the Top Twenty, No. 16 Texas A&M bounced No. 13 Arkansas out of the SWC chase 31-10, Kentucky upset 15th-ranked Florida 28-9 and Wake Forest kayoed No. 20 South Carolina 10-7.

East Carolina lost to Furman 17-10 and must win or tie against Appalachian State to take Southern Conference honors. Ball State blew a chance to win in the Mid-American Conference, losing to Western Michigan 24-10, but the Cardinals have another shot next week against Eastern Michigan.

The Ivy League wound up in a tie between Brown, a 21-7 winner over Columbia, and Yale, which downed Harvard 21-7.

Rutgers defeated Tulane 29-20 and extended the nation's longest winning streak to 17 games, while Northwestern ended the longest losing skein at 16, whipping Michigan State 42-21. Army reduced the number of teams with perfect records to four—Pitt, Texas Tech, Maryland and Rutgers—by disposing of Colgate 29-13.

Tickets sell in Toronto

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Blue Jays may strike out often on the baseball field in their first American League season next year, but the team promises to be a hit at the box office.

A club spokesman said Monday that the club has sold 5,000 season tickets in the one month they have been available. The team seems likely to set a record for season ticket sales by an expansion franchise. The record, 7,500, was established by the Kansas City Royals in 1969.

Bruins' McNab sets hot pace

By the Associated Press

With 63 games remaining in the Boston Bruins' regular season, center Pete McNab is just seven goals away from tying his career high of 24 for one season.

That's right, 17 goals in 17 games, including five two-goal performances, as the Bruins have soared to a seven-point lead over the second-place Buffalo Sabres in the National Hockey League's Adams Division.

"He definitely knows where the net is," said veteran Boston right wing Bobby Schmautz, who converted a McNab pass for a goal in the Bruins' 5-3 triumph over the Colorado Rockies Sunday night.

"I always thought that Phil Esposito was the best at getting off his shot from the slot, but I've never seen a kid as accurate as McNab," said Schmautz.

MCNab, the 24-year-old center who signed with the Bruins as a free agent last summer, led Boston to its fifth straight unbeaten game and kept the team unbeaten in eight home games with his latest two-goal effort.

"What's he got? Seventeen goals in 17 games?" asked Schmautz, tongue very much in cheek. "Ha. Maybe he can come out of his slump soon."

It is easy to laugh when you are No. 1 and winning, but Bruins Coach Don Cherry was not overly pleased that his club had so much difficulty beating the Rockies. "I get sick and tired of playing the last game of the Stanley Cup finals every game," he said. "We haven't had a laugher since the first exhibition game. Every game we've had has gone down to the wire. Either the other team has the hot goalie or we do."

Sunday night, the Bruins had the hot goalie. They also had McNab.

Penguins 5, Rangers 1

Pierre Larouche scored a goal and set up two others, and goalie Dunc Wilson stopped a penalty shot, helping the Penguins hand the Rangers a team record seventh straight home loss.

North Stars 4, Sabres 4

Bill Hogaboam scored twice, helping Minnesota tie Buffalo. Pierre Jarry and Glen Sharpley also scored for the North Stars, while Craig Ramsay's goal with 7:54 remaining tied the game for the fourth time. Andre Savard, Gil Perreault and Rick Martin were the other Sabres scorers.

Barons 3, Capitals 2

Mike Christie's first goal of the season, 15 seconds into the third period, lifted Cleveland over Washington. Doug Patey and Bob Sirois gave the Capitals a 2-1 lead after Cleveland's Wayne Merrick opened the scoring.

Alfred U. coach quits after 36-year career

ALFRED, N.Y. (AP) — Alex Yunevich, who had guided Alfred University football teams for 36 seasons, retired today, closing one of the longest and most successful coaching records in college football history.

No active coach matched Yunevich's record of continuous service at one school, a spokesman for Alfred said.

Yunevich, 66, an All Big Ten fullback on Purdue's unbeaten conference champions of 1929, came to Alfred in 1937 after coaching jobs at Lehigh and Central Michigan University. He had six undefeated teams and only six losing seasons at Alfred.

His Saxons won a total of 177 games, lost 85 and tied 12, making him the fourth winningest coach among present-day coaches in the country, a spokesman for Alfred said.

Alfred, a small college team in western New York, compiled a 4-2-2 record this season in NCAA Division III competition and won the upstate New York small college championship.

Brandt correct SAL net winner

It was erroneously reported in Friday's Progress Bulletin that Connie Elwell of Claremont High had defeated teammate Kathy Brandt in the San Antonio League girls' tennis finals.

Actually, Brandt defeated Elwell and will be the league's No. 1 representative in the upcoming playoffs.

Baja winner miserable

ENSENADA, Mex. (AP) — Ivan Stewart, 29-year-old professional dune buggy driver from Lakeside, Calif., is still trying to warm up after his chilly ordeal en route to victory in the SCORE Baja 1,000 kilometer off-road race.

Stewart was the overall winner among four-wheel vehicle drivers, although he was beaten to the finish line Sunday on elapsed time by 47 minutes by the motorcycle racing team of Mitch Mayes, Palmdale, Calif., and Larry Roeseler, Bloomington, Calif.

"It was miserably cold and muddy," Stewart said after finishing the 538-mile ordeal in 12 hours, 17 minutes and 28.4 seconds. "It was very, very easy to get lost.

"Mud was on the window. Goggles, they get dirty, and it doesn't do any good to wipe them off, because it gets on your hands. At least, there was no dust."

Stewart actually led on elapsed time when Roeseler and Mayes, who finished on their factory Husqvarna in 11 hours 30 minutes and 42.4 seconds, lost their large lead while Mayers was wallowing in the mud along a 100-mile section of Laguna Salada.

A few miles west of Mexicali at the north end of the dry lake — made mushy by runoff from Friday's fierce rain and snowstorm — Mayes led Stewart on elapsed time by 19 minutes.

But Stewart, who won one of the race's "Iron-man" awards for driving all the way without relief, splashed down the peninsula in his Chenowth VW dune buggy wide open and had built up a 26-minute lead by the time he reached the fishing village of San Felipe 143 miles south.

Puddles of water so deep that nearly one-fourth of the field got stuck and dropped out were just as miserable to Stewart's race car as they were to the driver.

"We bounced around so much," Stewart said, "that the bolts came out of the shifting levers. I had to hold it in gear for five miles until I could get to the pits at El Rodeo. That wasn't so bad, but I had to slow down and go around the puddles, because I couldn't always shift."

Both Roeseler and Mayes said they got lost during their driving stints, slowing their pace to 46.73 miles per hour. Stewart averaged 43.77 m.p.h.

The muddy, sloshy course was produced by the three inch rainfall that caused a 24-hour postponement of the event. It was the wettest race any of the veterans could remember.

As Norm Johnson, a dune buggy driver from Las Vegas, put it, "The guy who was told to wet down the course sure did his job right."

Johnson and four other drivers got lost at night in the mountains near Valle de Trinidad about 100 miles south of here.

"There were five roads leading out of where we were," Johnson said. "So we all agreed to take one of them, see where it led and report back in five minutes. Sure enough, we all met back in the center again and one guy had found the way out. We followed him or we might still be there."

Despite his victory in the motorcycle class open only to riders over 38 years old, veteran Baja racer Brian Farnsworth of Irvine.

Farnsworth, another "Ironman" award winner, was scheduled to have a co-rider, but his partner was in jail.

Californian wins tourney

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — California Mark Lye fired a five-under-par 67 Sunday and scored a one-stroke come-from-behind victory in the Champion of Champions golf tournament with a 12-under 276 on the Victoria Golf Club.

Third-round leaders Simon Owen of New Zealand and Ken Nagle of Australia fell back as Owen shot a 70 for a 277 total and Nagle a 71 for a 278.

Lye, who shot a 68 on his birthday Saturday, said he felt like slackening off after the Chrysler Classic last week and only heard about his qualification while sitting in his motel room with his roomate, John Abendroth. Abendroth told him he should try since he had qualified for the Melbourne tourney.

"Being a diabetic, I felt I had had too much golf and was going to have a rest," Lye said. "I am certainly grateful that he insisted that I play.

"This is the biggest check I have ever won," he said of the $37,000 first-place prize money. His previous high was $2,600 in the 1976 Scandinavian Open.

Lye, of Napa, Calif., drew level with Owen with a birdie on the eighth. Owen regained the lead with a birdie on the 12th, but then three-putted the 14th for a bogey.

Lye took the lead again with a birdie on the 17th and both scored par on the final hole.

Lou Graham of Nashville, Tenn., made a late charge with a 67 and finished fourth at 279. His round included one eagle, four birdies and one bogey.

"Merit Delivers More Taste Than Higher Tar Cigarettes."

–American Institute of Consumer Opinion

Extensive taste testing shows Merit delivers flavor of cigarettes having 60% more tar.

The bottom line was conclusive:

In a series of taste tests conducted for MERIT by the American Institute of Consumer Opinion,* smokers from across the country judged MERIT to have more flavor than five leading low tar cigarette brands.

What's really startling —and of major importance to all smokers—is that MERIT has less tar than these five brands.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

Less tar. Yet more taste.

That's the report on a remarkable new taste process called 'Enriched Flavor.'™ A way to pack extra flavor into tobacco without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now smoke the cigarette. MERIT.

Expo 81 arrests may load S.B. jails

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

If Expo 81 becomes a reality, the present Ontario jail facilities won't be large enough to handle all the expected arrests, reports San Bernardino County Supervisor Robert Townsend.

Townsend and other county officials are concerned over the possible impact of the proposed world's fair in Ontario.

The supervisor from Chino noted recently that he was "somewhat startled" by statistics contained in a sheriff's report about projected space requirements for the West End sheriff's substation in Ontario.

Statistics showed that if the Expo 81 is held, a tremendous increase in jail bookings could be expected. Sheriff's Capt. Keith Larson, who submitted the report, estimated a 200 per cent increase in jail bookings, going from about 9,800 in 1980 to 28,000 in 1982.

Jail bookings would increase at a normal rate — perhaps 1,000 per year — if the world's fair was not held, according to the report.

By 1985 with the fair gone, the number of persons booked in the Ontario jail would "settle down" to 18,246 per year (owing to the fact some people who came for the fair would stay). But if Expo 81 was not staged, the report estimates about 14,727 bookings for 1985.

Townsend says the fair would require a major expansion of the West End sheriff's station in order to handle the increased bookings.

He acknowledges it also will mandate expansion and possibly several new buildings at the entire sheriff-court complex at Sixth Street and Mountain Avenue.

County officials have proposed expanded facilities at that location, and it would become the Ontario Law and Justice Center. County supervisors set aside more than $4 million in federal revenue sharing funds in 1974 for the planned complex.

Supervisors were scheduled to consider space requirements for the Law and Justice Center at their regular meeting today.

Townsend likely will raise the point of much-needed space if Expo should become a reality. He said just the residual effect of the fair on the West End will require additional personnel equalling half the manpower presently employed at the sheriff-court complex.

"That's quite an impact," he declared.

Supervisors' Chairman Dennis Hansberger has said "We can't afford Expo 81," and financial concerns seem to also be of interest to Townsend.

"My concern is, who will pay for the increased services?" Townsend asked.

The Chino supervisor explained that he recognizes the beneficial effects of Expo—regarding jobs and economic growth for the West End. "But we must evaluate the negative impact that will have to be shouldered by area residents—including an expected higher crime rate."

Other problems will be the need for more roads, water, sewers and other services, said Townsend.

In expansion of the Law and Justice Center, departments such as Superior and Municipal courts, county clerk, marshal, public defender, district attorney, probation, and coroner all must be considered along with the sheriff's substation.

And Townsend points out the present sheriff-court complex is overcrowded. With Expo, those problems would become far greater, he said.

BOAT BUILDING BEGINS

Students and an instructor at a boat building class at the Mira Loma Space Center take delivery of an empty boat hull, donated by the Alajuela Co. of Costa Mesa. The federally funded class was started to train area residents for work in the boat building and repairing industries. Bob Marr, right, from Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s office, observes as instructor Bob Gass outlines plans to students Charlotte Jeffs, Gail Wyatt and Kris Talbott.

With varied enrollment

Boat building draws interest

Boat builders come in all shapes and sizes.

Bob Gass found that out recently when three young women enrolled in his boat building class at the Mira Loma Space Center east of Ontario.

Charlotte Jeffs, Gail Wyatt and Kris Talbott were among 30 students to join a job training program geared to preparing area residents for work in boat building and repairing industries.

The program is being financed by federal funds and administered through the state Office of Employment and Training and the Inland Manpower ssociation.

Three classes of four months each are planned this year. Those enrolled must be unemployed or underemployed.

Gass says he is pleased with the turnout of 30 for his first class. Besides the three women, six Vietnamese students and several blacks and Chicanos are enrolled, he noted.

"The women are tremendously competitive and doing very well," reports Gass. "It may seem unusual having girls in boat building, but the state is now emphasizing the entry of women in trade skills such as carpentry, auto mechanics and other areas."

Gass' training program has barely gotten underway, and he recently received his first hull. The empty hull was given to him by Alajuela Co. of Costa Mesa.

When the students finish the sailing vessel, it will be a 38-foot "double-ender" built for cruising around the world, he said.

Graduates of the class will be placed in jobs in marine areas of Los Angeles and Orange counties where boat production is concentrated.

The Mira Loma program has been called the "Tradewind Academy" and teaches modern fiberglass boat building techniques.

Students have come from the West End and eastern Los Angeles County.

Gass, the instructor for the class and former deputy director of planning for the IMA, said three-quarters of an acre next to "Tradewind Academy" has been set aside for a community boat yard. Anyone wishing to build a boat there may do so, and would receive tips from qualified instructors.

Those interested in applying for the boat programs may contact West End Multi-Service Center, 200 S. Euclid Ave., Ontario. Students enrolled receive $2.50 an hour in wages while they are learning.

Crime reduction sought

Altering Pomona's image

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

Attempting to combat what they see as a negative image of Pomona, a group of apartment owners, homeowners, and residents, has banded together in an attempt to alter that image.

The group, known as the Pomona Southwest Council, has taken a number of steps hoped to reduce crime, change the quality of neighborhoods, and alter peoples negative perceptions of the city.

Consisting of residents in what was once described as a high crime area, the group has apparently been successful in reversing that trend.

In addition, the group has been largely responsible for the renovation of many of the apartments and houses in the area, many of which had been boarded up for years.

Members of the council, representing a number of owners of property in the southwest section of Pomona, met recently to discuss possible solutions to the problems confronting Pomona.

Victor G. Tessier, an apartment owner and local attorney, reported that crime and deteriorization in an area is usually caused by a handful of individuals who are repeatedly a problem no matter where they live.

One of the council's most effective tools to prevent such trouble makers from ruining an area is to have them evicted if they are a repeated problem.

"We are talking about a couple of people who make life miserable for everyone else living in the area," said Tessier.

"If we continue to force the dope peddlers and prostitutes and trouble makers out of the area by eviction proceedings, and as a group refuse to rent to anyone who has caused problems, we can continue to attract good people to our neighborhoods," he said.

The council keeps records of tenants who have been evicted or are in the process of being evicted from local properties. These can be used by landlords to help them screen potential tenants.

For property owned by absentee landlords who do not properly maintain rental units, the council applies pressure on the landlord to convince him to voluntarily upgrade his property. If that fails the council will initiate legal action.

"One of our biggest problem areas is convincing some absentee landlords it is in their best interest to upgrade the quality of their property.

"Some of them show no concern for the type of tenant who is allowed to rent or for the condition their property is in.

"It is about time people started caring," he said.

A number of those present at the meeting were critical of the police protection in the areas they lived.

"I think the level of police protection is much better than it was before, but it still takes officers much to long to respond to calls in our area," said Henry Cole, a council member.

"The crime problem in our area is often caused by juveniles who have no respect for the rights of others," he said. "We know who these people are and yet neither the parents nor the police will do anything about it."

In response, police Lt. D. L. Liming, who was also present, promised to look into the matter.

"I know there are sometimes cases where we just don't have the manpower to respond to situations as quickly as we would like. But if there are cases where officers who are free are not responding, then you can be sure we will do something about it," he said.

The council announced four goals it believed must be accomplished before Pomona will again be an attractive city. They are better police protection, renovation of decaying buildings that are still usable, an upgrading of the Pomona Mall and other commercial areas in the city, and better city services through better communication between residents and city government.

Business license fee not welcome

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The Ontario business community is overwhelmingly opposing an ordinance that would increase the business license fees within the city.

More than 163 owners of businesses have registered written protests against the proposed ordinance with Kenneth Stickney, utilities and license manager for the city. More protests are expected during the public hearing on the issue set for 7 p.m. Tuesday.

In protesting the measure that would incorporate the entire city in a business improvement area and another tax upon the existing business license fee, the business people also lodged complaints of poor service from the city now and accusations that the city wants to drive out the small business owner.

Only two letters, from the Ontario Downtown Merchants Association and the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, support the levy that would increase business fees from $14 to $99 per business. The downtown business section is already in a special promotional district and pays additional charges. If the ordinance were adopted by council, the resolution governing that district would be rescinded.

Many pointed out that their business within the city limits of Ontario is marginal at best and only a small percentage of their profits are derived from Ontario. These marginal operators included mainly gardeners and special distributing companies. Some, including operators of the Copper Kettle Candy Co., promised that they would close up shop and terminate servicing accounts in Ontario if the ordinance passes.

Mrs. J. O'Gorman, owner of Lady Ann Apartments cited high water and trash bills, poor street maintenance, lack of cleanup of alleys and streets and lack of enforcement of ordinances prohibiting large trucks from parking on small residential streets. She added "We feel you should try to solve the above problems first and not ask people to pay additional taxes when we're really not getting very good service. In fact, we've lived in lots of cities and Ontario is the worst as far as city services go."

Glenn Barfell, owner of G and G Sales, commented "The small business owner is simply being crushed beneath the burden of taxes. I fear that if this increase and all the other taxes pending continue, soon you will be administering a lot of empty buildings all over Ontario."

In response to the explanation the additional levy will provide funds for the hiring of a retail promotional expert, D.V. Kral, owner of Beltone Hearing Aid Service, wrote "No one else is as familiar with my business and all its ramifications as I am. No one else is qualified. One of the big problems of trying to run a business now is too much government. We most certainly do not need more."

Graydon Murphy of Murphy Oldsmobile dealership summed up the sentiments of the protestors. He said "It is unfortunate that the councils of some cities when hunting for ways to raise money can only think of imposing an additional tax on the business community. This is one of the reasons that business has been driven out of the city into outlying areas . . . I plead that every City Council person consider very sincerely their responsibility for keeping business within the city. Although we do not control the most votes, we do furnish the most money. Our volume is large, but our percentage of profit is very small. Any additional tax at this time is unbearable."

Great American smokeout planned by cancer society

The "Great American Smokeout" is coming.

The smokeout is a light-hearted effort to encourage more than one million California smokers to stop smoking for just one day — Thursday.

A recent American Cancer Society poll revealed that smokers are aware of the dangers of smoking. They just can't break the habit.

Society officials hope that if smokers can quit for one day, they may decide it wasn't all that distressing and abstain entirely from cigarets.

Smokers are urged to sign a pledge not to smoke on just the one day. If the next morning begins with the usual cigaret, the smoker will still know the habit can be controlled.

Some smokers will get through Thursday without a cigaret. Others won't.

The Cancer Society has set a realistic objective for the promotion. It hopes that one of every five smokers in the state will sign pledges.

The signed pledge is important, society officials believe, since it serves as an important psychological commitment.

Locally, 20 Explorer Scouts from the Pomona Valley Community Hospital medical post will solicit pledges from smokers.

Freedom from the cigaret habit is like other freedoms, said society officials. "It is won day by day with small victories and occasional retreats."

Speaker slated

Jerry Allen, a fourth-year student at the School of Theology in Claremont, will be the speaker at a public convocation Tuesday at 11:45 a.m. in the school's Mudd Auditorium.

Allen spent the last academic year on a special project in Nairobi, Kenya, and will speak on "Our Ministry to International Organizations: A Back Door View from Kenya."

Clear skies predicted

Clear skies and warmer weather are predicted for the valley for the next couple of days, a pleasant change from the overcast skies, occasional showers and cool weather which marked the weekend.

While local residents awakened this morning to a bright blue sky and a view of the mountains, travelers in the San Bernardino area were forced to find their way through dense fog in some areas.

The National Weather Service predicts gusty winds in the valley late today. The high today is expected to be between 65 and 75 with the warming trend continuing through Tuesday when the thermometer will hit the high 70s. Overnight lows will be between 45 and 52.

Leaks in U.S. embargo

Buried in the back pages of most newspapers during the last, hectic days of the presidential election campaign was the announcement by the Ford administration that it had okayed the sale of sophisticated computer system to the Soviet Union and China.

The proposed sale of Control Data Corp.'s "Cyber 172" computers and support systems had been strongly opposed by the Energy Research and Development Administration and the Pentagon on the grounds that they could be used to improve the nuclear capabilities of the Communist superpowers.

Whether or not the decision constitutes a major breach in this country's long-standing embargo against the sale of high-technology or "strategic" products to the Communists (a Control Data spokesman says its computer is really "on the lower end of the technological scale of development"), the embargo apparently has as many holes in it as a sieve.

The illegal flow of embargoed technology to Soviet bloc nations especially is a growing problem, and one that U.S. officials are finding hard to control, reports Electronics magazine.

It requires deviousness but it is relatively easy for Iron Curtain countries to buy embargoed U.S. technology, and price is no object, says the magazine. The Soviet bloc "will use any means possible" to get this equipment, it quotes Charles B. Clements, director of the compliance division of the Commerce Department's Office of Export Administration.

One method is to move restricted components and instruments out of the United States by diplomatic pouch. A more usual procedure, however, is to divert equipment from a legitimate source in Western Europe.

Equipment can be shipped under general license to so-called Free World nations without application to the Commerce Department, and U.S. companies say they have no way to police overseas customers to be sure they are not reselling it to a third party.

Equipment, says Clements, is shipped from one location to another, is re-crated and re-marked at each point, until eventually everyone loses track of it.

While some U.S. manufacturers believe the embargo on the flow of key industrial and technological know-how to the Communists should be maintained, others complain of being frustrated as they watch their traditional Japanese and West European competitors do a thriving business with the Communists.

Truman scholarships

Last year Congress established the Harry S. Truman Scholarship Foundation, both as a memorial to the 33rd president and as a means of encouraging outstanding young people to seek careers in government.

The foundation is now accepting applications for the first 53 scholarships. One Truman Scholar will be selected from each state, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and, considered as a single entity, Guam, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa and the Pacific Islands Trust Territory.

The scholarships, which will provide a maximum of $5,000 a year for up to four years of undergraduate and graduate study, will be awarded to college students who will be in their junior year next fall. Deadline for submitting applications for the 1977 scholarships, however, is December 15, 1976.

Interested students who think they might qualify and who can "demonstrate a firm commitment to public service" can get application forms and details about requirements from the Truman Scholarship faculty representative at their college or university.

They can also obtain forms and further information from the Harry S. Truman Scholarship Foundation, 712 Jackson Place, N.W., Washington, D.C.

Think on these things

We cannot think clearly nor work well when all we can do is think of fear and worry.

Far too much time is spent dreading whatever it is before us to do. Delay where possible seems to be the rule, and every minute is agony.

To make a beginning takes strength — but what a motivator! To move quickly away from all the questions and reasoning on why something won't work is to find the work already begun. It takes some bravery that seems a little foreign to us — but with a beginning comes a little more boldness. When we think we are no longer able to keep going the worst is over. All because of a beginning.

A losing proposition

Dear Editor:

We are still struggling in our attempt to help Rhodesia.

Rhodesia's African National Council apparently objects as much to the idea of black representative government as white. You don't make quite clear whether the Council representatives are their guerilla groups in the neighboring countries or the neighboring countries themselves. In either event they would hardly enthuse in representative government.

Since we have long contributed to guerilla activity, what to do now? Maybe the World Council of Churches can devote this year's $600,000 to feeding the hungry, rather than promoting murder and mayhem.

Kissinger's idea has been to buy out the whites at U.S. expense. Integration has not been promoted as enthusiastically in Africa as the U.S.

You raise your eyebrows at hot pursuit by the Rhodesian army, to discourage raids. Why? We are unhappy at the way Angola was "freed." Maybe we should change our investment policies.

The blacks have long had representation in Rhodesia. We could help best by encouraging them in a properly democratic manner. So far we haven't tried it. Spending our efforts trying to keep the guerillas happy is a losing proposition. They are primarily interested in loot.

Hebert leaves, Army grieves

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon delivered its biggest bicentennial salute this year not to one of our dead military heroes, but to Rep. F. Edward Hebert, the crotchety old Democrat from Louisiana, who is still very much alive.

The crusty Congressman is finally stepping down after a 36-year career dedicated primarily to championing causes dear to the hearts of the brass hats.

Hebert was a member of the House Armed Services Committee from its inception in 1947, and served as the committee's chairman from 1971 to 1974 when a group of feisty freshmen deposed him in favor of someone less inclined to carry water for the Pentagon.

Hebert had indeed been a one-man bucket brigade for the military. From the center of a two-tiered curved desk, with two small American flags flanking him, he ruled the committee with the stern hand of a drill sergeant. At times, he appeared to be playing Charley McCarthy to the Pentagon's Edgar Bergen. Perched upon the Defense Departmgnt's knee, he opened his mouth and the military spoke.

The brass hats deeply appreciate such faithful service, so they decided to bid farewell to the old soldier in style. As an occasion for the ceremony, they chose homecoming weekend at Tulane University, in Hebert's hometown of New Orleans. Tulane, appropriately enough, was playing Army.

With a blaring of trumpets and rolling of drums, military officials assembled the night before the game to say goodbye. The Secretary of the Army was present, as was the Army Chief of Staff, the West Point Commandant, and a host of lesser lights.

Four military bands, one from each of the services, played swan songs for Hebert. The Army had flown in its 60-man Chorus and Herald Trumpets, which usually plays only at the White House in honor of visiting heads of state. The 80-member Army Chief of Staff's band, decked out in special bicentennial uniforms, was also there.

The Chorus and Herald Trumpets led the other bands in a ceremonial military tattoo. It was the first time such a tattoo had ever been performed on a college campus.

Hebert, according to eyewitnesses, was "visibly moved" by the military's farewell for him. The taxpayers should be moved as well; it cost them $27,158 to bid aloha to Eddie Hebert.

Footnote: A military spokesman claimed the money spent in honor of Hebert's departure was not wasted. The ceremony, he said, "provided good local exposure for recruiting."

STAFF POWER — It isn't always the Senators but their anonymous aides who pull the strings on Capitol Hill. Sometimes the busy Senators are only dimly aware of what their assistants are doing in their names.

Take the case of Wallace Johnson, a quietly efficient member of Senator Harrison Williams' staff. The Senator, a Democrat from New Jersey, is a power on Capitol Hill. This enhances the status of Johnson, who acts in Williams' name.

Johnson, therefore, has become the object of the attentions of Robert Pines, a New York contractor, who sells about $2 million worth of pipe annually to the government.

Pines often wines and dines the unsung Senate aide at the fashionable eating spots of New York City and Washington. "We talk business over dinner, and I pick up the tab. It's a way of doing business," Pines acknowledged to our reporters, Andy Penn and Jim Platt.

Pines has also dropped a few hundred dollars into Senator Williams' campaign chest — $950 that we have been able to trace. He made the contributions, he admitted, to "nurture" his relationship with the Senator.

When Pines wants a favor in return, he calls upon Johnson. For example, Pines dearly wanted a $179,000 pipe contract from the General Services Administration back in April, 1973. So he dashed off a "Dear Wally" letter to his favorite dinner companion, asking for help in obtaining the contract.

"I appreciate the friendship of you folks," Pines added, "and if called upon at election time shall as ever express my material appreciation." Then in a postscript, he enclosed a copy of the contract bid and asked Johnson to call GSA.

GSA records confirm, indeed, that Johnson made the requested call and that Pines was awarded the contract. It is uncertain whether Johnson's call influenced GSA's decision, since Pines was also the low bidder on the contract.

But GSA records show that Johnson intervened three subsequent times when Pines had problems with the contract. The GSA contracting officer called the interventions "unusual." It was all the more unusual since Pines doesn't happen to be a New Jersey constituent.

Johnson took a two-year leave from the Senator's staff and returned last January. Joyfully, Pines contributed $300 to the Williams campaign "to celebrate the return of Wally Johnson."

Footnote: Senator Williams told us he was not involved in the string pulling for Pines. But the Senator, while expressing full confidence in Wallace Johnson, also accepted full responsibility for any impropriety that might have occurred.

It's a wonder anyone runs

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Some years back I spent a good deal of my spare time trying to persuade outstanding men and women in my community to run for office.

I rarely succeeded, and only after months of effort.

Once talked into running, good men and women were not difficult to get elected, even though my party was a stark minority in the area in which I lived. For members of the other major party found it equally difficult to get inspiring candidates.

The difficulties in these candidate searches lay not just with local positions — city councilman or county board of supervisors — but were equally vexing when it came to selling outstanding people on running for the state legislature and Congress.

Those we approached, of course, were successful in their work, whether in business, writing, teaching, science, farming or government. Those who were young did not want to interrupt their careers. Those who had retired saw little satisfaction in taking the abuse levied on all politicians, the good and bad alike.

Numbers were convinced too, that if elected there was little that could be accomplished. They believed they had little chance of bucking the majority, composed as it was of so few who pursued the public interest. They saw too many lawmakers and administrative officials feathering their nests, being so dependent on special interest groups or so busied with the day-to-day trivia of their jobs that they had no time to give serious study to the important laws on which they voted or to the serious tasks for which they were responsible.

They feared getting caught in the treadmill wherein an official is forced to keep re-election so forcibly in mind that his day-to-day actions become warped. The official becomes engrossed not in what should be done for the best interests of his constituents, but in what must be done to be certain of getting 51 per cent of the votes the next go round.

Each man we approached knew he must be prepared to have all his family skeletons rattled, including those over which he had no control and which, by no stretch of the imagination, would have any influence on the manner in which he carried on his work in office.

He knew he must be prepared to have his name blackened by any foul rumor the opposition or any crackpot should choose to dredge up. If the office were high, he knew his family would have no privacy and the real or imagined faults of wife and children would be spelled out in the gossip columns. We would know who in the family, be it wife, brother, child or sister-in-law, allegedly drank too much, now or in the past, and who made any kind of slip.

Yet when we go to the polls we expect the man or woman we vote for to be a great speaker, a superb debater, personable in looks — that he have a certain mystique, not to mention instant solutions for all our problems.

We demand too that our office holder, whether in the executive or the legislative branch, high or low, be a bountiful dispenser of individual favors to all who ask. We demand not only that he provide more work generally, but that he intervene personally for any job any constituent wants, and for any government promotion any voter believes he deserves. We expect him to step in personally to get the road in front of our house widened — or not widened — and to intervene if we believe the Internal Revenue Service had made a mistake in analyzing our tax liability.

The wonder is that anyone runs for office except born losers.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

Once back in the days of my youth the ills of life were really terrifying. — Well, perhaps that isn't exactly the way I should put it. Actually the ills of life weren't half as bad as the remedies we were forced to take to cure them. Any of you who have ever gagged on sulphur and molasses or turpentine and rock candy are fully aware of what I mean.

Which was undoubtedly why many of today's old timers appeared to be so healthy in their youthful days. Realizing the cure would invariably be worse than the disease, they just suffered in silence. — But how different it all is now! At long last, thanks to the magic of television commercials, we old folks can finally settle back and really enjoy the ills of life.

In fact, we can pick and choose those ills from an endless list which includes such interesting ailments as Problem Dandruff, Excess Stomach Acid, Sinus Headaches, Constipation, Diarrhea, Nasal Drip, Bad Breath, Under Arm Wetness, Crippling Arthritis, Flaky Skin and even the Heartbreak of Psoriasis, knowing full well that today for every ill there is an extra strength remedy readily available at the corner drugstore.

Jerry Brown loses status

By EARL G. WATERS

With the campaigning behind them, legislators are turning their attention to the matters ahead. While the elections left party control pretty much as it was in the hands of the Democrats, the foibles of Gov. Jerry Brown throughout the political year are certain to result in material changes in his relationships with the lawmakers.

For Brown's political failures were monumental and were climaxed by colossal errors in the campaign just concluded. Starting the year with a popularity gained by his psuedo pose as a non-politician, Brown threw away his pristine image in a frenetic attempt to grab the brass ring in the presidential hustings. Failing that, he then attempted to establish himself as the pied piper of California by leading everyone to the support of Cesar Chavez and his Prop. 14.

He not only was embarrassingly exposed as a false prophet but took U.S. Senator John V. Tunney down with him and very nearly did the same to Jimmy Carter and a host of legislators. As a Democratic leader, or any other kind for that matter, his name is zilch with the President-elect.

The significance of Brown's defeats is not lost upon the legislators. No longer viewing him as the anointed party hero, the solons are scurrying about reorganizing their thinking. In the Senate this means a reorganization of its own leadership. President Pro Tem James Mills momentarily appears secure. He has not stuck his neck out supporting Brown nearly as far as Speaker Leo McCarthy. So the Senate is concentrating at the moment in selecting replacements for its inner house governing committee, the Rules Committee. Three of the five members of that group have retired. Other retirements and defeats have opened up committee chairmanships which will affect the selections for the Rules Committee.

In the Assembly McCarthy's unswerving support of Brown for the past two years has already been the subject of criticism among the troops. True, McCarthy did split with Brown on Prop. 14. Since San Francisco was one of the two counties in the state which voted for it, he could have joined Brown in its endorsement without harming himself in his home district. But supporting it would have hurt him as the Assembly leader. And it is clear that he will have to break even more with Brown if he wants to retain that leadership.

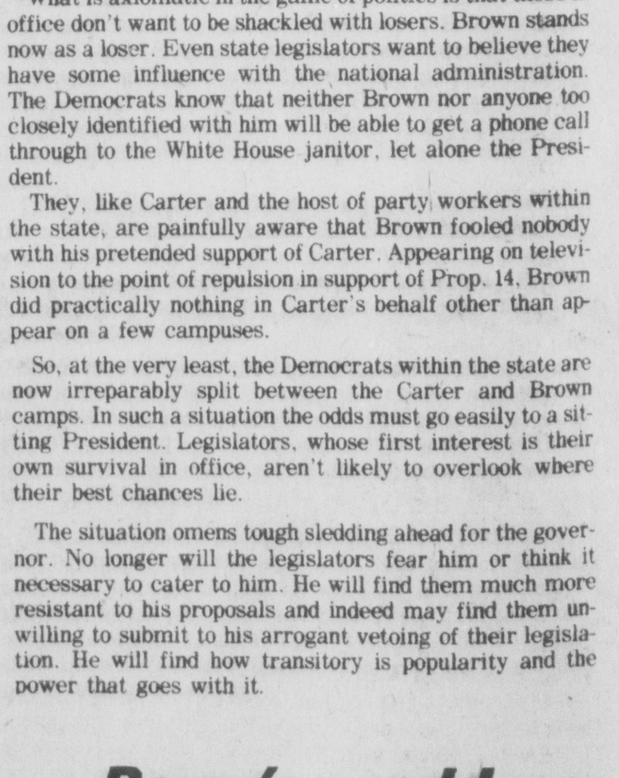

What is axiomatic in the game of politics is that those in office don't want to be shackled with losers. Brown stands now as a loser. Even state legislators want to believe they have some influence with the national administration. The Democrats know that neither Brown nor anyone too closely identified with him will be able to get a phone call through to the White House janitor, let alone the President.

They, like Carter and the host of party workers within the state, are painfully aware that Brown fooled nobody with his pretended support of Carter. Appearing on television to the point of repulsion in support of Prop. 14, Brown did practically nothing in Carter's behalf other than appear on a few campuses.

So, at the very least, the Democrats within the state are now irreparably split between the Carter and Brown camps. In such a situation the odds must go easily to a sitting President. Legislators, whose first interest is their own survival in office, aren't likely to overlook where their best chances lie.

The situation omens tough sledding ahead for the governor. No longer will the legislators fear him or think it necessary to cater to him. He will find them much more resistant to his proposals and indeed may find them unwilling to submit to his arrogant vetoing of their legislation. He will find how transitory is popularity and the power that goes with it.

Berry's world

Primates prone to tuberculosis

DEAR DR. MILLER: While I've never been particularly fond of Kong, my sister's monkey, I must admit he's an interesting animal and she's taken good care of him over the years. One thing I've always worried about when in the same room with him is that he coughs a lot. When I asked my sister if that could be tuberculosis, I know monkeys can get it, she said no, he's always been healthy and he's always been plump. I believe her, I think, but I'd like some help on how you can tell if a monkey has T.B.? — M.C.

DEAR M.C.: Monkeys and all other primates are definitely susceptible to tuberculosis. The disease is most commonly picked up from humans during the stressful time when the poor primate is captured, shipped and — if it lives long enough — sold. (In recent years, sale of these animals has been increasingly restricted.) Consequently, Kong would be a less likely candidate for T.B., but only his doctor could tell for sure, by testing. Coughing is common in monkeys, with or without T.B. The condition of the animal isn't necessarily an indicator of this disease, either, since a monkey in apparently excellent condition and without any apparent symptoms might suddenly die from tuberculosis. Fortunately for monkeys (and for some humans), comparatively few monkeys are still being kept as pets. Those who are should routinely be given T.B. tests by their veterinarians.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Would giving our shedding dog a lot of meat help him? — G. Mac T.

DEAR G. Mac T.: Undoubtedly he'd think so. A portion of cheap (?) hamburger might be of benefit, since the contained fat might benefit the skin and hair coat, but only if his diet were fat deficient previously.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Kittykins, our cat, has an incurable disease — it's not cancer. We'd like to keep her as long as possible, she's important to us, we love her. But we don't want her to suffer. How do you know when an animal is in pain? We would put her gently to sleep rather than see her suffer. — C.B.

DEAR C.B.: Kittykins can give you clues on whether any given day is a good or a bad one for her by her disposition, demeanor, and, on a bad day, depression. However, since some cats are stoical, and others hypocondriacs, her doctor must help you make these determinations.

Thoughts

Again Jesus spoke to them, saying, "I am the light of the world; he who follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the right of life." — John 8:12.

"The hero is one who kindles a great light in the world, who sets up blazing torches in the dark streets of life for men to see by. The saint is the man who walks through the dark paths of the world, himself a light." — Felix Adler, American ethical reformer.

And he said to them, "The sabbath was made for man, not man for the sabbath; so the Son of man is lord even of the sabbath." — Mark 2:27.

"The longer I live the more highly do I estimate the Christian Sabbath and the more grateful do I feel to those who impress its importance on the community." — Daniel Webster, American statesman.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't flatter anyone today who isn't truly deserving, or you'll drop a few notches in the eyes of observers.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Put your blinders on if shopping today, especially for things you can't afford. Your sales resistance is very low.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's possible you will lose momentum today because of too many self-doubts. Put on a bold face. Bluff if necessary.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Problems are likely to be of your own making today. If you find yourself in a tight corner it's probably due to some sin of omission.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be extra-careful if doing business with strangers today, no matter how well recommended. Taking them at face value could prove expensive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your image is a trifle fragile today. Others will be looking for chinks in your armor. Take care how you behave around envious associates.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There is a chance your attitude today could be self-defeating. Don't look for bogeymen.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Look gift horses in the mouth today. Something intriguing could be offered that is far less than it appears to be.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) For the sake of expediency you may agree to something today that does not serve your best interests. The other party will hold you to your word.

Your Birthday, Nov. 16, 1976

Do not give up the bird in hand this coming year to chase hopeful "maybes." Your best opportunities lie along familiar lines and finishing what you start.

Ann Landers

Just keep mouths shut

Dear Ann Landers: My husband works for a large firm based in Pittsburgh. A few weeks ago they sent a new district manager here. His wife and their two young children arrived Monday.

Last night a VP from Pittsburgh hosted a party to officially welcome the new man and his wife. She is a very pretty woman and most gracious.

On the way home my husband told me he almost died when he met the new manager's wife. He swears she was a $100 call girl in Pittsburgh — and there is no chance he is mistaken. When I asked how he could be so sure, he said, "She was sent to my hotel by a company that wanted us to buy supplies from them." I asked if he accepted her "favors." He said, "Yes, but that was before I met you."

What should be done about this awkward situation? — Unstrung

Dear Un: You and your husband should make a pact to keep your mouths shut. The "gracious lady" is NOT going to tip her mitt if she recognizes your husband as a former client. In the meantime, revealing her past would serve no useful purpose.

Dear Ann Landers: I love my grandchildren and daughter-in-law but every time I visit them (three or four times a year) their home is dirtier than the time before.

My son and his wife are raising their children beautifully, they are the world's best parents — but the stench in the house is unbearable.

The dog snatches food from our plates. The cats walk on the table after it has been set for meals. They are forever jumping up on the kitchen work boards and climbing over dishes that have been left to dry.

The thought of eating from plates the cats walked over makes me ill. I've even thought of calling the Board of Health — anonymously.

If I say something to my son or his wife it will surely damage our relationship. What do you suggest, Ann? — Ashamed To Sign

Dear Ashamed: Wash your own plate and silver just before you eat.

Perhaps someone will notice and provide you with an opportunity to tell them why you are doing it. Otherwise keep your mouth shut.

Of course it's sickening but it's their house and they make the rules. (The kids will probably grow up immune to EVERYTHING!)

Dear Ann Landers: Last week I had my first thorough physical examination — I mean inside and out. I'm a healthy young woman and wasn't concerned about myself.

The doctor poked, pressed, and pried with instruments and lights. All he said was, "Hmmmm-mm." After the examination I was told I was OK, that the results of the blood tests and urinalysis would be mailed to me. They arrived today and I'm in excellent condition.

I wonder if that doctor knows how much it would have meant to me if, during the examination, he had said a few words — for example, "This looks good." Or, "Nothing abnormal here" — just a sentence or two would have eased my anxiety. Silence can be so frightening to a patient.

Please print this. It's something they don't teach in medical school. — N.Y. Fan

Dear N.Y.: You spoke in behalf of millions today — including me. And now, I hope every patient who feels as you do will come right out and tell the doctor, BEFORE the examination, exactly what you told me.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Relaxing(?) on the golf course

Well, we don't have Gerald Ford to kick around anymore.

When it became apparent that the landslide for the peanut vendor was not just another poll-ish joke, the non-elected and non-re-elected President betook himself to the Thunder Bird Country Club in Palm Springs for R & R.

This is well and good. He had worked hard and was obviously suffering battle fatigue. It is a bitter blow to lose the election, of course, but even though he's out of a job, I doubt if he can share the agonies of the average unemployed in this country. From a grateful government, Ford gets more than $100,000 including Congressional back pay and military pension, plus a lavish office to write his memoirs attacking Carter, a staff of secretaries and more bodyguards than the Godfather. He couldn't have done better if he'd worked for Sears. I don't see him lining up for food stamps and unemployment checks.

Unemployment clerk (looking over his job application dubiously): "You are looking for an executive job, Mr. — er, Mr. Ford? What was your last position? President of the United States? I see. And before that you were? Vice president? You seem to have a tendency to flit from job to job. Not an indication of stability. Do you have a letter of recommendation from your last employer? Oh, Mr. Kissinger is in Tel Aviv, but you're sure that as soon as he gets back . . . hm. Well, take a number and go stand in the "F" line for your unemployment check. If anything in the way of head of a nation turns up, we'll notify you."

When Ford and the First Family pro-tem jetted out to the sunny California desert, it was with the avowed purpose of relaxing, having a good time, no pressure. But what was the first thing he did. He played GOLF! A man who thinks of golf as relaxing, having a good time, clearly disqualifies himself for the responsibilities of running a nation. I wouldn't trust him with a rest home.

Have a good time playing golf, when your drives slice into the trees and your 3-woods hook into the water? Are you having fun when you find yourself lying three already and three-quarters buried in a sand trap on a par three hole? Are you really enjoying yourself trying to wedge onto the fairway from behind a large pine tree? Is it a thousand laughs when your 3-iron soars over the fence, bounces in the highway and rolls half way to Twentynine Palms?

Relax, he says. Relax? When that water hazard looms like the Panama Canal in front of you? When the sand trap yawns like the Sahara Desert? When a four-foot birdie putt grabs your knees like a meeting with Brezhnev on nuclear restrictions?

No pressure? You're already one over and you're faced with a 9-iron shot that would challenge Jack Nicklaus. Hit it just right, quarter swing, hands forward, and you split the hole. Blow it and it's a double bogie. Iran, South Korea, busing, unemployment, inflation, bankrupt cities — what are these to the pressure of an absolute must 9-iron struck with the delicate touch of a surgeon?

I've always liked Jerry Ford — voted for him, in fact — but if he thinks the golf course is any place to relax and have a good time, he shouldn't be allowed out by himself.

Dr. Lamb

High pressure needs medicine

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am concerned about the medicine that my husband has been taking for seven years for high blood pressure. His blood pressure is normal now, 140 over 80, but the doctor says he still should keep taking Enduron, one tablet each morning.

DEAR READER — Enduron is another medicine to help people eliminate salt and water. It is used commonly to help control mild high blood pressure. It will not hurt your husband.

Many people who have high blood pressure and require treatment will have to take it the rest of their lives. The medicine keeps the blood pressure at normal levels. If your husband stops taking his medicine he may be right back where he started in a very short time.

Again, anyone who has high blood pressure should get rid of every excess pound of body fat. I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently I read that taking insulin could cause blindness. I am a diabetic and take insulin. Now I'm really scared that the insulin will cause me to go blind. Should I stop my insulin and follow some diet to control my diabetes? Would you send me a diet I could use instead of taking insulin?

DEAR READER — No, I am not going to help you do something that would be harmful to you. Those scare stories were about some really interesting research but research is all it is at the moment.

The story related to the idea that people become "allergic" to insulin and this causes the overgrowth of blood vessels in the back of the eye that can lead to blindness in diabetics.

There is not a single case on record of this occurring in humans. Dr. George Cahill, president of the American Diabetic Assn. and professor of medicine at Harvard has already pointed out that this eye problem also occurs in patients who do not take insulin.

Biological research is complicated. You can produce a fever by causing heat stroke but that does not mean all fevers are indicative of heat stroke. The old dictum in logic is that "the simultaneous occurence of two events does not prove a cause and effect relationship." So it is with the animal research on insulin. The fact that we can produce vascular changes in animals in certain controlled conditions does not prove that this is how they are caused in diabetics.

The best way we know at present to prevent these eye problems is to adequately control the diabetes. That means following your doctor's instructions. While I am on the subject let me say once again that no one should ever stop taking medicines on his own. This can be dangerous. Suddenly stopping your medicines may cause a reaction in some cases. The epileptic, for example, who takes Dilantin may be thrown into a severe convulsive attack if he suddenly stops Dilantin on his own.

In your case stopping your insulin could allow your diabetes to get worse and could cause diabetic coma with really serious consequences. The way to get the most out of your doctor's instructions is to follow them.

A Friend who's always there

"The other elevator is stuck at the third floor," the workman told me as I got on. "The doors won't open and it's full. It's been stuck for over twenty minutes." Just as he finished that sentence, our elevator passed the other elevator. The sounds of talking and laughter echoed across the elevator shafts and suddenly it struck me, "It's not bad being stuck in an elevator if you're with friends."

It's not bad being stuck anywhere if you're with friends! The wonderful thing about knowing God is that he is a friend who is always with me. And not only is God with me, but with God's ability, I have the power to get unstuck.

Are you stuck someplace? Invite God into that place with you. It's not bad being stuck if you're with a friend. Especially a friend like God.

Says who?

Doctors' excuse labeled 'phoney'

Bruited about of late is the common notion that the typical doctor declines to give emergency treatment at an accident for fear the injured patient might subsequently file a malpractice lawsuit. In stories that mention such legal actions, they're known as Good Samaritan cases. But do they really ever come up? A medical journal of sound reputation asked its readers to document any such instances, offering $100 to the first subscriber who could submit a provable case. None turned up. It's a widely known fact that medical malpractice suits have multiplied greatly recently. But insiders insist the threat of legal action as a result of Good Samaritan treatment is phony.

No repair shop owner who serves the public should fail to post the following sign over his parts counter: "Of course I want it today. If I wanted it tomorrow, I'd order it tomorrow."

The literal meaning of the word "subtle" originally was "finely woven."

WRESTLING

Q. "Does the winner get more money than the loser in a professional wrestling match?"

A. Not ordinarily. Those entertaining fellows work on salaries, mostly. They're assigned by their promoters whether to be the hero or the villain and when to win or lose. They work out of booking agencies like stand-up comics and after-dinner speakers.

Q. "How'd we get started giving feminine names to hurricanes?"

A. That began in Australia. Cyclones there first were named after politicians. The politicians complained. Then they were named after politicians' wives. The wives complained. So finally they were just named after women in general.

INSURANCE

When Lloyd's of London sometime back insured a theatre-goer against dying of laughter at a certain play performance, it was obviously a publicity stunt. But that was not thought to be the case when the firm met the request of a worried soul who bought a policy against being struck by a meteorite. Already reported was the fact that Lloyd's once, too, wrote insurance that promised some sort of compensatory payment in the event the insured were ever to see a ghost.

Most of the people in Africa want to move into the city. Most of the people in the United States want to move out to the country. The international surveytakers found that out. They conclude: The more industrialized the nation, the greater the longing for rural living, and visa versa.

In ancient Greece, the first thing a woman did when she went into mourning was cut her hair short, the footnotes indicate.

Wasn't too long ago, really, that the Japanese had two different forms of writing, one for men, the other for women.

Q. "WHO WAS CALAMITY JANE?" SANDI MENGELKOCH PLYMOUTH, MN

A. CALAMITY JANE WAS THE NICKNAME OF MARTHA JANE CANARY, A FAMOUS AMERICAN FRONTIERSWOMAN. SHE WAS AN EXPERT WITH A HORSE AND RIFLE.

Calamity Jane is the nickname of Martha Jane Canary, a famous American frontierswoman. Born in 1852 on the plains of Missouri, Calamity Jane was raised in mining camps in Montana, Wyoming, and Utah.

She learned to be an expert with a rifle and revolver and was a skilled horsewoman. Because of the roughness of the life she led, she dressed in men's clothes.

She was given her nickname because she used to warn men that to offend Martha Jane Canary was to court calamity.

According to some accounts, Calamity Jane was an Indian fighter, a scout for Col. George A. Custer, and later drove freight wagons.

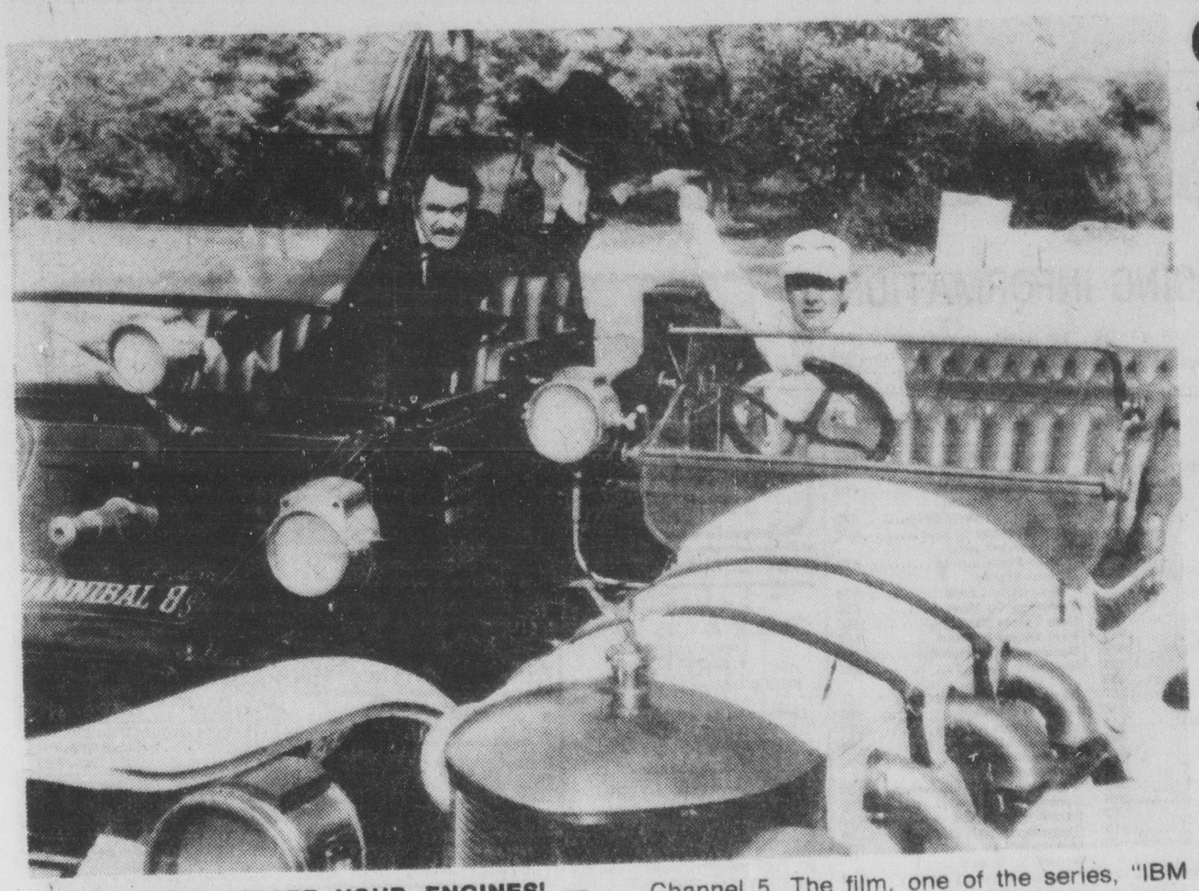

She moved to Deadwood, South Dakota, during the gold rush of 1876. Two years later she became a heroine by nursing its miners through a smallpox outbreak.

She died in 1903 and is buried in Deadwood, near the grove of "Wild Bill" Hickok.

Citrus to offer music

Two concerts, open to the public without charge, will be presented in the Citrus College auditorium this month.

The Citrus College Jazz Ensemble will give a jazz concert Sunday at 4 p.m. Included in the varied program will be "Lonely Street," featuring alto saxophonist Leslie Edmonson; "Quincy and the Count," a Count Basie tune; "Blue Orleans," a rock tune; "Round Midnight," by Thelonious Monk and "Teare," by Ken Stanton. Also included in the concert will be an original composition by Citrus College graduate Joseph Barth entitled "Bi-Si for Jazz Band," and, as a special feature, a performance by four former Citrus musicians, the Citrus Alumni Jazz Quartet.

On Nov. 23 at 7:30 p.m., the 50-member Citrus College Wind Symphony will present a concert featuring many sections of the symphony in addition to the entire group. The flute section will be featured in "Flute Rag" and the trombone section in "The Trombone King." The percussion section will star in "Fanfare and Celebration" and the entire symphony will conclude with Symphony No. 4 in F Minor by Tchaikovsky.

Violin recital at Ambassador

Violinist Salvatore Accardo will make his only United States recital appearance at the Ambassador Auditorium, Pasadena, at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Accardo has been referred to as "the violinistic equivalent of an Italian tenor" by the press, as critics note his astounding technique. He has won an impressive list of first prizes — including the Niccolo Paganini International Competition — and appeared with some of the world's greatest conductors — Szell, Mehta, von Karajan, Kempe, Sawallisch, Barbirolli, Haitink, Neumann and Muti.

Tickets for the performance are $6.50, $5.50 and $4.50. Both the box office and Phone Charge (BankAmericard, Master Charge or American Express) are open Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday, noon to 6 p.m. Tickets are also available through Liberty and Mutual ticket agencies.

Construction booms in first 10 months

Valley continues to grow...and grow...and grow

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A building boom unprecedented unequalled since the expansion years of the early 1960s has begun to change the face of the valley.

Building permits for nearly 2,000 homes, conservatively valued at $100 million, have been issued during the first 10 months of the year in cities and unincorporated areas on the Los Angeles side.

And while figures are still being compiled for the West End of San Bernardino County, officials there also expect a banner year in home construction.

Some Realtors and developers feel the boom in construction is making the valley proportionately one of the fastest growing areas not only in the state but also in the entire nation

"They may be building more homes in the Irvine-Mission Viejo area of Orange County, and in Houston, Texas," Developer Randy Lewis said. "But I think it is safe to say that the valley, proportionately, is right up there with them."

Lewis, director of marketing for Lewis Homes, a developer which is currently building homes in 10 locations throughout the valley, says homes have been moving twice as well this year as in 1975.

He said it was quite possible that by the end of the year the number of homes on both sides of the valley for which permits have been issued might reach 5,000.

Why the sudden surge in home construction here?

John E. Maulding, superintendent of building of Los Angeles County, feels the area "is the only way to go.

"Developers are running out of land closer to Los Angeles so they have to move out farther," he explained. "The Pomona Valley is the only place left where land prices have not yet moved out of sight."

Lewis feels buyers are "borrowing from past years and because of favorable conditions are investing ahead of time. For the past several years the home buying market was depressed, money was hard to get. Recently interest rates have dropped some what and people are taking advantage of it."

Mark Warren, president of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors, contends the valley is "the only place left where buyers can still get an occasional bargain." He says a home costing $45,000 here probably costs $65,000 to $70,000 in Orange County or the San Fernando Valley.

Another quake hits China

Two playing football at school shot

Two Cucamonga men playing football at Cucamonga Elementary School Sunday were shot and seriously wounded following a verbal confrontation with several other men, according to West End Sheriff's deputies.

Michael Ralph Robinson, 19, shot in the left abdomen, was listed in fair condition this morning at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland, while Wayne Allen Carver, 18, was listed in satisfactory condition with a gunshot wound of the upper right thigh.

Deputies said the shooting occurred a short time after the men playing football got into an argument with three or four male Latins. Shortly afterwards one of the Latins wearing no shirt was observed climbing over a fence carrying a .22 caliber rifle. The gunman raised the rifle and shot Robinson. The other football players ran for cover and the gunman fired several other rounds, one hitting Carver in the thigh.

The lone gunman was described as a Latin, 5 feet 11, 130 pounds with black short hair.

AFTER THE VOTE

President-elect Jimmy Carter shakes hands with the roped-off crowd outside the Plains Baptist Church Sunday after the congregation voted to open its doors to all people and to keep the Rev. Bruce Edwards as pastor. Carter is a member of the church.

Not quite as bad as last one

TOKYO (AP) — A strong earthquake struck Peking today, rocking tall buildings and sending people screaming into the streets, according to reports from the Chinese capital. There was no immediate word of damage or casualties.

The National Earthquake Information Service in Golden, Colo., said the quake registered 6.5 on the Richter scale and the Seismological Institute in Uppsala, Sweden, rated it at 6.8. That would make it considerably weaker than the July 28 killer quake in Tangshan, southeast of Peking, but still capable of causing severe damage.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one whole number corresponds to a ten-fold increase in ground motion. A reading of six is considered a strong quake, seven means a major earthquake.

BREAKS ARMS

Rep. Morris K. Udall, unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, broke both arms over the weekend in a fall from a ladder at his suburban Virginia home. "1976 has not been my year," said the Arizona Democrat. His left arm is in a cast and his right arm in a sling.

Carter's church drops racial barriers

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter says that when his small Baptist church decided during an emotional meeting to drop racial barriers "I was just one of the church members."

He later welcomed a black man to a worship service.

Carter, according to his fellow Baptists, exerted no pressure during the two and three-quarter hour meeting Sunday. Nonetheless, the congregation voted to do what he has advocated since 1965.

It opened the church doors to all who want to worship, regardless of race. And it voted to retain the pastor who agreed with Carter's prointegration stand, The Rev. Mr. Bruce Edwards.

The church also set up a screening committee consisting of the pastor and four deacons to be elected by the congregation in about two weeks.

Carter said the committee would question prospective members "about whether their intent is sincere." He said "the understanding is that this will not be based on racial considerations."

Although Carter did not lobby heavily during the meeting to sway the vote, his status put another kind of pressure on the congregation, symbolized by the dozens of reporters and hundreds of tourists who waited outside the church in the rain for the decision.

"We felt the whole world was looking at Plains today," said one of the church's deacons, Frank Williams.

The church decision began a week for Carter in which he planned to hold a news conference today at the auditorium of the Southwest Georgia Agricultural Experimentation Station near here. Wednesday, he will meet with Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale and congressional leaders near Atlanta.

The church controversy was started by the Rev. Mr. Clennon King, a nondenominational minister from Albany, Ga., one-time Republican gubernatorial candidate and civil rights activist. Just before the Nov. 2 election, he tried unsuccessfully to join the church in a move many saw as an effort to embarrass Carter.

Sunday, he waited in the rain and said after the votes were announced, "I think it's wonderful. It vindicates the church. It vindicates the people of Plains."

Two hikers found near Crystal Lake

A missing La Verne youth and his companion from Covina were found this morning by sheriff's deputies after the pair failed to return from a hike in the Crystal Lake area of San Gabriel Canyon north of Azusa.

The youths, Bob Portuguse, 18, of La Verne, and Dale Parks, 17, of Covina, were found near the spot where their car was located Sunday evening. The vehicle, legally parked and with its doors locked, was located along Route 2 about two miles north of Highway 39.

Portuguse and Parks were reported missing when they failed to return home from their hike late Sunday afternoon. The search began then and was intensified this morning at daybreak with a sheriff's helicopter being used in addition to searchers on the ground.

The pair was located shortly after 9 a.m. and deputies were transporting them to the station in San Dimas. They were well and unhurt despite the chilly night spent in the open with temperatures dropping to around freezing.

Another hike in food prices seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers food prices next year could rise an average of 3 to 4 per cent, the same rate of increase as this year, a top Agriculture Department forecaster said today.

This year's 3 per cent increase in food prices has been the smallest year-to-year climb in five years, following leaps in both 1973 and 1974 of 14.5 per cent and an 8.5 per cent increase last year.

In terms of what a family spends on food, considering both groceries and meals eaten out, the increases have meant that what cost $10 in 1972 now costs $14.65. The forecast for 1977 means that the same $10 worth of food will cost between $15.09 and $15.24 a year from now.

Rex F. Daly of the Agriculture Department's Economic Research Service, who made the forecast, said "the band of uncertainty is wide" when it comes to predicting farmers' incomes. In the end, net farm income for 1977 could be pretty much the same as the 1976 average, Daly said.

The tentative forecasts came in remarks prepared for the opening of USDA's annual four-day conference on the outlook in the coming year for farmers, farm families and grocery buyers.

Daly's predictions, based on normal weather and no surprises in the world agricultural situation, are the first official ones from the department to cover all of 1977, instead of just the first six months.

The conference's estimates traditionally are hedged because so much depends on unpredictable weather in the grain belts this coming spring and again in July and August. Those are the critical growing months for the corn that feeds the animals that become the meat that makes up so large a chunk of the retail food dollar.

Supreme Court won't review Concorde ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to review circumstances of the government decision allowing commercial flights of the British-French supersonic jet Concorde to the United States.

The justices let stand a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Washington that Secretary of Transportation William T. Coleman Jr. acted within his authority in permitting the Concorde to operate on a trial basis at two U.S. airports.

Authorities in Fairfax County, Va., and Nassau County, N.Y., seeking to stop the Concorde flights, asked the high court to review circumstances of Coleman's decision.

Coleman last February gave permission to British Airways and Air France to fly the Concorde, the world's fastest passenger plane that crosses the Atlantic at twice the speed of sound, into Dulles International Airport in Virginia and John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York.

Claremont youth shot

A Claremont youth was in serious condition today, but alive, after having been deliberately shot by one of two hitchhikers who robbed him after he gave them a ride early this morning, Pomona police reported.

The victim, Kenneth C. Morandi, 17, was shot in the jaw with a .22-caliber pistol. The bullet shattered into fragments which were removed in surgery at Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he later was placed in the intensive-care unit.

Morandi picked up the two young men on Towne Avenue south of the San Bernardino Freeway. Shortly after they got in his car, one drew a pistol and ordered him to drive to Claremont. They reached Base Line Road when he was ordered to turn around and return to Pomona.

The victim was directed into an alley in the 800 block of E. La Verne Avenue where he was ordered from the car. He was searched and cash taken from his wallet.

Then the armed youth touched his temple with the muzzle of the pistol, withdrew it a few inches and fired.

Morandi said the blast jolted him, but he managed to run. He fled to a house nearby and asked its residents to call police. Police found his car still in the alley with the keys in the ignition.

The armed youth was described as black, 18 years old, 6 feet tall wearing a light-tan cap and white and purple checkered trousers.

Weather

Clear skies today and Tuesday with local dense fog in the San Bernardino area and gusty winds in the desert and mountain areas. High temperatures today between 65 and 75 with overnight lows between 45 and 52. High Tuesday in the upper 70s. Sunday's high was 65 and the low temperature this morning was 53. Tuesday sunrise 6:24, sunset 4:47.

FBI memo to be subpoenaed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a House committee investigating assassinations said today he will subpoena an FBI memo indicating Lee Harvey Oswald told Cuban officials he planned to kill President John F. Kennedy.

Rep. Thomas N. Downing, D-Va., said he is aware of the memo only through news reports.

But he said "I feel sure it was a request from his committee, established to probe the assassinations of Kennedy and civil rights leader Martin Luther King, that led to discovery of the memo."

Not statistically significant

Hayakawa's aides deny 'Juggling' poll figures

SACRAMENTO (AP) — S.I. Hayakawa's campaign managers say they didn't show reporters a late poll showing Hayakawa trailing Sen. John Tunney — but not because they were trying to manipulate the poll figures.

The reason was that the poll figures were "not statistically significant" because they were based on only 200 interviews in a single day, said Richard Woodward, who helped run Hayakawa's successful campaign.

Woodward and partner Jack McDowell issued a statement Sunday criticizing a Los Angeles Times story that said Woodward had admitted juggling the poll figures.

"We did not juggle any figures and, obviously, we did not admit doing any such thing," Woodward and McDowell said.

"We do not imply any intentional distortion on the part of the Times writer, but his unfortunate choice of words in reporting his personal conclusion has challenged the integrity of the firm of Woodward and McDowell."

The one-day poll was part of a larger private poll, released by the campaign to reporters on Oct. 30, the Saturday before the election.

Based on 1,200 interviews in the six days ending Oct. 28, it showed Republican Hayakawa leading Sen. John Tunney by 3 per cent.

That was approximately the margin in Hayakawa's 227,000-vote victory over the Democratic incumbent Nov. 2.

Woodward said reporters weren't shown a day-by-day breakdown in the poll, and no one asked for one.

But the campaign had a breakdown of polling interviews on each of the six days, and on Oct. 28 it showed Hayakawa trailing Tunney 48 to 42 per cent, with the rest undecided.

That was the day after Hayakawa's publicized remarks saying the United States should be willing to send troops to southern Africa to prevent a bloodbath, and should encourage uprisings in Eastern Europe and threaten to send troops there.

The reason reporters were shown only the six-day survey, Woodward said, was that the day-to-day samples were too small to be meaningful. The six-day poll was an average of all the daily polls.

"We took the most up-to-date figures we had over a statistically reliable period," Woodward said.

But he agreed it might have given the impression to reporters that the week-long poll reflected public opinion as of Oct. 28.

And on Oct. 28, in fact, Woodward himself showed a reporter the day-to-day figures of the private poll for the previous few days as an indication that Hayakawa was gaining ground.

Woodward said later polls bore out the Oct. 28 indication that Hayakawa fell behind after his post-debate remarks, but recovered before the election.

Hughes air mechanics delay strike

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — A strike deadline by airline mechanics for Hughes Airwest was extended 24 hours until midnight tonight after progress was reported at the bargaining table.

Both sides agreed to the 24-hour extension early today at the request of the National Mediation Board in Washington, D.C., where the negotiations are being held.

The agreement was announced by David H. Stowe, a member of the mediation board, shortly after mechanics walked off their jobs at midnight Sunday. Picketing had been underway for 20 to 30 minutes.

Fatal crash

SANTA ANA (AP) — The pilot and only occupant of a single-engine airplane was killed when his plane crashed in the Cleveland National Forest, an Orange County Fire Department spokesman said.

The spokesman said the accident occurred Sunday as the unidentifid pilot was trying to find his way out of a low layer of clouds. He hit a mountain south of Holy Jim Canyon.

Firemen were helped in retrieving the body by a crew from the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station.

Suspect jailed

OXNARD (AP)—An 18-year-old youth has been arrested for murder in connection with the strangulation death of a 17-year-old Oxnard High School student.

Fernando Jimnez, 18, was arrested Saturday after the body of Mona Cantu was discovered on the school grounds.

Her parents told police she was going to a football game Friday night with a girlfriend and then was to spend the night at the friend's house.

Youth killed

NORCO (AP) — An 11-year-old boy has been killed and his friend injured when a freshly-dug construction ditch caved in.

The dead boy was identified as Clay J. Hawkins. His friend, James Lantry, was buried to the waist Sunday but was rescued by firemen and released after he was examined at Corona Community Hospital.

Officials were unsure what caused the five-foot-deep ditch to collapse, but said several boys had been running along its rim.

Slasher trial

LOS ANGELES (AP—The trial of the man accused of the Skid Row Slasher murders was to resume today with more prosecution testimony about the nine killings that occurred between December 1974 and January 1975.

Vaughn Orrin Greenwood is charged with the murders, along with two others that occurred in 1964.

The Los Angeles Superior Court trial, expected to last five weeks, recessed Wednesday for the Veterans Day holiday.

Jail hanging

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A 47-year-old inmate at Central Jail has hanged himself, Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies say.

Samuel Quintana, 47, was found hanging in his cell late Saturday. He had used strips of blanket to commit suicide, deputies said.

Kidnap trauma

Chowchilla children still 'haunted' by nightmares

CHOWCHILLA (AP) — When the young victims of the nation's most bizarre kidnaping were freed four months ago, they handled the massive attention of reporters and townspeople with amazing aplomb.

After only a few hours of rest, the Chowchilla children told with surprising detail and coolness their individual stories of being in captivity for 27 hours, including 16 hours in a buried moving van.

But negative reactions have since developed among some of the children, showing up in nightmares and nervousness, parents say.

Judy Reynolds, 13, is bothered because her eighth grade classmates still treat her as "one of those kids." Her sister Becky, 10, finds herself uncharacteristically shy.

"Sometimes I really need to talk about it and how I am feeling," Judy says. "Sometimes I don't want to talk about it at all."

Their mother Evelyn quit her night job as a convalescent hospital aide because the girls began having violent nightmares.

"My kids are more important," Mrs. Reynolds says.

"Most of the children are different," she adds. "Most of us could use a psychologist, and some even a psychiatrist. It sure would help. But we just can't afford things like that."

Mrs. Reynolds says she and her husband have become more irritable since the trauma of the July 15 abductions.

"I've been feeling so low," she says. "I go into depressed moods. I'd like to get away and forget about it all."

But Judy points out: "Momma, you know anywhere we go, they're still talking about it."

Jennifer and Jeffrey Brown, who with their mother, Joan, have been the Chowchilla victims most accessible for interviews, have nevertheless experienced some behavior problems, Mrs. Brown says.

Jennifer, 9, has nightmares, and Jeff, 11, gets nervous when he rides the bus home from school each day. The children were abducted from a bus taking them home from summer school.

Their father, John Brown III, sometimes leaves the house for several hours to avoid having to talk about the experience, but their mother is writing a book about her feelings during the period the children were kidnaped.

An airplane flight to Disneyland for the children with a Southern California Lions Club serving as hosts kept Andrea Park, 8, from developing emotional problems, says her mother, Janice.

"They didn't talk about the kidnaping," Mrs. Park said. "Over and over they told the kids, 'You're here because we love you and we care about you. You're special.' It really worked on Andrea."

Seemingly least affected by the trauma are the four pre-teen daughters of Celia Carrejo, all of whom were on the bus. Mrs. Carrejo says the girls seem untouched by the experience, perhaps because they keep active as a group making up and performing dances and singing with their mother.

Other children who were on the bus that day face crises unrelated to the kidnaping, particulary Jody Matheny, 10.

A progressive eye ailment is gradually blinding Jody, and he takes a Braille typewriter to school. His family's chief concern is not making Jody adjust to the kidnaping but helping him get prepared for the time when he will be sightless.

For Alaska pipeline

Obispo oil site rated over Southland spot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A report prepared by the state Office of Planning and Research says San Luis Obispo Bay may be a more suitable site for an offshore receiving terminal for Alaskan oil than the Port of Long Beach.

The report, published Saturday by the Los Angeles Times, did not endorse the idea but said if the proposed Long Beach terminal does not meet environmental standards, the San Luis Obispo Bay site merits further study.

The Times said the memo is expected to bring additional pressure on Standard Oil of Ohio, which proposed the Long Beach facility, to more thoroughly investigate possible offshore terminal sites.

The state Air Resources Board ha charged that a terminal in Lon Beach would add to air pollutio Sohio claims it can reduce emission from other pollution sources in th Long Beach area, thereby trading o air quality effects.

The Times said Gov. Edmund G Brown Jr.'s special assistant for e vironmental protection, Eli Che now, has warned Sohio in a lett that he doubts the firm could ma significant trade-offs.

Long Beach authorities ha favored the plan to locate a termin off their shores because of revenu that would go to the city.

Potential sites according to t report would be off the northw Santa Barbara County shore.

Four killed in separate auto mishaps

By The Associated Press

A Los Angeles man was killed today and his rider was injured when the car he was driving went out of control on the Golden State freeway and crashed into the Los Angeles River.

The California Highway Patrol said the driver, whose identity was being withheld pending notification of next of kin, was traveling at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred in Glendale near the Colorado Boulevard extension.

The car hit a guardrail, bounced back into the center of the freeway, then veered off and went into the river, the CHP said.

A woman passenger was hospitalized with major injuries.

On Sunday, three men were killed when their car slid across the center line on California 74 near Sun C and was hit broadside by a pic truck.

The California Highway Pat said the car had Washington lice plates but there was no identificat

The driver of the truck, Gor Anderson of Wrightwood, and wife, Betty, were hospitalized what were described as moderate juries.

Spotlight on area crime

Off-duty officer gunman target

An off-duty California State Police officer checking a suspicious vehicle parked near the Jolly Jug bar, 5065 W. Holt Blvd. in Montclair early this morning was accosted by two men and shot at several times, Montclair police reported.

Officer Jimmie Dean Dee Dolen, told Montclair officers he was in the bar about 1:36 a.m. when a customer approached him and said he knew he was a police officer. The customer told the officer that two men, possibly armed, were in the bar and acting suspiciously.

Dolen said he went outside and was writing down the license number of the men's car when they approached him and demanded he hand over the paper he was writing on. Dolen said he refused and one of the men drew a revolver. Dolen, unarmed, ran for cover. The man fired three rounds at him and missed. The two men sped off in the vehicle.

Dolen described his assailants as being whites, 25 to 27 years of age. One was 5 feet 10, 180 pounds, and clean shaven. He was wearing a three-quarter length coat, high heeled brown shoes and had a gold ring with large green stone on his left hand. The other man was wearing a long sleeved green shirt with grey pants. He was armed with a .32 caliber pistol.

Dairy robbed

A lone gunman wearing a blue plaid shirt robbed the Scott Brothers Dairy Store at 12000 East End Ave. in Chino of a small amount of cash Saturday evening, West End Sheriff's deputies reported.

Deputies said the gunman walked into the store and confronted the clerk with a revolver. The gunman took the cash and fled.

The robber was described as a Latin, 19 to 23, 5 feet 8, of medium build. He was clean shaven wearing the blue plaid shirt and dark green pants.

Window smashed

Jack Wantz, owner of a custom jewelry store in the 300 block of East C St. in Upland reported that a thief smashed the window of his business Sunday morning and made off with a set of torquoise jewelry valued at $2,000.

Peace army moves into Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian troops and tanks of the Arab League peacekeeping army rolled into Beirut today to complete the occupation of the Lebanese capital and try to end 19 months of civil war.

Syrian patrols strode through the city's streets taking over Christian and Moslem positions. Rightist Christian fighters met them with dull resentment but no resistance. Palestinian street fighters first responded with scattered sniping, then occasional embraces and fraternal smiles. Civilians came out of their homes chanting "Welcome" and embracing the occupiers.

Spokesmen for the warring Lebanese and Palestinian factions said the takeover was a 99 per cent success by midmorning, with the Syrians in control of the radio and television stations, the central bank and government offices, and the no man's land dividing the city.

The airport highway was taken over from Palestinian guerrillas. Officials said the airport would be ready to operate again within a week for any airline willing to resume flights here. It has been closed for five months.

It was the first time the Lebanese capital has been occupied by a foreign power since U.S. Marines landed here in 1958 to stop another civil war.

Syrian forces were also moving into other areas of western Lebanon. One armored brigade penetrated deep inside the 800-square-mile Christian enclave north of Beirut to take over the Byblos coastal region 30 miles from the capital and Kiserwan, a mountain district.

A Syrian-Sudanese contingent advanced into the Chouf mountain area southeast of Beirut, the stronghold of Socialist leader Kamal Jumblatt's Druze Moslems.

There was no word, however, of Syrian penetration into Moslem-held Tripoli and Sidon, 60 miles north and 25 miles south of Beirut. The Syrians also were staying away from the southern border, apparently to avoid friction with Israel.

Heavy machine-gun fire and artillery and rocket explosions that began during the night still shook Beirut as the 6,000 Syrian troops and 400 tanks, many decorated with roses and olive branches, moved into the city from the north, east and south at dawn. The fighting later subsided.

Jubilant residents rushed to balconies and lined the steets to greet the Syrians with chants of "ahlan wasahlan," Arabic for welcome. Housewives tossed rice on the camouflaged tanks and sprayed crews with rose water as they rumbled into an area of fashionable cafes. One man climbed onto a Syrian jeep and kissed two young soldiers.

Two other mechanized brigades of 6,000 Syrian troops backed by 200 tanks ringed the capital, and Syria's air force was put on alert to help quell any resistance, an Arab League spokesman said.

MAMIE AND HER MINISTER

Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower meets her minister, the Rev. Robert A. MacAskill, in the Eisenhower Lounge of the Presbyterian Church in Gettysburg following church services Sunday. The Eisenhower family helped Mamie celebrate her 80th birthday with a luncheon at her farmhouse.

Mamie celebrates her 80th birthday

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former First Lady Mamie Eisenhower has celebrated a quiet 80th birthday, listening to her favorite hymns at a church service and spending the day with her grandchildren.

A children's choir sang "That Old Time Religion" and "Brighten The Corner" at a special service at the 400-seat First Presbyterian Church, which was filled to capacity Sunday.

The children's choir also treated Mrs. Eisenhower to a chorus of "Happy Birthday," as did about 50 well-wishers who awaited the Eisenhower family as they left the church.

Mrs. Eisenhower was accompanied to the services by her son, John, and his wife, Barbara, and their four children, including David Eisenhower and his wife, Julie Nixon Eisenhower.

Group bitterly opposes freeing of ex-SS officer

ROME (AP) — Jews, leftists and relatives of the 335 victims of the Ardeatine Caves massacre vowed today to do all they could to prevent former SS officer Herbert Kappler from being returned to his native Germany to die.

Kappler, incurably ill with cancer of the rectum and weighing only 84 pounds, has been in the Celio Military Hospital for 10 months. A military tribunal recommended to Defense Minister Vito Lattanzio Saturday that the former Nazi security police chief of Rome be given a conditional release after serving 28 years of his life sentence.

There was no indication when Lattanzio might decide whether to let the 69-year-old man go home to die.

Kappler issued the orders for the execution on March 24, 1944, of 335 Romans in retaliation for the killing of 32 German soldiers the day before by Italian partisans. Seventy of those executed were Jewish.

The court that sentenced Kappler in 1948 ruled that he was carrying out orders when he ordered 320 persons shot, since the Nazi policy was 10 Italians killed for every German victim. But the court found Kappler directly responsible for the other 15 executed. He said their deaths were a mistake due to the confusion.

Some 4,000 people marched Sunday to the Ardeatine Caves where Kappler's victims are buried, and 250 more demonstrated outside the hospital.

Police stopped 50 of the demonstrators who smashed a gate and tried to enter the hospital. But later two relatives of the massacre victims were allowed to see Kappler to dispel rumors that the report of his illness was a hoax and that he was already out of Italy.

"It is Kappler, even if he does look rather like a ghost," Marco Moscati reported to the crowd outside the hospital.

The other witness, Rosetta Stamme, said: "He was unshaven, his face like a skull. He saw us, then he bowed his head."

Franco Cuttica, Kappler's attorney, told reporters:

"Kappler was glad that some among the protesters could see him and his condition. If they asked him to go and kneel on the tombs of the victims, he would go."

Cuttica said Kappler could hear the demonstrators shouting, "We have not forgiven you" and "Kappler has been sold for German money."

"He realizes that these reactions can be justified," the attorney said. "He knows that his repentance is no consolation for the loss of loved ones."

A dozen of the demonstrators stayed on watch all night outside the hospital to make sure Kappler was not spirited away.

Wintry storm hits Sierras with snow

By The Associated Press

Winter isn't officially here until Dec. 21 but that didn't stop a wintry storm from hitting the Sierras and much of Nevada Sunday.

Up to eight inches of snow was measured on Echo Summit west of South Lake Tahoe, Calif.

Chains or snowtires were required on Interstate 80 over Donner Summit in California and on the Mt. Rose Highway in Nevada for the first time this season.

Highway patrol officers in both states reported many fender-bender car accidents but no major mishaps.

The storm was welcomed by many Northern California ranchers who had been caught in a lengthy drought.

Skiers and ski resort operators also welcomed the storm and hoped for more snow so that the ski season in the Sierras could start as early as Thanksgiving this year.

Four union leaders sentenced to jail

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Four union leaders have gone to jail because Springfield fire fighters refused to obey a court injunction against their strike.

The union leaders entered jail Sunday after Judge Richard Cadagin of Circuit Court handed down 30-day terms — and a $5,000 fine against the union — for contempt of court.

Thomas Sonneborn, a lawyer for Local 37 of the International Association of Firefighters, said he would ask Cadagin today to vacate his order jailing the four.

If the request is denied, Sonneborn said he would file an appeal and ask for the fire fighters' release on bond pending a decision.

Before the judge issued the sentences on Saturday, the firemen offered to return to work if the City Council agreed that none of them would lose their jobs because of the strike. They also asked for an arbitration board in the dispute.

The proposals were rejected.

The city has been without its regular 156-man fire department since Thursday, but striking firemen have traveled to potentially dangerous blazes in their private autos to help the handful of ranking fire officials still on duty. There have been no major fires.

The jailed men were Rex McCawley, Local 37 president, and vice president Steve Stadtman, treasurer Tom Blough and secretary Larry Schafer.

Sea search called off

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Coast Guard has called off its search for 18 crewman missing in the Pacific Ocean since a lumber ship sank last Thursday.

The Coast Guard air and sea search covered 1,000 square miles around sunken ship before being suspended late Sunday. The missing sailors were presumed drowned.

The ship, Carnelian-1, sank last Thursday 1,400 miles northwest of Hawaii in the worst Pacific's weather of the year. The crewmen were seen bobbing amidst 20-to 30-foot waves, clinging to the ship's floating cargo of logs.

Fourteen crewmen were rescued by two nearby merchant ships, but high seas and 40 to 60 mile per hour winds hampered the search. One life-jacketed crewman was found dead in the water.

According to the West Coast agent for the Carnelian-1, the crew consisted of 18 Chinese and 15 Burmese. The ship was owned by a Panamanian company and chartered by a Japanese company to transport logs from Washington state to Japan.

"It would be impossible for anybody to survive out there with 55-degree water and the seas the way they were," said Forest Telfer, a Coast Guard spokesman.

Brezhnev greeted by Yugoslavia's Tito

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev arrived today for a three-day visit and welcoming bear hugs from President Tito, who is expected to seek reaffirmation of Yugoslav independence from Soviet domination.

The 84-year-old president, looking thinner than he did before his recent illness, stepped forward to meet the Soviet leader as Brezhnev's limousine pulled up at the carpeted ramp in front of the White Palace. The two spread their arms, kissed and exchanged three bear hugs.

Tito and Brezhnev, dressed in topcoats, gave each other broad smiles and were evidently in a good mood for the visit which Yugoslavia officially characterized as "friendly."

Stane Dolanc, secretary of the executive committee of the Presidium of the Yugoslav Communist party, and other high-ranking officials met the Soviet leader's plane when it arrived at the commercial airport here.

Because of his advanced age, Tito stopped going to the airport to welcome state visitors two years ago. Some observers considered it significant that he made an exception for two leaders since then — President Ford in August 1975 and Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu in September 1976. But he came down with liver trouble after Ceausescu's visit and did not resume his duties until two weeks ago.

Two shot to death

A La Puente man and a 16-year-old La Puente youth were found shot to death in a van parked in El Monte Sunday — apparently partners in a murder-suicide pact, police reported.

The discovery was made when police arrived to investigate blood dripping from the rear of the van. Inside they found the bodies of Roy Louis Gallardo, 36, and Joseph Ochoa Espinoza, 16.

Police said the deaths may have been the result of a murder-suicide pact although no notes were found. Each man had been shot in the head and a pistol was found in Gallardo's hand, according to police.

Building boom...

Anticipating the move to the east, Ralph Lewis, president of Lewis Homes, says his company has bought sizable parcels of land east of Alta Loma and Cucamonga at today's prices, so that when those parcels are developed he will be able to sell them a little cheaper than his competitors.

Overshadowed by the general boom is the fact that the City of Walnut led all other cities in the county, except Los Angeles, in the number of construction permits issued by the county in October.

The county's building department issued a total of 234 permits — including 218 for new homes — to that city, for a total valuation of $7,793,860, by far the biggest month in the history of Walnut.

The county also noted that Walnut's building permits for the 10-month period ending 31 Oct. covered construction work worth $17,921,390, another record for the city. But here, the city was outdone by La Verne, whose 10-month valuations based on the building permits, came to a total of $18,361,210. For the first 10 months of last year the value of La Verne's permits amounted to $4,231,650, and Walnut's to $7,461,200.

As for other cities on the Los Angeles side of the valley Claremont recorded $12,819,190 worth of permits so far this year, compared with $5,514,950 last year, San Dimas showed $8,334,580 this year compared with $4,232,511 last year, and Pomona, $7,032,370, compared with last year's $5,965,763.

A very large increase was shown by the county for its unincorporated areas served by the San Dimas office. Building permits were issued for construction valued at $31,011,568 this year, compared with $21,878,674 for the same period in 1975 for areas in San Dimas, Diamond Bar, portions of the Walnut area and the unincorporated areas around La Verne and Claremont.

And the pressure to build on keeps growing. Only last month the Regional Planning Commission received two applications to build nearly 1,400 homes in the west Diamond Bar area. And the Pomona building department is expecting the owners of Phillips Ranch to make applications for the construction of more than 2,000 homes within the next year.

Randy Lewis says he expects the boom to continue for perhaps another six months. He thinks money will become harder to get next summer.

"You'd be surprised how much of a damper tight money is on the construction industry," he declared. "The lender goes up one per cent and things come to a halt."

Moreover, bargain prices for land here are expected to stop soon, and that will cut down the movement of those from Orange County and the rest of Los Angeles County who have sought and found better homes here for lower costs.

"With the way the cost of construction is going up," Warren said, "it won't be long before only the most fortunate families will be able to afford homes here. And that goes not only for new homes but others as well. Families which can't afford to buy homes today will certainly not be able to buy them tomorrow."

Yet indications are that the building boom will continue at least through the next two years. Lewis doesn't expect to develop his newly bought land for a couple of years. And two other developers in the valley, Everett Hughes and Dan Murray, have enough tentative maps in their files to continue building for the next three years.

Perhaps the biggest problem developers face is not the financing but the insistence of city councils here for expensive high quality homes.

"They (the councils) want $65,000 and $75,000 homes," Warren shrugged. "They don't want any less expensive dwelling units. Who will buy those homes? How many families can afford a monthly payment of $600 to $750?"

Pomona man listed critical

A Pomona man was critically injured in a spectacular one-car accident early Sunday morning on the San Bernardino Freeway west of Garey Avenue, Pomona.

Stephen B. Longabach, 30, of 1960 Palmgrove Ave., was eastbound on the freeway when he apparently fell asleep, according to the highway patrol. The car struck the curb, hit a metal guard rail and flew into the air, striking a metal light pole nine feet up and crashing to the road on its top.

Longabach was reported in critical condition at the Pomona Valley Community Hospital this morning. He suffered a skull fracture and other injuries.

Patient found dead in house

A patient missing from a Pomona center for emotionally disturbed persons was found dead in a house nearby early Sunday by police who followed a trail of blood to the place.

The victim, Stephen Coker, 22, of Pomona, fled the center, Olive Vista, at 2350 Culver Court, by crashing through a plate glass sliding door. His body was found in a bedroom of the residence at 889 Diana Ave. where police said he had forced his way inside while no one was home.

It was not determined immediately if Coker died as the result of injuries suffered leaping through the glass door or possibly may have cut himself with a knife inside the residence, officers reported. An autopsy was ordered.

State trooper kidnaped, slain

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — A Virginia state trooper was kidnaped in his cruiser today and shot to death in an abduction that ended in gunfire at a roadblock in North Carolina, the North Carolina Highway Patrol reported.

The dead trooper was identified as Garland W. Fisher Jr., 33. Col. E. W. Jones, head of the North Carolina patrol, said the alleged kidnaper, Reuben Conley, also 33, of Atlanta, was wounded at a roadblock 10 miles north of here.

Conley was brought to the emergency room of Duke Hospital here, Jones said. He was in police custody, officials said, but they would not say if formal charges had been filed against him.

Col. Jones gave this account:

Trooper Fisher was kidnaped near Petersburg, Va., after stopping a suspicious car. The car he stopped later was found in the area.

"I understand the Virginia trooper was able to call his headquarters on his radio and tell them he had been shot and kidnaped, and that the man was forcing him to drive to Atlanta," Jones said.

North Carolina authorities used a tractor-trailer rig to block the south bound lanes of Interstate 85 in Granville County in north-central North Carolina, near the Virginia line. Shooting erupted as Fisher's patrol car approached about 1 a.m.

Jones said it was not clear whether Fisher died from a wound suffered when he was abducted, or whether he was shot again by his captor or was hit accidentally by gunfire at the roadblock.

Jones said Fisher's captor was believed armed with two weapons. He declined to give details about what prompted the shootout at the roadblock.

"I understand he (Conley) was wounded three times," Jones said. "He is in stable condition."

FBI agents and representatives of the North Carolina Highway Patrol and other police agencies questioned Conley at the Duke hospital.

French film star succumbs

PARIS (AP) — Jean Gabin, one of the biggest and most durable stars of the French film world, died this morning at the American Hospital after a heart attack. He was 72, had spent 54 years in the entertainment world and had made about 100 movies.

Gabin entered the hospital in suburban Neuilly Saturday evening, suffering from very high blood pressure.

His notable film appearances included the determined-to-survive foot soldier in "Grand Illusion," Jean Valjean in "Les Miserables," Georges Simenon's Inspector Maigret, the Algerian outlaw Pepe le Moko, "Crime and Punishment," the Mafia chief in "The Sicilian Clan," and the embittered old husband in "The Cat," for which he received the Best Actor Award at the 1971 Berlin Film Festival.

Born Jean-Alexis Moncorge, Gabin took the stage name of his father, a music hall entertainer, when he himself went on the stage. His mother was a singer.

After working as a mason and warehouse clerk, Gabin gave in to parental urging in 1922 and tried the entertainment field, starting with a walk-on role in the Folies Bergere.

He sang in a revue with Mistinguette, appeared in music halls alongside Fernandel, Bourvil and Raimu, and worked in operettas.

Turning to the movies in 1930 at the start of the talking picture era, he abandoned the stage and devoted himself exclusively to the new medium.

One of his directors, the great Jean Renoir, said of him: "Jean Gabin does not fit into the skin of a character, he composes the character and creates it from the start. The extent of emotions he can furnish is immense. His whole art is in delivering only the essential."

Away from the film set, Gabin refused to play the part of a star. He wanted only the company of his family and a few friends and said, "It's too tiresome to be friendly."

UPS strike unsettled

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The status of a 2-month-old strike against United Parcel Service (UPS) in 15 eastern states remained uncertain today with no confirmation that a tentative agreement was reached late last week.

The Teamsters Union strike has swamped the U.S. Postal Service with a package load more than double its normal pre-Christmas crush in 15 states from Maine to South Carolina since the strike began Sept. 15.

More than 17,000 employes of the private delivery service based in Greenwich, Conn., are affected by the dispute, which involves job protection issues and pensions for parttime workers.

The union is concerned over management's increasing use of parttime employes to replace fulltime workers through attrition.

The average hourly wage for UPS workers is $7, the company says.

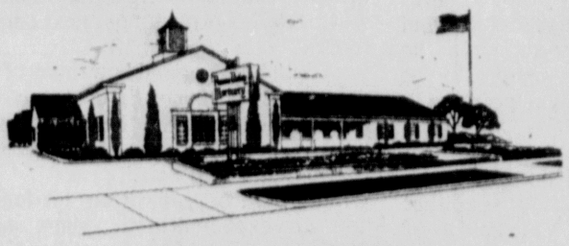

The report of a tentative agreement to end the strike came from Washington, where negotiations took place last week.

While the post office has hired extra employes and scheduled a great deal of overtime, delivery delays of varying lengths have been reported by businesses throughout the region.

Some shippers say deliveries have been more or less on schedule but costs have risen over what they would have been if UPS delivered their packages.

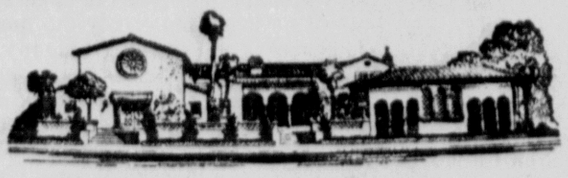

At least one UPS competitor, Greyhound Bus Lines, says it's enjoying a business boom because of the UPS strike.

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Jim: "I learned bridge while you were in Korea and I was at Notre Dame. When you got home and took off your uniform, I remember you taught me the importance of learning the single-suit plays."

Oswald: "These are the plays where declarer wants to do the best he can with a single suit. Maybe we should show some of them this week."

Jim: "Let's start with an easy one. South is in a normal three-nontrump contract. The key suit is spades and South needs four spade tricks. At some stage of the play he goes to dummy with the ace of hearts to take the spade finesse."

Oswald: "If it loses to the king the contract is doomed to defeat, but there is his majesty perched in the East hand and the finesse will work."

Jim: "Nevertheless he must be careful to start the spades by leading the nine from dummy. If he makes a mistake and leads the jack East can beat him by refusing to cover. He must play the six spot from his hand. Then, when the nine is led next, East holds back again. South must win in his own hand and can't lead through the king for the third time."

Ask the Jacobys

A Florida reader says that she averaged just 8.3 highcard points a hand after keeping count for 540 hands. She wants to know if she is unlucky.

The answer is that if her count was accurate she really was in a streak of very bad luck, but somehow or other we doubt if her count was accurate.

U. S. may push for major shift in NATO strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The return of a Senate mission from abroad this weekend may bring renewed pressure for a major shift in strategy for the defense of Western Europe against massive Soviet attack.

Heading the mission is Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., whose views are said to carry considerable weight with President-elect Jimmy Carter, a fellow Georgian.

Nunn, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, has questioned current strategy that assumes NATO forces would have about three weeks of warning of a Soviet attack and could fight a holding action for up to 60 days while reinforcements flow in from the United States.

Rejecting these assumptions as unrealistic, Nunn has said the Warsaw Pact armies, credited with a nearly three-to-one advantage in tanks and a two-to-one edge in artillery, are prepared to wage a short war after only a few days of intelligence warning with the aim of overwhelming NATO forces before they can be built up.

Nunn has urged that NATO strategy be revamped to fight such a short war "while retaining sufficient hedges to deal with a war of extended duration." He is reported to agree with the basic position taken by Army Lt. Gen. James Hollingsworth, who studied NATO defenses before he retired earlier this year.

Hollingsworth, who accompanied Nunn on the two-week Senate mission, turned in a secret report to Army leaders. Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld and Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, have been briefed on its contents.

Sources say the Hollingsworth report anticipates about two days of attack warning and recommends moving NATO's forces, including the 182,000-man U.S. Seventh Army, closer to the East German border.

The retired three-star general also is said to have recommended a major increase in allied artillery and missile firepower to enable NATO forces to halt attacking Russian and East European armies near the East German frontier.

Hollingsworth's report has not been received with unanimous enthusiasm in the Pentagon. Military and civilian officials stress it would be very costly to reposition the Seventh Army and move its huge stocks of ammunition and other supplies.

Like others before him, Hollingsworth is also said to feel that the NATO defense line in North Germany should be strengthened.

A former Defense Intelligence Agency analyst, writing in the current issue of Army magazine, says that Soviet planners expect their armies to reach the English Channel objectives in 14 days or less after the opening attack.

Canyon residents wanted out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Final vote totals indicate that a majority of northwest Los Angeles County residents wanted to carve themselves a new county but were stopped by massive opposition of those from whom they wanted to separate.

The vote against creation of Canyon County was 68.2 per cent of the ballots cast on the measure. But counts showed Wednesday that voters inside the would-be county balloted 55.3 per cent for seccession.

Set your thermostat at 68° instead of 72° and save! If you're in the habit of keeping your thermostat at 72°, you're wasting money.

Because with a slight flick of the wrist to the left, you can move the needle to 68°. And move your heating costs about 28% lower.

There are other ways to lower heating costs, too.

Properly insulate your attic. With proper insulation you can reduce heating costs substantially. You'll also save on air conditioning costs. Based on today's prices, properly insulating an attic in a typical house runs between $200 and $300.

And what better place to invest your money than in your own home? It's a sensible long-term investment. So call an insulation contractor.

Some more ways to lower heating costs and save energy. Lower your heat setting or turn it off when you're away from home. However, in areas where freezing may occur, a 40° thermostat setting is advisable.

Weather-strip your doors and windows. Close your draperies and curtains to keep heat in. Keep the fireplace damper closed as well as vents in rooms not being used. Make sure your filters are clean. Maybe they even need replacing.

Dirty return-air grilles and warm air ducts can cost you, too. And if you have electric radiant heating it will be worth your while when you are home to turn off thermostats in rooms not being used.

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Nov. 15, the 320th day of 1976. There are 46 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1777, the Articles of Confederation were approved by the American Continental Congress. The document was the law of the land until the Constitution went into effect.

On this date:

In 1492, Christopher Columbus noted in his journal the use of tobacco among the Indians. It was the first recorded reference to tobacco.

In 1805, the Lewis and Clark expedition reached the mouth of the Columbia River after a long trek across the West.

In 1806, Pike's Peak in Colorado was discovered by the explorer, Zebulon Montgomery Pike.

In 1889, the Republic of Brazil was founded.

In 1935, Manuel Quzon was inaugurated as the first president of the Philippine Commonwealth.

In 1969, 250,000 protestors against the Vietnam War staged a peaceful demonstration in Washington.

Ten years ago: An American commercial cargo plane with seven tons of mail crashed inside Communist East Germany, killing all three crewmen.

Five years ago: Communist China, making its first statement in the United Nations General Assembly, demanded that the U.N. reduce the influence of the superpowers.

One year ago: President Ford arrived in Paris for a six-nation summit meeting on Western economic policy.

Today's birthdays: Diplomat Averell Harriman is 85. Singer Petula Clark is 42.

Thought for today: "Gray hair is a sign of age, not of wisdom."

Health care in rural South still inadequate

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Despite the economic boom in the South, adequate health care remains a serious problem for the area's rural poor, many of whom see doctors only rarely — if at all.

"There are a lot of people who don't have enough contact with the rest of the world even to know when they are seriously ill," said Dr. Raymond Wheeler, Charlotte, N.C.

Wheeler, a past-president of the Southern Regional Council, told the Southern Rural Health Conference that education for these persons is as important as health care — or, at least, must come first.

Nearly half the nation's poor live in 13, largely rural Southern states. And Dr. Ray Marshall of the University of Texas says the New South, the industrial South, has masked many of its problems in the health field behind industrial promotion.

"We hear a lot of talk about how prosperous the South, the so-called Sunbelt, has become," he said. "That conceals the fact that we have whole areas that seem to be completely left out of this progress."

Wheeler said, "Economic development in the rural South is intimately related to the development of an effective health care delivery system."

The health conference reported: "The first order of business initiating these ... changes is the implementation of universal, comprehensive, national health insurance."

Such insurance, along with Medicaid and Medicare, must pay nurses and physician assistants who are the only medical contacts that many rural areas have, the conference reported. At present, Medicare will make payments only to doctors.

Laws of the various states specify who gets Medicaid payments, for the needy, but in most cases physicians must be present or must supervise the nurses or physician assistants — and, again, the payments go to the physicians.

Unless the laws are changed to permit payments to non-physicians, said Marshall, "It will be very difficult for many of these clinics ... to extend health care to these remote areas. You can't get a doctor in a town of 500."

Physicians have lobbied against direct payments to non-physicians involved in health care programs and against national health insurance. But the conference went on record as saying national health insurance is the necessary first step toward improving health care in the rural South.

The conference cited a preliminary task force report on rural Southern health, which showed:

—The death rate in the Rural South generally is 22 per cent higher than the national average.

—Infant deaths in the rural South are higher than in the rest of the nation but "for rural blacks the rate is 64 per cent higher than that of their white neighbors."

—In some areas of the South, doctors still have segregated waiting rooms for blacks and whites.

"Unfortunately, access to medical care in this nation depends on one's ability to pay for it and upon the availability of adequate health resources," said the report.

The problem is compounded by what the conference called "a disturbing decrease in black enrollment" in medical schools. Unless this trend is reversed, the report said, "it may be difficult to recruit medical professionals to meet health needs of minorities in certain areas of the South."

States represented at the conference were Alabama, Arkansas, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico.

Streets to be upgraded

LOS ANGELES (AP)— The Los Angeles City Council will provide funds for the upgrading of five city street systems as part of a county-wide traffic control project.

Yonkers, like N.Y. in financial crisis, now on rapid road to full recovery

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — This city, which a year ago fell victim to the same financial crisis that hit its giant neighbor New York City, is already well on the road back to solvency.

In November 1975, the state declared Yonkers to be in a state of financial emergency. A few weeks earlier the bond market had shut its doors on the city. Like New York City two months earlier, it narrowly escaped default by accepting the rule of a state-dominated Emergency Financial Control Board that monitors all spending by Yonkers.

Since then, the city has boosted sales taxes (now 8 per cent) and property taxes (up 13 per cent), balanced its budget, laid off about 1,000 workers (leaving some 3,200), eliminated its short-term debt, and re-entered the credit market with the sale of an $83.6 million bond.

Progress Bulletin
Finance
■ Pomona, California ■ Monday, November 15, 1976

With its budget reduced — it's down $11 million to $126.7 million — and increased tax revenues, Yonkers has turned a $9 million deficit in fiscal 1976 into an $11 million surplus in the current year.

The problems that a year ago turned Yonkers into a financial basket case were almost identical to those of New York City, although on a much smaller scale, says John Feeney, the state deputy comptroller who monitors the city's affairs for the control board.

The first, he says, was "a heavy reliance on short-term borrowing, which grew to $42 million. The city just assumed that the credit markets would be forever open. This was the rock around Yonkers' neck."

While the $42 million in short-term debt is nowhere near the $5 billion debt accumulated by New York City, it was still enough to threaten default when the bond market closed to Yonkers.

Second, "The city really did not budget realistically. The city was following a long-standing practice of overestimating revenues."

Further, with the aid of special state legislation, Yonkers had issued short-term notes to balance budget deficits in 1969 and 1971.

For these fiscal sins, Yonkers faced default on Nov. 17 and again in February. It was saved from bankruptcy by $25 million in state loans which have since been repaid.

City officials insist that the crisis a year ago wouldn't have been so serious had New York City not scared the bond market with its near-default.

But Yonkers had to pay a high price for the $25 million state rescue, in the form of loss of some home rule to the control board, layoffs and service reductions.

In the past few weeks, prospects have brightened that this Hudson River city of 200,000 will regain financial normalcy this July, when the control board is scheduled to disappear.

On Oct. 4, Yonkers cleared "the biggest hurdle we had to cross," says Feeney, when it was able to sell $83.4 million in bonds on the open market. This enabled the city to wipe out its $42 million short-term debt burden and pay off all other current liabilities.

Again, Yonkers paid a price for its good fortune. Last June, when prospect were not as bright, the city was placed under even tighter state controls to ensure the sale of the October bond issue.

The key aspect will force Yonkers to surrender to the state comptroller sufficient tax proceeds in each year of the 20-year life of the bond to ensure its repayment.

The bond rating firm Standard & Poor's was impressed enough by the state controls and by Yonkers' own cost-cutting efforts to assign the bond a respectable "triple-B-plus" rating.

Like New York City, Yonkers pays a large portion of its own education costs. About 50 per cent of the budget is devoted to schools. But unlike New York City, it doesn't have the problem of paying a share of the welfare bill. Yonkers' welfare bill is paid by Westchester County, where it's located.

Although Yonkers' financial affairs have turned for the better, it still faces considerable economic problems in the year ahead.

The city has been losing manufacturing jobs for more than a decade, a common phenomenon in Northeastern cities. According to city figures, manufacturing represented 35 per cent of the city's jobs in 1963, but has dropped to 28 per cent this year.

At the same time the city's largest employer, Otis Elevator, recently completed a major plant expansion in the city and now employs 1,350 workers in Yonkers.

Another major problem is the depressed state of the city's downtown district, which lifetime residents shun at night because of prostitution and street crime. The Yonkers City Council has plans to revitalize Getty Square, heart of the downtown area. But the city's $15 million, could delay the program for years.

Business briefs

MANCHESTER, Conn. (AP) — An estimated 2,700 fulltime and seasonal jobs would be created by a new warehouse center the J.C. Penney Co. is planning here, according to a published report.

The New York City-based department store chain plans to build a $20 million facility on 45 acres in the town, according to the Hartford Courant.

The Courant said a state official indicated the planned two million square foot facility would be the largest building in the Connecticut in terms of floor space if completed. The newspaper said the warehouse and distribution center would have an annual payroll of about $20 million and would generate about $1 million in local real estate and personal property taxes.

A spokesman for Penney's said the company never comments on reported negotiations until they are completed.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department continues to push wheat into export channels to try to help boost the domestic price and prevent a price-softening surplus next summer.

At the end of last week, for example, the department announced an increase of $16.8 million of wheat and wheat flour to its Food for Peace credit-sales agreement with Indonesia. That amounts to about 120,000 metric tons out of some 57.9 million produced.

The change also added about 50,000 metric tons of bulgur — parched, crushed wheat — to the pact, for a new total of $40.4 million worth of the commodities.

It also announced the signing of a new $31-million line of credit for Peru to finance sales there of $25 million worth of U.S. feedgrains and $6 million worth of U.S. soybeans. That's about 250,000 metric tons together.

DALLAS (AP) — Shareholders of the Dallas-based Wyly Corp, have been asked by the ompany to vote for a reorganization of the firm next month to avoid bankruptcy.

The founder of the computer service ocmpany, Sam Wyly, told stockholders in a letter the company has lost $135 million in the past 2½ years. He submitted a reorganization plan he said "provides the only realistic opportunity for Wyly to avoid bankruptcy and to maintain its computer service operations, the only remaining business."

The letter said the company, which is undergoing a second recapitalization plan, does not expect to recover any of its investments in Datran, a subsidiary which went into bankruptcy and was sold to Southern Pacific Communications Co. for $4.9 million.

TOKYO (AP) — A seven-member Vietnamese mission has arrived here to inspect Japanese oil refining and drilling facilities, the government's Japan Petroleum Development Corp. said Monday.

Oil industry sources said the mission's visit to this country may pave the way for future talks between Japan's three oil resources development companies and Vietnam for exploiting its offshore oil.

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — General Telephone & Electronics Corp., which last year admitted making $2.2 million in improper payments, said Thursday that the earlier figure was $2.1 million too low.

The company said its latest list of improper and possibly improper payments includes both domestic and foreign political contributions.

Thomas E. McCarthy, a company spokesman, would not say if American government officials received some of the money and he did not name the foreign countries which received GTE funds.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Alabama business, labor and political leaders Thursday applauded Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.'s plans for a $69 million addition to its plant in Gadsden, Ala.

The expansion plans were announced jointly by Gov. George C. Wallace and Goodyear Board Chairman Charles J. Pilliod Jr. in ceremonies at the state Capitol.

Pilliod said the 600,000-square-foot addition, which will be devoted to radial tire production, will make the Gadsden plant the world's largest tire facility.

Construction of the facility is scheduled to begin next January with a completion date of March 1978.

The project is expected ultimately to provide 500 new jobs, adding $10 million to the plant's current annual payroll of more than $45 million.

BOSTON (AP) — Seeking to end sales tactics reminiscent to the 1920s stock market boom, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission has obtained a court order forbidding a Boston firm "to cheat or defraud" its customers in selling London commodity options.

U.S. District Court Judge Frank Murray signed the permanent injunction against the First Commodity Corp. of Boston Thursday after the Commodity Futures Trading Commission filed a civil suit charging the firm with using fraud and high-pressure tactics to sell $3.6 million worth of the options.

Without admitting or denying the charges in the suit, First Commodity signed a consent agreement to the injunction.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Bertin C. Gamble, who overcame a recent attempt of some directors to oust him as chairman and chief executive officer of Gamble-Skogmo Inc., Thursday denied allegations that he has worked on major business deals without informing company directors.

In a prepared statement, the 78-year-old Gamble said the effort to remove him "was supported by false assertions that I have undertaken improper transactions without having fully discussed such matters with the board and without appropriate public disclosure of these matters.

"In fact, I have not committed and have never had any intention of committing the company to any significant transaction without appropriate review and approval by the board of directors and counsel."

He said he endorsed a decision by the board for the review of the matter by the firm's audit committee, with outside counsel of its choosing.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union, apparently abandoning a policy of undercutting shipping rates of other major maritime nations, is seeking to join international conferences that set rates on key North Atlantic routes, it was disclosed.

A formal Russian application was submitted late Friday to the Federal Maritime Commission which administers those rate agreements.

Karl E. Bakke, commission chairman, said the move may signal a new era of cooperation between Russia and capitalist countries, particularly the United States and Japan, in the area of commercial shipping.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A definitive agreement for the merger of Olympia Brewing Co. and Lone Star Brewing Co. has been approved by the boards of directors of both firms, Lone Star announced.

The agreement provides for the purchase of "substantially all the assets and business" of Lone Star by Olympia in exchange for 498,671 shares of Olympic common stock, a news release said.

Under the agreement, Lone Star shareholders will receive one share of Olympia common stock for each 3.75 shares of Lone Star common Stock.

Stockholders of both companies still must give final approval to the plan.

Olympia, with headquarters in Tumwater, Wash., markets Olympia and Hamms beer brands in 26 states. Lone Star, based in San Antonio, sells Lone Star beer mainly in Texas.

Officials said plans are to expand production at the Lone Star brewery and to eventually manufacture Olympia Beer at the facility.

Rams can't pull away in NFC West

Cardinals explode in second half

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Rams fans are assured of an exciting, meaningful race in the NFC's Western Division of the NFL.

This became fact Sunday when the Rams failed to take advantage of Atlanta's stunning 21-16 upset of San Francisco.

Handed a golden opportunity to put a little space beteen themselves and the 49ers, the Angelenos instead came up on the short end of a long 30-28 score in their own contest with the visiting St. Louis Cardinals thanks to a 25-yard field goal by Jim Bakken with four seconds left.

So once again this week's encounter with the 49ers at San Francisco becomes a "must win" game for the Rams. The 49ers (6-4-0) still are only a half game behind the Angelenos (6-3-1) and whoever wins this Sunday will be the division leader.

The loss to the Cardinals, combined with San Francisco's defeat at Atlanta, makes it unlikely that any Western Division team other than the conference champion is in line for for the NFC wild card spot in the playoffs.

Consequently, it's win the title or stay home for both the Rams and 49ers.

Sunday's game was a thriller from start to finish. With a light rain falling at game time and gray, threatening skies hanging over the Coliseum all afternoon, only 64,698 out of the sell-out crowd of 91,038 elected to attend.

The other 26,340 beat the chill and wet and stayed at home presumably to watch on TV. Those in attendance got their money's worth and those at home got a television bonus in a game they wouldn't ordinarily have seen.

Pat Haden, in his maiden, non-injury replacement start, drove the Rams to four touchdowns. The 28 points he helped put on the scoreboard are 8.5 more than the 19.5 the Rams had averaged through the first nine games.

However, the Ram defense gave up 16 points more than the 14-per-game that it had been averaging. There are two different views as to how that came about.

There is Chuck Knox's view and then there is the view held by most of the rest of us.

All agree that Cardinal quarterback Jim Hart had a super day, particularly in the second half.

Hart finished the afternoon's work with 20 completions out of 33 passes attempted for a total of 324 net yards. Even more startling was his second-half performance.

The chunky (6-1, 215 pounds) signal caller simply sizzled after the intermission completing 13 of 16 aerials for 229 yards!

It appeared that Hart had an exceedingly long time in which to get rid of the ball most of the afternoon, much longer than Haden or any of the Ram quarterbacks get.

Significantly, Hart was not sacked a single time. Knox used a four-man defensive line and rarely rushed his linebackers. Yet in his post-game analysis, he made a startling claim.

"I thought we gave him (Hart) a good rush," Knox said. "But he had fine receiving and he did a super job himself. I thought some of his receivers made super catches.

There WERE some fine receptions by Cardinal receivers, especially Pat Tilley and Ike Harris. Tilley, a 5-10 rookie, caught six passes for 120 yards including a 45-yarder.

Harris, 6-3 and a former wide receiver in the WFL for the Southern California Sun, snared eight for 130 yards.

But with Hart having a lot of time to throw, the receivers had a lot of time to work themselves open and they were wide open all too often.

There is also the matter of Knox's conservative nature. It really is the man's achilles heel as far as coaching ability is concerned.

After Haden passed and ran the Rams to a 14-6 halftime lead, Knox's conservative nature manifested itself again. He calls the plays from the sidelines and they are relayed through an assistant to the Ram quarterback.

Knox sure called a different game in the second half than he did in the first half.

Haden threw 13 passes in the first half, completing six for 127 yards including a "long gainer" of 65 yards good for a touchdown to Harold Jackson. He would have had a better percentage except for three straight incompletions in the last 26 seconds of the half as the Rams attempted to score again.

Throwing that many times apparently was more than Knox's conservative nature could stand. In the second half, Haden was allowed to throw only FOUR times. He completed all four but only for 45 yards total. The longest was 16 yards.

Maybe the Ram coach wasn't trying to sit on the eight-point lead, but he was reverting to his style of trying to control the ball and the clock.

You don't eat up the clock throwing "bombs." Knox's penchant for ball control all too often seems to allow a good opponent to either build up momentum at the start of a game or take it away from the Rams in later stages.

Illustration: In the second half Sunday, the Rams, with Haden throwing only four times, made only 83 net yards! In the first half, with Haden passing 13 times, the Rams gained 200 yards net. IN contrast, the Cardinals had only 131 yards net at halftime despite the fact that Hart threw 17 passes. But he hit on only seven (for 95 yards) and had two intercepted.

However, the lack of success didn't phase either Hart or coach Don Coryell. They stuck to their big-play philosophy and the Cardinals, an explosive team, exploded in the Rams' faces.

The writer used to doubt that Knox's conservative offense would ever get the Rams to the Super Bowl. Now we have to wonder if if it will even get them to the playoffs.

Harold Jackson and Ron Jessie, two speed burners who could really make a big-play offense go, caught only five passes between them. Lumbering John Cappelletti was the receiver for the other five.

Knox simply cannot abide gaining more than a few yards at a time.So the Rams, who could be one of the most explosive, exciting teams in the NFL, plod through dull wins most of the time opening up only when forced to by strong opposition.

'TAIL' BACK? Rams linebacker Jack Reynolds tries to bring down Jim Otis of the St. Louis Cardinals in action Sunday, but the Los Angeles defender comes up with only a small portion of Otis' uniform. Cardinals rallied to whip Rams, 30-28, at the L.A. Coliseum.

Driver killed at Ascot Park

GARDENA, Calif. (AP) — Daniel Lawson of Huntington Beach, Calif., died of injuries suffered in a crash during the figure-eight stock car race at Ascot Park Sunday night, a track spokesman said.

Lawson, who was 36, was involved in a crash at the figure-eight intersection and was taken to Memorial Hospital in Gardena, where he died of massive head and chest injuries, the spokesman said.

Lawson's death was believed to be the first in figure-eight stock car racing since the event was started at Ascot in 1962, the spokesman said.

Stage set for USC, UCLA

Progress Bulletin
Sports
Pomona, California ■ Monday, November 15, 1976

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The preliminaries are finished and the stage is set for Southern California's Trojans and the UCLA Bruins to battle for the Pacific-8 championship and Rose Bowl berth.

The second-ranked Bruins swept past Oregon State 45-14 Saturday to stay unbeaten at 9-0-1, and the third-ranked Trojans brushed aside Washington 20-3 to make their record 8-1.

Both USC and UCLA bring perfect 6-0 Pac-8 marks into next Saturday's showdown in the Coliseum.

Neither the Bruins nor the Trojans —perhaps looking ahead — were particularly impressive in last Saturday's games, but both teams did what they had to do to win.

Southern California, its highly regarded ground game held in check by the young Washington defense, had to rely on the arm of quarterback Vince Evans for the victory. Evans threw one scoring pass and set up the other USC touchdown with a long completion.

The Bruins' offense also did not look up to par, but got the help of five interceptions and four fumble recoveries from the UCLA defense to turn the game against Oregon State into a one-sided triumph.

The Bruins may have lost one of the top offensive stars for the upcoming contest against the Trojans. Wendell Tyler, UCLA's breakaway threat, hurt his shoulder in the first half against the Beavers and may not be able to play next Saturday.

The UCLA team physician said Tyler's injury occurred when the shoulder started to come out of the socket, then popped back in. The doctor said he wasn't certain if Tyler could play against the Trojans, but Tyler said he expects to play.

While the Bruins' top runner may be ailing Saturday, USC tailback Ricky Bell said he expects to be in "tip-top" shape for the game.

Bell, who injured an ankle three weeks ago against Cal and set out the next game, returned to action against the Huskies. But he did not look 100 per cent healthy, gaining just 21 yards on 12 carries.

As for the outcome of next Saturday's game, most rate it a tossup. The Bruins have a slight advantage in that, since they have a better overall record, they could go to the Rose Bowl with a tie against the Trojans.

Oregon State Coach Craig Fertig, a former USC quarterback, said after watching his Beavers lose to UCLA: "I'd say that the Trojans are bigger and stronger on defense but UCLA is faster, I think they're even on offense.

"The quarterback who gets the hot hand will decide the winner of that game."

The Trojans' Evans has been the better passer this season, but UCLA quarterback Jeff Dankworth is a dangerous runner and also can throw the ball relatively well.

"It's a tossup," Washington Coach Don James commented. "They are two great football teams. I think if they played 10 times, it would come out five and five; they're that close."

Trojans Coach John Robinson also rates the game even.

"I don't know any other way to evaluate it," Robinson remarked. "I have no idea how it's going to go."

Mariners open on March 10

SEATTLE (AP) — The new Seattle Mariners, of the Amercan League will play their first baseball game on March 10, a club spokesman said Friday.

The team released its "Cactus League" schedule of games to be played during spring training.

Seattle opens play against the Oakland A's at the Mariners' spring home, Tempe, Ariz.

One shot sinks Lakers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cleveland Cavaliers guard Foots Walker saved his ammunition and fired only a single shot against the Los Angeles Lakers, but his bullseye made the difference.

The field goal attempt was the last one of the game, and did the Lakers in as the Cavaliers pulled out a 97-95 victory.

"It was my first shot of the game and it was a good one," Walker said of his layup with three seconds left.

"The plan was to hit Jim Brewer, but he got hung up. The clock said there were seven seconds left, so I decided to take over.

"I had a choice of whether to throw it to Jim Chones or to lay it up, and I decided to lay it up."

Walker's goal climaxed a rally that saw the Cavaliers make up a 13-point deficit in the final quarter. Chones, playing in foul trouble, chipped in nine points in the final period to set up Walker's heroics.

The Cavaliers are now 11-2, the second best record in the National Basketball Association. But Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch said he was not completely pleased with the way his team has performed.

"To tell the truth we haven't played that well," Fitch said, "not nearly as well as our record indicates. If we don't improve ourselves real quick, we are going to put a few on the other side of the won-loss column and I don't want that to happen."

Lakers Coach Jerry West was understandably distressed as his club blew a late lead and fell to 5-7.

"Turnovers killed us," Los Angeles' first-year coach said. "Atrocious ball-handling lost us the game. We wasted a good effort.

"If a pass isn't there, it shouldn't be made. You can't coach against these mistakes."

Chones, who got into early foul trouble, finished with a game-high 23 points. Forward Bobby "Bingo" Smith and reserve forward Campy Russell each added 16 points for the winners.

High scorer for Los Angeles was forward Cazzie Russell with 23 points, followed by center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar with 20, and guard Lucius Allen with 18.

The Cavaliers and Lakers hurried their showers and left the building quicker than usual because of a reported bomb threat.

A spokesman for the Lakers said the Inglewood Fire Department called the Forum moments after the Cavaliers' victory over the Lakers. The team spokesman said fire officials explained they'd been contacted by an unidentified person who overheard two people talking about a bomb in the arena.

"This is not an ununsual occurence in a public place like the Forum," the Lakers spokesman said.

"There are normal procedures carried out when a threat is received, and this time it was easy to check the building out because it was almost empty."

Kings' winless streak now five

CHICAGO (AP) — Coach Billy Reay says he didn't think his Chicago Black Hawks deserved to be ahead 3-1 early in the second period, considering the way they were playing.

The Los Angeles Kings came back with three goals in a row to take the lead 4-3 before the Black Hawks recouped for a 5-4 victory Sunday night.

The win puts Chicago at the top of the Smythe Division of the National Hockey League.

Chicago's Phil Russell took a pass from Pit Martin following a faceoff and fired in a 50-footer for the winning goal.

Russell's third-period goal, his third of the season, came against goalie Gary Edwards, playing his second game of the year. The loss ran the Kings' winless string to five games with two losses and three ties.

Los Angeles Coach Bob Pulford lamented, "We have been able to win only one of our last seven games....somehow we are not putting it together and we are not getting enough good play from our guys."

But, Reay said that LA is a good skating team and out played his Hawks for a good part of the contest.

Alain Daigle's fourth goal of the season late in the second period had boosted Chicago into a 4-4 tie.

The high-scoring trio of Mike Murphy, Marcel Dionne and Tommie Williams tallied in tandem for LA, with Butch Goring getting assists on all three Kings' goals.

Gene Carr had given Los Angeles a 1-0 lead early in the first period before Chicago's Grant Mulvey tied the game.

Late in the opening period, Chicago's Dennis Hull got credit for his second goal of the year when Jim Harrison's 25-footer bounced off Los Angeles defenseman Bob Murdock and off the skate of Hull.

Hull fired home a 30-footer to give the Hawks a 3-1 lead early in the second period after he took a pass from Ivan Boldirev.

Pulford was surprised there were no Hawk penalties.

Pulford, while not blaming the loss on any particular individual, said "that when you get two deflections against you, you know your luck is not there."

One of those deflections, came on the winning goal, according to Goring, who said he saw Russell's shot bounce off Murphy's stick into the net.

Reay was elated that he will be able to take Bobby Orr and Darcy Rota, whose leg was injured, on the road trip to New York, Atlanta and Pittsburgh next week, but for Orr, "it's still a day-to-day thing," he said.

Five locals set for CIF playoffs

Five valley prep teams will be in action as the CIF football playoffs begin this week.

Chaffey High (6-3), the tri-champion from the Citrus Belt League, will open the 4A playoffs at home vs. Los Altos, the third-place team from the powerful Sierra League.

Both the San Antonio League co-champs, Garey and Damien, drew home games for their openers in the 3A Division. Garey (7-0-1) will host El Modena, the third-place squad from the Century League. Damien (7-1) will entertain Mark Keppel, the second-piace team from the Mission Valley League.

San Dimas and Walnut both made the 2A playoff field. The Saints (8-1), champions of the Hacienda League, will open at home vs. Indio, the second-place team from the Desert Valley League. San Dimas has already announced that that tilt will be played Friday night at 8 p.m. at Bonita High.

Walnut, the Hacienda runnerup, will be the lone local involved in a road contest in the opening round of the playoffs. The Mustangs (7-2) will be traveling to Riverside to play La Sierra, the champion of the San Andreas League.

The valley will have no entries in the 1A playoffs this year. Ontario Christian had been a possibility but the Knights finished third in the Olympic League and were not chosen.

Also not selected were Ganesha (the SAL's no. three team) in the 3A bracket, and Alta Loma and Bonita in the 2A competition. Alta Loma and Bonita finished tied for third in the H.L.

Steelers still need help

By Associated Press

The defending National Football League champion Pittsburgh Steelers are the owners of some pretty impressive statistics.

—They haven't allowed a touchdown in five games.

—After allowing 110 points in the first five games of the season, they have allowed only nine points in the past five.

—They have outscored their opponents 132-9 in the past five games.

—They hadn't given up a point in 15 quarters, including three consecutive shutouts, until Miami's Garo Yepremian kicked a field goal in the third quarter of Sunday's 14-3 Steeler victory.

But the Steelers also must face some pretty depressing realities.

Playing perhaps the best football in the NFL now, they still could miss the playoffs and a chance for a third straight Super Bowl, trailing Cincinnati by two games in the American Conference Central Division with a 6-4 record.

And, for the second time this season, quarterback Terry Bradshaw is injured.

In the first quarter against Miami, Bradshaw sprained his right wrist. Although X rays were negative, Bradshaw said he didn't know how long he would be out.

"I'm coming off a real serious injury, and then something silly like this happens," said Bradshaw, who sustained a serious concusion in the fifth game of the season, an 18-16 loss to Cleveland.

"We're in the stretch run now, and they need me."

Steelers' defensive tackle Joe Greene added, "If we don't make it to the playoffs, we don't have any shoulders to cry on but our own.

"I've always contended that if you're going to be there, you deserve to be there."

In other NFL games Sunday, New England upset Baltimore 21-14, St. Louis beat Los Angeles 30-28, the New York Giants upset Washington 12-9, Atlanta beat San Francisco 21-16, Oakland defeated Kansas City 21-10, Cleveland downed Philadelphia 24-3, Cincinnati edged Houston 31-27, Chicago defeated Green Bay 24-13, Minnesota downed Seattle 27-21, New Orleans nipped Detroit 17-16, Denver whitewashed San Diego 17-0 and the New York Jets shutout Tampa Bay 34-0. Buffalo is at Dallas tonight.

The Steelers scored on a 21-yard run by Franco Harris, set up by rookie quarterback Mark Kruczek's 20-yard pass to Lynn Swann, and Reggie Harrison's one-yard plunge.

Patriots 21, Colts 14

Quarterback Steve Grogan ran for two touchdowns, and New England, 7-3, moved to within a game of Baltimore in the AFC East title chase.

Grogan's three-yard scoring run in the first half completed the scoring as the two teams battled scorelessly through the second half.

Baltimore quarterback Bert Jones was intercepted twice by cornerback Mike Haynes, stopping potential scoring drives.

"That was a big play," Grogan said of his second TD run, "but the major thing was that our defense shut out a very high scoring team in the second half."

Giants 12, Redskins 9

Joe Danelo kicked four field goals, and the Giants—still unable to score via the touchdown route—picked up their first victory of the season. All of Washington's scoring came on field goals by Mike Moseley.

Washington moved to the Giants seven in the waning seconds, but a Joe Theismann pass was intercepted in the end zone by Jim Stienke.

Falcons 21, 49ers 16

Scott Hunter threw two fourth-quarter touchdown passes to Alfred Jenkins as the Falcons, 3-7, dealt San Francisco, 6-4, its third straight loss.

Both Hunter scoring passes came after 49er fumbles.

Raiders 21, Chiefs 10

Ken Stabler threw two touchdown passes, upping his league-leading total to 20, and Oakland picked up 211 yards rushing, the most this season. Mark van Eeghan led the ground attack with 95 yards.

Browns 24, Eagles 3

Cleveland, 6-4 and tied with Pittsburgh in the AFC Central, won its fifth game in the past six on Brian Sipe's two TD strikes. Browns' cornerback Ron Bolton intercepted a Mike Boryla pass in the fourth quarter and ran it back 37 yards for a touchdown.

Bengals 31, Oilers 27

Ken Anderson's 47-yard touchdown pass to Isaac Curtis with 42 seconds left gave Cincinnati, 8-2, its victory in a game which seesawed back and forth all afternoon.

"We were desperate," said Anderson, who passed for three TDs and ran for another. "I was looking for the big play."

Bears 24, Packers 13

Chicago's Walter Payton became the first player in the NFL to surpass the 1,000-yard mark this season, running for 109 yards and a touchdown.

Vikings 27, Seahawks 21

Fran Tarkenton set a club record for completion percentage, 26 of 31 for 84 per cent, and threw for two touchdowns as Minnesota came back to beat upstart Seattle, which led 21-20 at one point in the fourth quarter. Tarkenton now has 301 career TD passes.

Saints 17, Lions 16

New Orleans' Warren Capone picked up a Detroit fumble and ran one yard for the winning touchdown. Bobby Douglass also threw a 69-yard scoring pass to Larry Burton.

Broncos 17, Chargers 0

Denver shutout San Diego for the second time this season as quarterback Steve Ramsey threw for 224 yards, including a 59-yard scoring pass to Rick Upchurch.

Jets 34, Buccaneers 0

The Jets posted their first shutout in 13 years, and Joe Namath came off the bench to ignite a first-half scoring burst, passing two yards to Rich Caster for one touchdown.

Knight can't be sure about Indiana team

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (AP) — Indiana's defending NCAA basketball champions open the season in less than two weeks, and Hoosiers Coach Bobby Knight, as usual, says it will be a while before he knows how good his team is.

"Except for Kent Benson, I won't know one single thing about the players on this team until we play a real game," Knight said after Sunday's first full scrimmage in front of about 5,000 persons at New Castle High School.

Benson, a 6-foot-11 All-American center and the only returning starter from last year's undefeated national championship team, scored 40 points.

"We need to play someone besides ourselves before I'll know how this team will be," said Knight, starting his sixth season at Indiana with a 125-20 record and four straight Big Ten Conference titles.

"I thought we looked good in some things and not so good in other things," the coach added, not elaborating. "We're just going to need a game to see which people play well in certain positions."

Benson, Most Valuable Player in last year's NCAA tournament in which the Hoosiers beat UCLA by 15 points in the semifinals and Michigan by 18 for the title, is the only sure starter. He scored 22 points in the first half and 18 in the second, Sunday as Knight shuffled his players.

The second-half squad of Benson, junior guards Jim Wisman and Wayne Radford and sophomore Rich Valavicius and freshman Mike Woodson at forward—good possibilities at this time for starting spots—hit 26 of 39 shots from the field.

Benson hit 10 of 14 shots in the first half and nine of 15 in the second, and Woodson, connected on eight of 10 for 16 points in the second half. "He had pretty good shot selection," Knight said.

Besides Woodson, other first-year Indiana players are Mike Miday, Derek Holcomb and Glen Grunwald, plus injured Billy Cunningham and Butch Carter.

"The freshmen have adapted to college practice well," Knight said, "but it'll be an adjustment for them to play in front of 18,000 people."

The Planning Commission of the City of Pomona does hereby declare and give notice that a public hearing will be held on November 22, 1976 in the City Hall Boards & Commissions Rm., 505 South Garey Avenue, at 5:00 p.m. regarding a request for certification of an Environmental Impact Report concerning the Mountain Meadows Redevelopment Project covering an area of 151.34 acres bounded by McKinley Ave. on the north, Ganesha Blvd. on the west, a parcel map boundary on the east and the San Bernardino Freeway on the south.

Copies of the above Environmental Impact Report are available for review by the public in the Pomona Public Library and in the Planning Division of City Hall at 505 S. Garey Avenue, Pomona, Calif.

All persons interested in or having objection to this proposal may appear as indicated above and/or review the data, including detailed locational information, on file at the Planning Department office, 505 South Garey Avenue, Pomona, California.

Orange Bowl has tough pick

By the Associated Press

Who is Iowa State and why are the Cyclones doing such bad things to the Orange Bowl?

The Cyclones have gone along for years serenely minding their own business as one of the doormats of the Big Eight Conference, with a brief flurry of excitement when Johnny Majors took them to the 1971 Sun Bowl and the 1972 Liberty Bowl and then took off for Pittsburgh. Even so, this is only their third winning season since 1960.

So it comes as quite a surprise to see Iowa State—unheralded, unranked and, as yet, uninvited—tied for the lead in the rugged Big Eight Conference with Nebraska, Oklahoma, Colorado and Oklahoma State.

And you can bet it came as a shock to the Orange Bowl people when the Cyclones upended ninth-ranked Nebraska 37-28 Saturday and put the onus of selecting a host team for the New Year's Night game squarely on the shoulders of the selection committee.

And as of late Sunday night, the committee still was scratching its collective head trying to solve the dilemma because the odds are that the race will end in a three-way tie among Colorado—which has only lowly Kansas State left— and the winners of the Nebraska-Oklahoma and Iowa State-Oklahoma State games.

Matters reached this confusing state when Iowa State toppled Nebraska while 14th-ranked Oklahoma downed No. 11 Missouri 27-20, No. 17 Oklahoma State trounced Kansas State 45-21 and No. 19 Colorado whipped Kansas 40-17.

Iowa State's victory also may have cost the Orange Bowl a shot at No. 1-ranked Pitt since it is unlikely the Big Eight will have a team in the Top Ten to offer as an attraction when this week's ratings are released.

After the top-rated Panthers defeated West Virginia 24-16 behind Tony Dorsett's 199 rushing yards and three touchdowns, a source close to the team told The Associated Press: "To me, it looks like we'll go to the Sugar Bowl. I think the kids would rather go to New Orleans to play a 10-1 team than to Dallas (the Cotton Bowl) to play an 11-0 team."

Seventh-ranked Georgia, 9-1 with one game left, won its way into the Sugar as the Southeastern Conference representative by drubbing Auburn 28-0. Meanwhile, fifth-ranked Texas Tech, 8-0 with three games to go, remained atop the Southwest Conference with a 34-7 rout of Southern Methodist. The Red Raiders have a first-place showdown with runner-up Houston next weekend—the 12th-ranked Cougars were idle last weekend—and tough games with Arkansas and Baylor after that.

"There ain't no doubt who we want," said Georgia quarterback Ray Goff, who handed off to Kevin McLee often enough to enable him to gain a school record 203 yards. "We want Pitt. If you want to be No. 1, you have to play No. 1."

Invitations cannot be officially tendered until next Saturday and the Orange and Cotton Bowls insist that Pitt has not turned them down ... yet.

The only other bowl berth decided over the weekend was in the Fiesta Bowl. Cinderella Wyoming, which has not been in the Top Twenty all season following last year's 2-9 record, won the right to represent the Western Athletic Conference by shading Texas-El Paso 14-10.

Next weekend, second-ranked UCLA and third-ranked Southern Cal square off for the Pacific-8 crown and the host spot in the Rose Bowl, while fourth-ranked Michigan and No. 8 Ohio State wage their annual war for Big Ten-Rose Bowl honors.

Meanwhile, sixth-ranked Maryland blanked Clemson 20-0, clinching at least a tie for its third consecutive Atlantic Coast Conference title.

Pitt's Dorsett fell short of the 200-yard mark when he was ejected with 29 seconds remaining after exchanging punches with several West Virginia tacklers. With one regular-season game left—against arch-rival Penn State on Nov. 26— Dorsett has 1,724 yards for the season—the major college mark is 1,881—and 5,858 in his record-shattering career.

"They're deserving of their ranking," said West Virginia Coach Frank Cignetti. "They have what you have to have to be a great team—a great running back and an excellent defense."

Sub tailback James Owens, an Olympic hurdler, scored two of UCLA's three second-period touchdowns as the Bruins whipped Oregon State 45-14. Meanwhile, Southern Cal kept up the Pac-8 pace by downing Washington 20-3 as Vince Evans passed for one score and set up another while ailing Ricky Bell was held to 21 yards on 12 carries.

Rob Lytle scored three times and became Michigan's all-time rushing leader with 3,085 yards as the Wolverines rebounded from last week's upset loss to Purdue and belted Illinois 38-7.

Ohio State, however, remained one game ahead of Michigan with a tough 9-3 triumph over Minnesota on Jim Pacenta's tie-breaking four-yard run in the second period. Michigan must beat the Buckeyes to reach the Rose Bowl; Ohio needs only a tie.

After Maryland stretched its record ACC winning streak to 19 games in a row, Coach Jerry Claiborne broke a season-long silence on his unbeaten team's status in the national rankings.

"They deserve to be No. 1 or No. 2," he said.

Iowa State's Earle Bruce was not making any such claims but he was quite excited after Dexter Green ran for two scores and Luther Blue returned a kickoff 95 yards for another touchdown against Nebraska.

"I've never been this excited in my whole life," he said. "This is the greatest thing that's ever happened to Iowa State and Iowa State football."

Terry Miller may be the greatest thing that ever has happened to Oklahoma State. He rushed for 221 yards and tied the Big Eight record of five touchdowns against Kansas State.

Tenth-ranked Alabama and No. 18 Notre Dame are not in contention for the national championship this year, but they played a thriller, with the Irish winning 21-18 behind Rick Slager's 208-yard first-half passing, including a 56-yard touchdown bomb to Dan Kelleher. Notre Dame has taken all three meetings with Alabama and Bear Bryant ... by one, two and three points.

"I doubt very seriously I'll make it to the four-pointer," said the 63-year-old Bryant.

Rounding out the Top Twenty, No. 16 Texas A&M bounced No. 13 Arkansas out of the SWC chase 31-10, Kentucky upset 15th-ranked Florida 28-9 and Wake Forest kayoed No. 20 South Carolina 10-7.

East Carolina lost to Furman 17-10 and must win or tie against Appalachian State to take Southern Conference honors. Ball State blew a chance to win in the Mid-American Conference, losing to Western Michigan 24-10, but the Cardinals have another shot next week against Eastern Michigan.

The Ivy League wound up in a tie between Brown, a 21-7 winner over Columbia, and Yale, which downed Harvard 21-7.

Rutgers defeated Tulane 29-20 and extended the nation's longest winning streak to 17 games, while Northwestern ended the longest losing skein at 16, whipping Michigan State 42-21. Army reduced the number of teams with perfect records to four—Pitt, Texas Tech, Maryland and Rutgers—by disposing of Colgate 29-13.

Tickets sell in Toronto

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Blue Jays may strike out often on the baseball field in their first American League season next year, but the team promises to be a hit at the box office.

A club spokesman said Monday that the club has sold 5,000 season tickets in the one month they have been available. The team seems likely to set a record for season ticket sales by an expansion franchise. The record, 7,500, was established by the Kansas City Royals in 1969.

Bruins' McNab sets hot pace

By the Associated Press

With 63 games remaining in the Boston Bruins' regular season, center Pete McNab is just seven goals away from tying his career high of 24 for one season.

That's right, 17 goals in 17 games, including five two-goal performances, as the Bruins have soared to a seven-point lead over the second-place Buffalo Sabres in the National Hockey League's Adams Division.

"He definitely knows where the net is," said veteran Boston right wing Bobby Schmautz, who converted a McNab pass for a goal in the Bruins' 5-3 triumph over the Colorado Rockies Sunday night.

"I always thought that Phil Esposito was the best at getting off his shot from the slot, but I've never seen a kid as accurate as McNab," said Schmautz.

MCNab, the 24-year-old center who signed with the Bruins as a free agent last summer, led Boston to its fifth straight unbeaten game and kept the team unbeaten in eight home games with his latest two-goal effort.

"What's he got? Seventeen goals in 17 games?" asked Schmautz, tongue very much in cheek. "Ha. Maybe he can come out of his slump soon."

It is easy to laugh when you are No. 1 and winning, but Bruins Coach Don Cherry was not overly pleased that his club had so much difficulty beating the Rockies. "I get sick and tired of playing the last game of the Stanley Cup finals every game," he said. "We haven't had a laugher since the first exhibition game. Every game we've had has gone down to the wire. Either the other team has the hot goalie or we do."

Sunday night, the Bruins had the hot goalie. They also had McNab.

Penguins 5, Rangers 1

Pierre Larouche scored a goal and set up two others, and goalie Dunc Wilson stopped a penalty shot, helping the Penguins hand the Rangers a team record seventh straight home loss.

North Stars 4, Sabres 4

Bill Hogaboam scored twice, helping Minnesota tie Buffalo. Pierre Jarry and Glen Sharpley also scored for the North Stars, while Craig Ramsay's goal with 7:54 remaining tied the game for the fourth time. Andre Savard, Gil Perreault and Rick Martin were the other Sabres scorers.

Barons 3, Capitals 2

Mike Christie's first goal of the season, 15 seconds into the third period, lifted Cleveland over Washington. Doug Patey and Bob Sirois gave the Capitals a 2-1 lead after Cleveland's Wayne Merrick opened the scoring.

Alfred U. coach quits after 36-year career

ALFRED, N.Y. (AP) — Alex Yunevich, who had guided Alfred University football teams for 36 seasons, retired today, closing one of the longest and most successful coaching records in college football history.

No active coach matched Yunevich's record of continuous service at one school, a spokesman for Alfred said.

Yunevich, 66, an All Big Ten fullback on Purdue's unbeaten conference champions of 1929, came to Alfred in 1937 after coaching jobs at Lehigh and Central Michigan University. He had six undefeated teams and only six losing seasons at Alfred.

His Saxons won a total of 177 games, lost 85 and tied 12, making him the fourth winningest coach among present-day coaches in the country, a spokesman for Alfred said.

Alfred, a small college team in western New York, compiled a 4-2-2 record this season in NCAA Division III competition and won the upstate New York small college championship.

Brandt correct SAL net winner

It was erroneously reported in Friday's Progress Bulletin that Connie Elwell of Claremont High had defeated teammate Kathy Brandt in the San Antonio League girls' tennis finals.

Actually, Brandt defeated Elwell and will be the league's No. 1 representative in the upcoming playoffs.

Baja winner miserable

ENSENADA, Mex. (AP) — Ivan Stewart, 29-year-old professional dune buggy driver from Lakeside, Calif., is still trying to warm up after his chilly ordeal en route to victory in the SCORE Baja 1,000 kilometer off-road race.

Stewart was the overall winner among four-wheel vehicle drivers, although he was beaten to the finish line Sunday on elapsed time by 47 minutes by the motorcycle racing team of Mitch Mayes, Palmdale, Calif., and Larry Roeseler, Bloomington, Calif.

"It was miserably cold and muddy," Stewart said after finishing the 538-mile ordeal in 12 hours, 17 minutes and 28.4 seconds. "It was very, very easy to get lost.

"Mud was on the window. Goggles, they get dirty, and it doesn't do any good to wipe them off, because it gets on your hands. At least, there was no dust."

Stewart actually led on elapsed time when Roeseler and Mayes, who finished on their factory Husqvarna in 11 hours 30 minutes and 42.4 seconds, lost their large lead while Mayers was wallowing in the mud along a 100-mile section of Laguna Salada.

A few miles west of Mexicali at the north end of the dry lake — made mushy by runoff from Friday's fierce rain and snowstorm — Mayes led Stewart on elapsed time by 19 minutes.

But Stewart, who won one of the race's "Ironman" awards for driving all the way without relief, splashed down the peninsula in his Chenowth VW dune buggy wide open and had built up a 26-minute lead by the time he reached the fishing village of San Felipe 143 miles south.

Puddles of water so deep that nearly one-fourth of the field got stuck and dropped out were just as miserable to Stewart's race car as they were to the driver.

"We bounced around so much," Stewart said, "that the bolts came out of the shifting levers. I had to hold it in gear for five miles until I could get to the pits at El Rodeo. That wasn't so bad, but I had to slow down and go around the puddles, because I couldn't always shift."

Both Roeseler and Mayes said they got lost during their driving stints, slowing their pace to 46.73 miles per hour. Stewart averaged 43.77 m.p.h.

The muddy, sloshy course was produced by the three inch rainfall that caused a 24-hour postponement of the event. It was the wettest race any of the veterans could remember.

As Norm Johnson, a dune buggy driver from Las Vegas, put it, "The guy who was told to wet down the course sure did his job right."

Johnson and four other drivers got lost at night in the mountains near Valle de Trinidad about 100 miles south of here.

"There were five roads leading out of where we were," Johnson said. "So we all agreed to take one of them, see where it led and report back in five minutes. Sure enough, we all met back in the center again and one guy had found the way out. We followed him or we might still be there."

Despite his victory in the motorcycle class open only to riders over 38 years old, veteran Baja racer Brian Farnsworth of Irvine.

Farnsworth, another "Ironman" award winner, was scheduled to have a co-rider, but his partner was in jail.

Californian wins tourney

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — California Mark Lye fired a five-under-par 67 Sunday and scored a one-stroke come-from-behind victory in the Champion of Champions golf tournament with a 12-under 276 on the Victoria Golf Club.

Third-round leaders Simon Owen of New Zealand and Ken Nagle of Australia fell back as Owen shot a 70 for a 277 total and Nagle a 71 for a 278.

Lye, who shot a 68 on his birthday Saturday, said he felt like slackening off after the Chrysler Classic last week and only heard about his qualification while sitting in his motel room with his roomate, John Abendroth. Abendroth told him he should try since he had qualified for the Melbourne tourney.

"Being a diabetic, I felt I had had too much golf and was going to have a rest," Lye said. "I am certainly grateful that he insisted that I play.

"This is the biggest check I have ever won," he said of the $37,000 first-place prize money. His previous high was $2,600 in the 1976 Scandinavian Open.

Lye, of Napa, Calif., drew level with Owen with a birdie on the eighth. Owen regained the lead with a birdie on the 12th, but then three-putted the 14th for a bogey.

Lye took the lead again with a birdie on the 17th and both scored par on the final hole.

Lou Graham of Nashville, Tenn., made a late charge with a 67 and finished fourth at 279. His round included one eagle, four birdies and one bogey.

"Merit Delivers More Taste Than Higher Tar Cigarettes."

–American Institute of Consumer Opinion

Extensive taste testing shows Merit delivers flavor of cigarettes having 60% more tar.

The bottom line was conclusive:

In a series of taste tests conducted for MERIT by the American Institute of Consumer Opinion,* smokers from across the country judged MERIT to have more flavor than five leading low tar cigarette brands.

What's really startling —and of major importance to all smokers—is that MERIT has less tar than these five brands.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

Less tar. Yet more taste.

That's the report on a remarkable new taste process called 'Enriched Flavor.' A way to pack extra flavor into tobacco without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now smoke the cigarette. MERIT.

Expo 81 arrests may load S.B. jails

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

If Expo 81 becomes a reality, the present Ontario jail facilities won't be large enough to handle all the expected arrests, reports San Bernardino County Supervisor Robert Townsend.

Townsend and other county officials are concerned over the possible impact of the proposed world's fair in Ontario.

The supervisor from Chino noted recently that he was "somewhat startled" by statistics contained in a sheriff's report about projected space requirements for the West End sheriff's substation in Ontario.

Statistics showed that if the Expo 81 is held, a tremendous increase in jail bookings could be expected. Sheriff's Capt. Keith Larson, who submitted the report, estimated a 200 per cent increase in jail bookings, going from about 9,800 in 1980 to 28,000 in 1982.

Jail bookings would increase at a normal rate — perhaps 1,000 per year — if the world's fair was not held, according to the report.

By 1985 with the fair gone, the number of persons booked in the Ontario jail would "settle down" to 18,246 per year (owing to the fact some people who came for the fair would stay). But if Expo 81 was not staged, the report estimates about 14,727 bookings for 1985.

Townsend says the fair would require a major expansion of the West End sheriff's station in order to handle the increased bookings.

He acknowledges it also will mandate expansion and possibly several new buildings at the entire sheriff-court complex at Sixth Street and Mountain Avenue.

County officials have proposed expanded facilities at that location, and it would become the Ontario Law and Justice Center. County supervisors set aside more than $4 million in federal revenue sharing funds in 1974 for the planned complex.

Supervisors were scheduled to consider space requirements for the Law and Justice Center at their regular meeting today.

Townsend likely will raise the point of much-needed space if Expo should become a reality. He said just the residual effect of the fair on the West End will require additional personnel equalling half the manpower presently employed at the sheriff-court complex.

"That's quite an impact," he declared.

Supervisors' Chairman Dennis Hansberger has said "We can't afford Expo 81," and financial concerns seem to also be of interest to Townsend.

"My concern is, who will pay for the increased services?" Townsend asked.

The Chino supervisor explained that he recognizes the beneficial effects of Expo—regarding jobs and economic growth for the West End. "But we must evaluate the negative impact that will have to be shouldered by area residents—including an expected higher crime rate."

Other problems will be the need for more roads, water, sewers and other services, said Townsend.

In expansion of the Law and Justice Center, departments such as Superior and Municipal courts, county clerk, marshal, public defender, district attorney, probation, and coroner all must be considered along with the sheriff's substation.

And Townsend points out the present sheriff-court complex is overcrowded. With Expo, those problems would become far greater, he said.

BOAT BUILDING BEGINS

Students and an instructor at a boat building class at the Mira Loma Space Center take delivery of an empty boat hull, donated by the Alajuela Co. of Costa Mesa. The federally funded class was started to train area residents for work in the boat building and repairing industries. Bob Marr, right, from Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s office, observes as instructor Bob Gass outlines plans to students Charlotte Jeffs, Gail Wyatt and Kris Talbott.

With varied enrollment

Boat building draws interest

Boat builders come in all shapes and sizes.

Bob Gass found that out recently when three young women enrolled in his boat building class at the Mira Loma Space Center east of Ontario.

Charlotte Jeffs, Gail Wyatt and Kris Talbott were among 30 students to join a job training program geared to preparing area residents for work in boat building and repairing industries.

The program is being financed by federal funds and administered through the state Office of Employment and Training and the Inland Manpower ssociation.

Three classes of four months each are planned this year. Those enrolled must be unemployed or underemployed.

Gass says he is pleased with the turnout of 30 for his first class. Besides the three women, six Vietnamese students and several blacks and Chicanos are enrolled, he noted.

"The women are tremendously competitive and doing very well," reports Gass. "It may seem unusual having girls in boat building, but the state is now emphasizing the entry of women in trade skills such as carpentry, auto mechanics and other areas."

Gass' training program has barely gotten underway, and he recently received his first hull. The empty hull was given to him by Alajuela Co. of Costa Mesa.

When the students finish the sailing vessel, it will be a 38-foot "double-ender" built for cruising around the world, he said.

Graduates of the class will be placed in jobs in marine areas of Los Angeles and Orange counties where boat production is concentrated.

The Mira Loma program has been called the "Tradewind Academy" and teaches modern fiberglass boat building techniques.

Students have come from the West End and eastern Los Angeles County.

Gass, the instructor for the class and former deputy director of planning for the IMA, said three-quarters of an acre next to "Tradewind Academy" has been set aside for a community boat yard. Anyone wishing to build a boat there may do so, and would receive tips from qualified instructors.

Those interested in applying for the boat programs may contact West End Multi-Service Center, 200 S. Euclid Ave., Ontario. Students enrolled receive $2.50 an hour in wages while they are learning.

Crime reduction sought

Altering Pomona's image

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

Attempting to combat what they see as a negative image of Pomona, a group of apartment owners, homeowners, and residents, has banded together in an attempt to alter that image.

The group, known as the Pomona Southwest Council, has taken a number of steps hoped to reduce crime, change the quality of neighborhoods, and alter peoples negative perceptions of the city.

Consisting of residents in what was once described as a high crime area, the group has apparently been successful in reversing that trend.

In addition, the group has been largely responsible for the renovation of many of the apartments and houses in the area, many of which had been boarded up for years.

Members of the council, representing a number of owners of property in the southwest section of Pomona, met recently to discuss possible solutions to the problems confronting Pomona.

Victor G. Tessier, an apartment owner and local attorney, reported that crime and deteriorization in an area is usually caused by a handful of individuals who are repeatedly a problem no matter where they live.

One of the council's most effective tools to prevent such trouble makers from ruining an area is to have them evicted if they are a repeated problem.

"We are talking about a couple of people who make life miserable for everyone else living in the area," said Tessier.

"If we continue to force the dope peddlers and prostitutes and trouble makers out of the area by eviction proceedings, and as a group refuse to rent to anyone who has caused problems, we can continue to attract good people to our neighborhoods," he said.

The council keeps records of tenants who have been evicted or are in the process of being evicted from local properties. These can be used by landlords to help them screen potential tenants.

For property owned by absentee landlords who do not properly maintain rental units, the council applies pressure on the landlord to convince him to voluntarily upgrade his property. If that fails the council will initiate legal action.

"One of our biggest problem areas is convincing some absentee landlords it is in their best interest to upgrade the quality of their property.

"Some of them show no concern for the type of tenant who is allowed to rent or for the condition their property is in.

"It is about time people started caring," he said.

A number of those present at the meeting were critical of the police protection in the areas they lived.

"I think the level of police protection is much better than it was before, but it still takes officers much to long to respond to calls in our area," said Henry Cole, a council member.

"The crime problem in our area is often caused by juveniles who have no respect for the rights of others," he said. "We know who these people are and yet neither the parents nor the police will do anything about it."

In response, police Lt. D. L. Liming, who was also present, promised to look into the matter.

"I know there are sometimes cases where we just don't have the manpower to respond to situations as quickly as we would like. But if there are cases where officers who are free are not responding, then you can be sure we will do something about it," he said.

The council announced four goals it believed must be accomplished before Pomona will again be an attractive city. They are better police protection, renovation of decaying buildings that are still usable, an upgrading of the Pomona Mall and other commercial areas in the city, and better city services through better communication between residents and city government.

Business license fee not welcome

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The Ontario business community is overwhelmingly opposing an ordinance that would increase the business license fees within the city.

More than 163 owners of businesses have registered written protests against the proposed ordinance with Kenneth Stickney, utilities and license manager for the city. More protests are expected during the public hearing on the issue set for 7 p.m. Tuesday.

In protesting the measure that would incorporate the entire city in a business improvement area and another tax upon the existing business license fee, the business people also lodged complaints of poor service from the city now and accusations that the city wants to drive out the small business owner.

Only two letters, from the Ontario Downtown Merchants Association and the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, support the levy that would increase business fees from $14 to $99 per business. The downtown business section is already in a special promotional district and pays additional charges. If the ordinance were adopted by council, the resolution governing that district would be rescinded.

Many pointed out that their business within the city limits of Ontario is marginal at best and only a small percentage of their profits are derived from Ontario. These marginal operators included mainly gardeners and special distributing companies. Some, including operators of the Copper Kettle Candy Co., promised that they would close up shop and terminate servicing accounts in Ontario if the ordinance passes.

Mrs. J. O'Gorman, owner of Lady Ann Apartments cited high water and trash bills, poor street maintenance, lack of cleanup of alleys and streets and lack of enforcement of ordinances prohibiting large trucks from parking on small residential streets. She added "We feel you should try to solve the above problems first and not ask people to pay additional taxes when we're really not getting very good service. In fact, we've lived in lots of cities and Ontario is the worst as far as city services go."

Glenn Barfell, owner of G and G Sales, commented "The small business owner is simply being crushed beneath the burden of taxes. I fear that if this increase and all the other taxes pending continue, soon you will be administering a lot of empty buildings all over Ontario."

In response to the explanation the additional levy will provide funds for the hiring of a retail promotional expert, D.V. Kral, owner of Beltone Hearing Aid Service, wrote "No one else is as familiar with my business and all its ramifications as I am. No one else is qualified. One of the big problems of trying to run a business now is too much government. We most certainly do not need more."

Graydon Murphy of Murphy Oldsmobile dealership summed up the sentiments of the protestors. He said "It is unfortunate that the councils of some cities when hunting for ways to raise money can only think of imposing an additional tax on the business community. This is one of the reasons that business has been driven out of the city into outlying areas . . . I plead that every City Council person consider very sincerely their responsibility for keeping business within the city. Although we do not control the most votes, we do furnish the most money. Our volume is large, but our percentage of profit is very small. Any additional tax at this time is unbearable."

Great American smokeout planned by cancer society

The "Great American Smokeout" is coming.

The smokeout is a light-hearted effort to encourage more than one million California smokers to stop smoking for just one day — Thursday.

A recent American Cancer Society poll revealed that smokers are aware of the dangers of smoking. They just can't break the habit.

Society officials hope that if smokers can quit for one day, they may decide it wasn't all that distressing and abstain entirely from cigarets.

Smokers are urged to sign a pledge not to smoke on just the one day. If the next morning begins with the usual cigaret, the smoker will still know the habit can be controlled.

Some smokers will get through Thursday without a cigaret. Others won't.

The Cancer Society has set a realistic objective for the promotion. It hopes that one of every five smokers in the state will sign pledges.

The signed pledge is important, society officials believe, since it serves as an important psychological commitment.

Locally, 20 Explorer Scouts from the Pomona Valley Community Hospital medical post will solicit pledges from smokers.

Freedom from the cigaret habit is like other freedoms, said society officials. "It is won day by day with small victories and occasional retreats."

Speaker slated

Jerry Allen, a fourth-year student at the School of Theology in Claremont, will be the speaker at a public convocation Tuesday at 11:45 a.m. in the school's Mudd Auditorium.

Allen spent the last academic year on a special project in Nairobi, Kenya, and will speak on "Our Ministry to International Organizations: A Back Door View from Kenya."

Clear skies predicted

Clear skies and warmer weather are predicted for the valley for the next couple of days, a pleasant change from the overcast skies, occasional showers and cool weather which marked the weekend.

While local residents awakened this morning to a bright blue sky and a view of the mountains, travelers in the San Bernardino area were forced to find their way through dense fog in some areas.

The National Weather Service predicts gusty winds in the valley late today. The high today is expected to be between 65 and 75 with the warming trend continuing through Tuesday when the thermometer will hit the high 70s. Overnight lows will be between 45 and 52.

Leaks in U.S. embargo

Buried in the back pages of most newspapers during the last, hectic days of the presidential election campaign was the announcement by the Ford administration that it had okayed the sale of sophisticated computer system to the Soviet Union and China.

The proposed sale of Control Data Corp.'s "Cyber 172" computers and support systems had been strongly opposed by the Energy Research and Development Administration and the Pentagon on the grounds that they could be used to improve the nuclear capabilities of the Communist superpowers.

Whether or not the decision constitutes a major breach in this country's long-standing embargo against the sale of high-technology or "strategic" products to the Communists (a Control Data spokesman says its computer is really "on the lower end of the technological scale of development"), the embargo apparently has as many holes in it as a sieve.

The illegal flow of embargoed technology to Soviet bloc nations especially is a growing problem, and one that U.S. officials are finding hard to control, reports Electronics magazine.

It requires deviousness but it is relatively easy for Iron Curtain countries to buy embargoed U.S. technology, and price is no object, says the magazine. The Soviet bloc "will use any means possible" to get this equipment, it quotes Charles B. Clements, director of the compliance division of the Commerce Department's Office of Export Administration.

One method is to move restricted components and instruments out of the United States by diplomatic pouch. A more usual procedure, however, is to divert equipment from a legitimate source in Western Europe.

Equipment can be shipped under general license to so-called Free World nations without application to the Commerce Department, and U.S. companies say they have no way to police overseas customers to be sure they are not reselling it to a third party.

Equipment, says Clements, is shipped from one location to another, is re-crated and re-marked at each point, until eventually everyone loses track of it.

While some U.S. manufacturers believe the embargo on the flow of key industrial and technological know-how to the Communists should be maintained, others complain of being frustrated as they watch their traditional Japanese and West European competitors do a thriving business with the Communists.

Truman scholarships

Last year Congress established the Harry S. Truman Scholarship Foundation, both as a memorial to the 33rd president and as a means of encouraging outstanding young people to seek careers in government.

The foundation is now accepting applications for the first 53 scholarships. One Truman Scholar will be selected from each state, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and, considered as a single entity, Guam, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa and the Pacific Islands Trust Territory.

The scholarships, which will provide a maximum of $5,000 a year for up to four years of undergraduate and graduate study, will be awarded to college students who will be in their junior year next fall. Deadline for submitting applications for the 1977 scholarships, however, is December 15, 1976.

Interested students who think they might qualify and who can "demonstrate a firm commitment to public service" can get application forms and details about requirements from the Truman Scholarship faculty representative at their college or university.

They can also obtain forms and further information from the Harry S. Truman Scholarship Foundation, 712 Jackson Place, N.W., Washington, D.C.

Think on these things

We cannot think clearly nor work well when all we can do is think of fear and worry.

Far too much time is spent dreading whatever it is before us to do. Delay where possible seems to be the rule, and every minute is agony.

To make a beginning takes strength — but what a motivator! To move quickly away from all the questions and reasoning on why something won't work is to find the work already begun. It takes some bravery that seems a little foreign to us — but with a beginning comes a little more boldness. When we think we are no longer able to keep going the worst is over. All because of a beginning.

A losing proposition

Dear Editor:

We are still struggling in our attempt to help Rhodesia.

Rhodesia's African National Council apparently objects as much to the idea of black representative government as white. You don't make quite clear whether the Council representatives are their guerilla groups in the neighboring countries or the neighboring countries themselves. In either event they would hardly enthuse in representative government.

Since we have long contributed to guerilla activity, what to do now? Maybe the World Council of Churches can devote this year's $600,000 to feeding the hungry, rather than promoting murder and mayhem.

Kissinger's idea has been to buy out the whites at U.S. expense. Integration has not been promoted as enthusiastically in Africa as the U.S.

You raise your eyebrows at hot pursuit by the Rhodesian army, to discourage raids. Why? We are unhappy at the way Angola was "freed." Maybe we should change our investment policies.

The blacks have long had representation in Rhodesia. We could help best by encouraging them in a properly democratic manner. So far we haven't tried it. Spending our efforts trying to keep the guerillas happy is a losing proposition. They are primarily interested in loot.

Hebert leaves, Army grieves

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon delivered its biggest bicentennial salute this year not to one of our dead military heroes, but to Rep. F. Edward Hebert, the crotchety old Democrat from Louisiana, who is still very much alive.

The crusty Congressman is finally stepping down after a 36-year career dedicated primarily to championing causes dear to the hearts of the brass hats.

Hebert was a member of the House Armed Services Committee from its inception in 1947, and served as the committee's chairman from 1971 to 1974 when a group of feisty freshmen deposed him in favor of someone less inclined to carry water for the Pentagon.

Hebert had indeed been a one-man bucket brigade for the military. From the center of a two-tiered curved desk, with two small American flags flanking him, he ruled the committee with the stern hand of a drill sergeant. At times, he appeared to be playing Charley McCarthy to the Pentagon's Edgar Bergen. Perched upon the Defense Departmgnt's knee, he opened his mouth and the military spoke.

The brass hats deeply appreciate such faithful service, so they decided to bid farewell to the old soldier in style. As an occasion for the ceremony, they chose homecoming weekend at Tulane University, in Hebert's hometown of New Orleans. Tulane, appropriately enough, was playing Army.

With a blaring of trumpets and rolling of drums, military officials assembled the night before the game to say goodbye. The Secretary of the Army was present, as was the Army Chief of Staff, the West Point Commandant, and a host of lesser lights.

Four military bands, one from each of the services, played swan songs for Hebert. The Army had flown in its 60-man Chorus and Herald Trumpets, which usually plays only at the White House in honor of visiting heads of state. The 80-member Army Chief of Staff's band, decked out in special bicentennial uniforms, was also there.

The Chorus and Herald Trumpets led the other bands in a ceremonial military tattoo. It was the first time such a tattoo had ever been performed on a college campus.

Hebert, according to eyewitnesses, was "visibly moved" by the military's farewell for him. The taxpayers should be moved as well: it cost them $27,158 to bid aloha to Eddie Hebert.

Footnote: A military spokesman claimed the money spent in honor of Hebert's departure was not wasted. The ceremony, he said, "provided good local exposure for recruiting."

STAFF POWER — It isn't always the Senators but their anonymous aides who pull the strings on Capitol Hill. Sometimes the busy Senators are only dimly aware of what their assistants are doing in their names.

Take the case of Wallace Johnson, a quietly efficient member of Senator Harrison Williams' staff. The Senator, a Democrat from New Jersey, is a power on Capitol Hill. This enhances the status of Johnson, who acts in Williams' name.

Johnson, therefore, has become the object of the attentions of Robert Pines, a New York contractor, who sells about $2 million worth of pipe annually to the government.

Pines often wines and dines the unsung Senate aide at the fashionable eating spots of New York City and Washington. "We talk business over dinner, and I pick up the tab. It's a way of doing business," Pines acknowledged to our reporters, Andy Penn and Jim Platt.

Pines has also dropped a few hundred dollars into Senator Williams' campaign chest — $950 that we have been able to trace. He made the contributions, he admitted, to "nurture" his relationship with the Senator.

When Pines wants a favor in return, he calls upon Johnson. For example, Pines dearly wanted a $179,000 pipe contract from the General Services Administration back in April, 1973. So he dashed off a "Dear Wally" letter to his favorite dinner companion, asking for help in obtaining the contract.

"I appreciate the friendship of you folks," Pines added, "and if called upon at election time shall as ever express my material appreciation." Then in a postscript, he enclosed a copy of the contract bid and asked Johnson to call GSA.

GSA records confirm, indeed, that Johnson made the requested call and that Pines was awarded the contract. It is uncertain whether Johnson's call influenced GSA's decision, since Pines was also the low bidder on the contract.

But GSA records show that Johnson intervened three subsequent times when Pines had problems with the contract. The GSA contracting officer called the interventions "unusual." It was all the more unusual since Pines doesn't happen to be a New Jersey constituent.

Johnson took a two-year leave from the Senator's staff and returned last January. Joyfully, Pines contributed $300 to the Williams campaign "to celebrate the return of Wally Johnson."

Footnote: Senator Williams told us he was not involved in the string pulling for Pines. But the Senator, while expressing full confidence in Wallace Johnson, also accepted full responsibility for any impropriety that might have occurred.

It's a wonder anyone runs

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Some years back I spent a good deal of my spare time trying to persuade outstanding men and women in my community to run for office.

I rarely succeeded, and only after months of effort.

Once talked into running, good men and women were not difficult to get elected, even though my party was a stark minority in the area in which I lived. For members of the other major party found it equally difficult to get inspiring candidates.

The difficulties in these candidate searches lay not just with local positions — city councilman or county board of supervisors — but were equally vexing when it came to selling outstanding people on running for the state legislature and Congress.

Those we approached, of course, were successful in their work, whether in business, writing, teaching, science, farming or government. Those who were young did not want to interrupt their careers. Those who had retired saw little satisfaction in taking the abuse levied on all politicians, the good and bad alike.

Numbers were convinced too, that if elected there was little that could be accomplished. They believed they had little chance of bucking the majority, composed as it was of so few who pursued the public interest. They saw too many lawmakers and administrative officials feathering their nests, being so dependent on special interest groups or so busied with the day-to-day trivia of their jobs that they had no time to give serious study to the important laws on which they voted or to the serious tasks for which they were responsible.

They feared getting caught in the treadmill wherein an official is forced to keep re-election so forcibly in mind that his day-to-day actions become warped. The official becomes engrossed not in what should be done for the best interests of his constituents, but in what must be done to be certain of getting 51 per cent of the votes the next go round.

Each man we approached knew he must be prepared to have all his family skeletons rattled, including those over which he had no control and which, by no stretch of the imagination, would have any influence on the manner in which he carried on his work in office.

He knew he must be prepared to have his name blackened by any foul rumor the opposition or any crackpot should choose to dredge up. If the office were high, he knew his family would have no privacy and the real or imagined faults of wife and children would be spelled out in the gossip columns. We would know who in the family, be it wife, brother, child or sister-in-law, allegedly drank too much, now or in the past, and who made any kind of slip.

Yet when we go to the polls we expect the man or woman we vote for to be a great speaker, a superb debater, personable in looks — that he have a certain mystique, not to mention instant solutions for all our problems.

We demand too that our office holder, whether in the executive or the legislative branch, high or low, be a bountiful dispenser of individual favors to all who ask. We demand not only that he provide more work generally, but that he intervene personally for any job any constituent wants, and for any government promotion any voter believes he deserves. We expect him to step in personally to get the road in front of our house widened — or not widened — and to intervene if we believe the Internal Revenue Service had made a mistake in analyzing our tax liability.

The wonder is that anyone runs for office except born losers.

Just in jest

Once back in the days of my youth the ills of life were really terrifying. — Well, perhaps that isn't exactly the way I should put it. Actually the ills of life weren't half as bad as the remedies we were forced to take to cure them. Any of you who have ever gagged on sulphur and molasses or turpentine and rock candy are fully aware of what I mean.

Which was undoubtedly why many of today's old timers appeared to be so healthy in their youthful days. Realizing the cure would invariably be worse than the disease, they just suffered in silence. — But how different it all is now! At long last, thanks to the magic of television commercials, we old folks can finally settle back and really enjoy the ills of life.

In fact, we can pick and choose those ills from an endless list which includes such interesting ailments as Problem Dandruff, Excess Stomach Acid, Sinus Headaches, Constipation, Diarrhea, Nasal Drip, Bad Breath, Under Arm Wetness, Crippling Arthritis, Flaky Skin and even the Heartbreak of Psoriasis, knowing full well that today for every ill there is an extra strength remedy readily available at the corner drugstore.

Jerry Brown loses status

By EARL G. WATERS

With the campaigning behind them, legislators are turning their attention to the matters ahead. While the elections left party control pretty much as it was in the hands of the Democrats, the foibles of Gov. Jerry Brown throughout the political year are certain to result in material changes in his relationships with the lawmakers.

For Brown's political failures were monumental and were climaxed by colossal errors in the campaign just concluded. Starting the year with a popularity gained by his psuedo pose as a non-politician, Brown threw away his pristine image in a frenetic attempt to grab the brass ring in the presidential hustings. Failing that, he then attempted to establish himself as the pied piper of California by leading everyone to the support of Cesar Chavez and his Prop. 14.

He not only was embarrassingly exposed as a false prophet but took U.S. Senator John V. Tunney down with him and very nearly did the same to Jimmy Carter and a host of legislators. As a Democratic leader, or any other kind for that matter, his name is zilch with the President-elect.

The significance of Brown's defeats is not lost upon the legislators. No longer viewing him as the anointed party hero, the solons are scurrying about reorganizing their thinking. In the Senate this means a reorganization of its own leadership. President Pro Tem James Mills momentarily appears secure. He has not stuck his neck out supporting Brown nearly as far as Speaker Leo McCarthy. So the Senate is concentrating at the moment in selecting replacements for its inner house governing committee, the Rules Committee. Three of the five members of that group have retired. Other retirements and defeats have opened up committee chairmanships which will affect the selections for the Rules Committee.

In the Assembly McCarthy's unswerving support of Brown for the past two years has already been the subject of criticism among the troops. True, McCarthy did split with Brown on Prop. 14. Since San Francisco was one of the two counties in the state which voted for it, he could have joined Brown in its endorsement without harming himself in his home district. But supporting it would have hurt him as the Assembly leader. And it is clear that he will have to break even more with Brown if he wants to retain that leadership.

What is axiomatic in the game of politics is that those in office don't want to be shackled with losers. Brown stands now as a loser. Even state legislators want to believe they have some influence with the national administration. The Democrats know that neither Brown nor anyone too closely identified with him will be able to get a phone call through to the White House janitor, let alone the President.

They, like Carter and the host of party workers within the state, are painfully aware that Brown fooled nobody with his pretended support of Carter. Appearing on television to the point of repulsion in support of Prop. 14, Brown did practically nothing in Carter's behalf other than appear on a few campuses.

So, at the very least, the Democrats within the state are now irreparably split between the Carter and Brown camps. In such a situation the odds must go easily to a sitting President. Legislators, whose first interest is their own survival in office, aren't likely to overlook where their best chances lie.

The situation omens tough sledding ahead for the governor. No longer will the legislators fear him or think it necessary to cater to him. He will find them much more resistant to his proposals and indeed may find them unwilling to submit to his arrogant vetoing of their legislation. He will find how transitory is popularity and the power that goes with it.

Ann Landers

Just keep mouths shut

Dear Ann Landers: My husband works for a large firm based in Pittsburgh. A few weeks ago they sent a new district manager here. His wife and their two young children arrived Monday.

Last night a VP from Pittsburgh hosted a party to officially welcome the new man and his wife. She is a very pretty woman and most gracious.

On the way home my husband told me he almost died when he met the new manager's wife. He swears she was a $100 call girl in Pittsburgh — and there is no chance he is mistaken. When I asked how he could be so sure, he said, "She was sent to my hotel by a company that wanted us to buy supplies from them." I asked if he accepted her "favors." He said, "Yes, but that was before I met you."

What should be done about this awkward situation? — Unstrung

Dear Un: You and your husband should make a pact to keep your mouths shut. The "gracious lady" is NOT going to tip her mitt if she recognizes your husband as a former client. In the meantime, revealing her past would serve no useful purpose.

Dear Ann Landers: I love my grandchildren and daughter-in-law but every time I visit them (three or four times a year) their home is dirtier than the time before.

My son and his wife are raising their children beautifully, they are the world's best parents — but the stench in the house is unbearable.

The dog snatches food from our plates. The cats walk on the table after it has been set for meals. They are forever jumping up on the kitchen work boards and climbing over dishes that have been left to dry.

The thought of eating from plates the cats walked over makes me ill. I've even thought of calling the Board of Health — anonymously.

If I say something to my son or his wife it will surely damage our relationship. What do you suggest, Ann? — Ashamed To Sign

Dear Ashamed: Wash your own plate and silver just before you eat.

Perhaps someone will notice and provide you with an opportunity to tell them why you are doing it. Otherwise keep your mouth shut.

Of course it's sickening but it's their house and they make the rules. (The kids will probably grow up immune to EVERYTHING!)

Dear Ann Landers: Last week I had my first thorough physical examination — I mean inside and out. I'm a healthy young woman and wasn't concerned about myself.

The doctor poked, pressed, and pried with instruments and lights. All he said was, "Hmmmm-mm." After the examination I was told I was OK, that the results of the blood tests and urinalysis would be mailed to me. They arrived today and I'm in excellent condition.

I wonder if that doctor knows how much it would have meant to me if, during the examination, he had said a few words — for example, "This looks good." Or, "Nothing abnormal here" — just a sentence or two would have eased my anxiety. Silence can be so frightening to a patient.

Please print this. It's something they don't teach in medical school. — N.Y. Fan

Dear N.Y.: You spoke in behalf of millions today — including me. And now, I hope every patient who feels as you do will come right out and tell the doctor, BEFORE the examination, exactly what you told me.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Doctors' excuse labeled 'phoney'

Bruited about of late is the common notion that the typical doctor declines to give emergency treatment at an accident for fear the injured patient might subsequently file a malpractice lawsuit. In stories that mention such legal actions, they're known as Good Samaritan cases. But do they really ever come up? A medical journal of sound reputation asked its readers to document any such instances, offering $100 to the first subscriber who could submit a provable case. None turned up. It's a widely known fact that medical malpractice suits have multiplied greatly recently. But insiders insist the threat of legal action as a result of Good Samaritan treatment is phony.

No repair shop owner who serves the public should fail to post the following sign over his parts counter: "Of course I want it today. If I wanted it tomorrow, I'd order it tomorrow."

WRESTLING

Q. "Does the winner get more money than the loser in a professional wrestling match?"

A. Not ordinarily. Those entertaining fellows work on salaries, mostly. They're assigned by their promoters whether to be the hero or the villain and when to win or lose. They work out of booking agencies like stand-up comics and after-dinner speakers.

Q. "How'd we get started giving feminine names to hurricanes?"

A. That began in Australia. Cyclones there first were named after politicians. The politicians complained. Then they were named after politicians' wives. The wives complained. So finally they were just named after women in general.

INSURANCE

When Lloyd's of London sometime back insured a theatre-goer against dying of laughter at a certain play performance, it was obviously a publicity stunt. But that was not thought to be the case when the firm met the request of a worried soul who bought a policy against being struck by a meteorite. Already reported was the fact that Lloyd's once, too, wrote insurance that promised some sort of compensatory payment in the event the insured were ever to see a ghost.

Most of the people in Africa want to move into the city. Most of the people in the United States want to move out to the country. The international surveytakers found that out. They conclude: The more industrialized the nation, the greater the longing for rural living, and visa versa.

Wasn't too long ago, really, that the Japanese had two different forms of writing, one for men, the other for women.

Relaxing(?) on the golf course

Well, we don't have Gerald Ford to kick around anymore.

When it became apparent that the landslide for the peanut vendor was not just another poll-ish joke, the non-elected and non-re-elected President betook himself to the Thunder Bird Country Club in Palm Springs for R & R.

This is well and good. He had worked hard and was obviously suffering battle fatigue. It is a bitter blow to lose the election, of course, but even though he's out of a job, I doubt if he can share the agonies of the average unemployed in this country. From a grateful government, Ford gets more than $100,000 including Congressional back pay and military pension, plus a lavish office to write his memoirs attacking Carter, a staff of secretaries and more bodyguards than the Godfather. He couldn't have done better if he'd worked for Sears. I don't see him lining up for food stamps and unemployment checks.

Unemployment clerk (looking over his job application dubiously): "You are looking for an executive job, Mr. — er, Mr. Ford? What was your last position? President of the United States? I see. And before that you were? Vice president? You seem to have a tendency to flit from job to job. Not an indication of stability. Do you have a letter of recommendation from your last employer? Oh, Mr. Kissinger is in Tel Aviv, but you're sure that as soon as he gets back . . . hm. Well, take a number and go stand in the "F" line for your unemployment check. If anything in the way of head of a nation turns up, we'll notify you."

When Ford and the First Family pro-tem jetted out to the sunny California desert, it was with the avowed purpose of relaxing, having a good time, no pressure. But what was the first thing he did. He played GOLF! A man who thinks of golf as relaxing, having a good time, clearly disqualifies himself for the responsibilities of running a nation. I wouldn't trust him with a rest home.

Have a good time playing golf, when your drives slice into the trees and your 3-woods hook into the water? Are you having fun when you find yourself lying three already and three-quarters buried in a sand trap on a par three hole? Are you really enjoying yourself trying to wedge onto the fairway from behind a large pine tree? Is it a thousand laughs when your 3-iron soars over the fence, bounces in the highway and rolls half way to Twentynine Palms?

Relax, he says. Relax? When that water hazard looms like the Panama Canal in front of you? When the sand trap yawns like the Sahara Desert? When a four-foot birdie putt grabs your knees like a meeting with Brezhnev on nuclear restrictions?

No pressure? You're already one over and you're faced with a 9-iron shot that would challenge Jack Nicklaus. Hit it just right, quarter swing, hands forward, and you split the hole. Blow it and it's a double bogie. Iran, South Korea, busing, unemployment, inflation, bankrupt cities — what are these to the pressure of an absolute must 9-iron struck with the delicate touch of a surgeon?

I've always liked Jerry Ford — voted for him, in fact — but if he thinks the golf course is any place to relax and have a good time, he shouldn't be allowed out by himself.

Dr. Miller

Primates prone to tuberculosis

DEAR DR. MILLER: While I've never been particularly fond of Kong, my sister's monkey, I must admit he's an interesting animal and she's taken good care of him over the years. One thing I've always worried about when in the same room with him is that he coughs a lot. When I asked my sister if that could be tuberculosis, I know monkeys can get it, she said no, he's always been healthy and he's always been plump. I believe her, I think, but I'd like some help on how you can tell if a monkey has T.B.? — M.C.

DEAR M.C.: Monkeys and all other primates are definitely susceptible to tuberculosis. The disease is most commonly picked up from humans during the stressful time when the poor primate is captured, shipped and — if it lives long enough — sold. (In recent years, sale of these animals has been increasingly restricted.) Consequently, Kong would be a less likely candidate for T.B., but only his doctor could tell for sure, by testing. Coughing is common in monkeys, with or without T.B. The condition of the animal isn't necessarily an indicator of this disease, either, since a monkey in apparently excellent condition and without any apparent symptoms might suddenly die from tuberculosis. Fortunately for monkeys (and for some humans), comparatively few monkeys are still being kept as pets. Those who are should routinely be given T.B. tests by their veterinarians.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Would giving our shedding dog a lot of meat help him? — G. Mac T.

DEAR G. Mac T.: Undoubtedly he'd think so. A portion of cheap (?) hamburger might be of benefit, since the contained fat might benefit the skin and hair coat, but only if his diet were fat deficient previously.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Kittykins, our cat, has an incurable disease — it's not cancer. We'd like to keep her as long as possible, she's important to us, we love her. But we don't want her to suffer. How do you know when an animal is in pain? We would put her gently to sleep rather than see her suffer. — C.B.

DEAR C.B.: Kittykins can give you clues on whether any given day is a good or a bad one for her by her disposition, demeanor, and, on a bad day, depression. However, since some cats are stoical, and others hypocondriacs, her doctor must help you make these determinations.

Dr. Lamb

High pressure needs medicine

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am concerned about the medicine that my husband has been taking for seven years for high blood pressure. His blood pressure is normal now, 140 over 80, but the doctor says he still should keep taking Enduron, one tablet each morning.

DEAR READER — Enduron is another medicine to help people eliminate salt and water. It is used commonly to help control mild high blood pressure. It will not hurt your husband.

Many people who have high blood pressure and require treatment will have to take it the rest of their lives. The medicine keeps the blood pressure at normal levels. If your husband stops taking his medicine he may be right back where he started in a very short time.

Again, anyone who has high blood pressure should get rid of every excess pound of body fat. I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently I read that taking insulin could cause blindness. I am a diabetic and take insulin. Now I'm really scared that the insulin will cause me to go blind. Should I stop my insulin and follow some diet to control my diabetes? Would you send me a diet I could use instead of taking insulin?

DEAR READER — No, I am not going to help you do something that would be harmful to you. Those scare stories were about some really interesting research but research is all it is at the moment.

The story related to the idea that people become "allergic" to insulin and this causes the overgrowth of blood vessels in the back of the eye that can lead to blindness in diabetics.

There is not a single case on record of this occurring in humans. Dr. George Cahill, president of the American Diabetic Assn. and professor of medicine at Harvard has already pointed out that this eye problem also occurs in patients who do not take insulin.

Biological research is complicated. You can produce a fever by causing heat stroke but that does not mean all fevers are indicative of heat stroke. The old dictum in logic is that "the simultaneous occurence of two events does not prove a cause and effect relationship." So it is with the animal research on insulin. The fact that we can produce vascular changes in animals in certain controlled conditions does not prove that this is how they are caused in diabetics.

The best way we know at present to prevent these eye problems is to adequately control the diabetes. That means following your doctor's instructions. While I am on the subject let me say once again that no one should ever stop taking medicines on his own. This can be dangerous. Suddenly stopping your medicines may cause a reaction in some cases. The epileptic, for example, who takes Dilantin may be thrown into a severe convulsive attack if he suddenly stops Dilantin on his own.

In your case stopping your insulin could allow your diabetes to get worse and could cause diabetic coma with really serious consequences. The way to get the most out of your doctor's instructions is to follow them.

Again Jesus spoke to them, saying, "I am the light of the world; he who follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the right of life." — John 8:12.

"The hero is one who kindles a great light in the world, who sets up blazing torches in the dark streets of life for men to see by. The saint is the man who walks through the dark paths of the world, himself a light." — Felix Adler, American ethical reformer.

And he said to them, "The sabbath was made for man, not man for the sabbath; so the Son of man is lord even of the sabbath." — Mark 2:27.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be sensible about your health habits today. Don't eat or drink anything that you know doesn't agree with you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your whims will have to be held in check today. Don't cater to your weaknesses.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're likely to seek out people today who will tell you what you want to hear, rather than the truth. Choose those who'll level with you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't flatter anyone today who isn't truly deserving, or you'll drop a few notches in the eyes of observers.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Put your blinders on if shopping today, especially for things you can't afford. Your sales resistance is very low.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's possible you will lose momentum today because of too many self-doubts. Put on a bold face. Bluff if necessary.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Problems are likely to be of your own making today. If you find yourself in a tight corner it's probably due to some sin of omission.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be extra-careful if doing business with strangers today, no matter how well recommended. Taking them at face value could prove expensive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your image is a trifle fragile today. Others will be looking for chinks in your armor. Take care how you behave around envious associates.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There is a chance your attitude today could be self-defeating. Don't look for bogeymen.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Look gift horses in the mouth today. Something intriguing could be offered that is far less than it appears to be.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) For the sake of expediency you may agree to something today that does not serve your best interests. The other party will hold you to your word.

Your Birthday, Nov. 16, 1976

Do not give up the bird in hand this coming year to chase hopeful "maybes." Your best opportunities lie along familiar lines and finishing what you start.

A Friend who's always there

"The other elevator is stuck at the third floor," the workman told me as I got on. "The doors won't open and it's full. It's been stuck for over twenty minutes." Just as he finished that sentence, our elevator passed the other elevator. The sounds of talking and laughter echoed across the elevator shafts and suddenly it struck me, "It's not bad being stuck in an elevator if you're with friends."

It's not bad being stuck anywhere if you're with friends! The wonderful thing about knowing God is that he is a friend who is always with me. And not only is God with me, but with God's ability, I have the power to get unstuck.

Are you stuck someplace? Invite God into that place with you. It's not bad being stuck if you're with a friend. Especially a friend like God.

Q. "WHO WAS CALAMITY JANE?" SANDI MENGELKOCH PLYMOUTH, MN

A. CALAMITY JANE WAS THE NICKNAME OF MARTHA JANE CANARY, A FAMOUS AMERICAN FRONTIERSWOMAN. SHE WAS AN EXPERT WITH A HORSE AND RIFLE.

Calamity Jane is the nickname of Martha Jane Canary, a famous American frontierswoman. Born in 1852 on the plains of Missouri, Calamity Jane was raised in mining camps in Montana, Wyoming, and Utah.

She learned to be an expert with a rifle and revolver and was a skilled horsewoman. Because of the roughness of the life she led, she dressed in men's clothes.

She was given her nickname because she used to warn men that to offend Martha Jane Canary was to court calamity.

According to some accounts, Calamity Jane was an Indian fighter, a scout for Col. George A. Custer, and later drove freight wagons.

She moved to Deadwood, South Dakota, during the gold rush of 1876. Two years later she became a heroine by nursing its miners through a smallpox outbreak.

She died in 1903 and is buried in Deadwood, near the grove of "Wild Bill" Hickok.

A World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

The Citrus College Jazz Ensemble will give a jazz concert Sunday at 4 p.m. Included in the varied program will be "Lonely Street," featuring alto saxophonist Leslie Edmonson; "Quincy and the Count," a Count Basie tune; "Blue Orleans," a rock tune; "Round Midnight," by Thelonious Monk and "Teare," by Ken Stanton. Also included in the concert will be an original composition by Citrus College graduate Joseph Barth entitled "Bi-Si for Jazz Band," and, as a special feature, a performance by four former Citrus musicians, the Citrus Alumni Jazz Quartet.

On Nov. 23 at 7:30 p.m., the 50-member Citrus College Wind Symphony will present a concert featuring many sections of the symphony in addition to the entire group. The flute section will be featured in "Flute Rag" and the trombone section in "The Trombone King." The percussion section will star in "Fanfare and Celebration" and the entire symphony will conclude with Symphony No. 4 in F Minor by Tchaikovsky.

Both musical groups are under the direction of Anthony Desiderio, Citrus College music instructor.

Violin recital at Ambassador

Violinist Salvatore Accardo will make his only United States recital appearance at the Ambassador Auditorium, Pasadena, at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Accardo has been referred to as "the violinistic equivalent of an Italian tenor" by the press, as critics note his astounding technique. He has won an impressive list of first prizes — including the Niccolo Paganini International Competition — and appeared with some of the world's greatest conductors — Szell, Mehta, von Karajan, Kempe, Sawallisch, Barbirolli, Haitink, Neumann and Muti.

Tickets for the performance are $6.50, $5.50 and $4.50. Both the box office and Phone Charge (BankAmericard, Master Charge or American Express) are open Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday, noon to 6 p.m. Tickets are also available through Liberty and Mutual ticket agencies.
